Federal Audit Of Marin EOC's Books Is Stalled

By ERIK INGRAM

A federal audit of the Marin Economic Opportunity Council was temporarily stalled yesterday amid reports that the agency's files are a shamble and record books are nonexistent.

As a result, federal officials at the Office of Economic Opportunity in San Francisco estimated that completion of the audit will be delayed "at least one week" — to March 6.

Meanwhile, in Marin, EOC board chairman Robert P. Simmons said he has called in a private bookkeeping firm to aid the federal auditor in "fitting the pieces together."

No official reached yesterday by the Independent-Journal was willing to speculate on why the local agency's financial records were in such a state, but Simmons said he welcomed the investigation by the district attorney's office.

As disclosed Thursday, the district attorney has launched a probe into the financial affairs of the EOC, which is under fire for using — allegedly without authorization — nearly $63,000 in federal funds mistakenly sent to it.

Both federal and local officials say they want to know how and why Executive Director W. Robert Lomax Jr. and his staff used the funds.

"As far as I'm concerned, the (EOC) doors should be open to the district attorney's office and all information made available," Simmons said.

He added that he called in the bookkeeping firm, Financial Systems of Berkeley, recommended by the federal auditor in order to reconstruct missing journals and ledgers from check stubs, bank statements, and cancelled checks.

Once that is accomplished, he said, the auditor can proceed with his review of the accounts to determine the appropriateness of agency spending.

He said the firm was to start today but could not estimate when the audit would be completed.

Too long a delay could be a serious problem for the local agency since the federal government has said it will not approve additional funds until the audit is finished and "responsible internal fiscal control" is established.

In the wake of the controversy over the $63,000, other administrative discrepancies have surfaced.

Besides a $30,000 operating deficit this year, the agency incurred a $30,000 to $40,000 deficit last year, which like the $63,000 must be repaid.

Chester Vallalba, board treasurer, told the I-J that last year's audit received in October — covering funding year 1970-71 and disclosing the first deficit — has yet to be reviewed by the EOC board and its staff.

Included in that audit, he said, were recommendations for proper fiscal control but neither he nor other board members reached could say whether Executive Director Lomax and his staff had followed the recommendations.

Vallalba said the bleak financial picture is to be discussed by the board's finance committee which will meet Tuesday at 3 p.m. at the EOC headquarters.

Nixon, Chou End Talks With An Asian Pledge

Details Will Be Given Tomorrow

HANGCHOW (UPI) — President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai concluded their summit talks today with a "basic agreement" that apparently included a pledge of total cooperation to defuse explosive peril points in Asia. The President said the pact covered "some areas" but declined to elaborate. (See other stories relating to the Peking visit on page 3.)

Nixon aides said that a communique would be issued Sunday giving details of the agreement, reached today between Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai after five days of discussions in Peking called to attempt to bridge 22 years of estrangement between the American and Chinese peoples.

(Meanwhile in Washington, it was reported Nixon will begin his visit to Moscow May 22 and may brief NATO allies in Bonn while en route home from the Soviet capital.)

The President, in a chat with reporters at this picturesque resort city, defended the secrecy surrounding the talks and would say only that there were "some areas of agreement" with the Chinese.

"The communique will speak for itself," Nixon said. "You will note I said some areas."

The communique will be issued in the nearby port city of Shanghai, where the President and Mrs. Nixon will go Sunday for the last stop on their China tour.

It will be disclosed between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. China time (midnight and 3 a.m. EST)

The President said he had "an understanding" with Chou "not to discuss the communique." He indicated this meant that the communique would be the only report of the meeting and that the agenda and areas of nonagreement would remain secret.

Although the President and his press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, refused to give details of the pact today, other officials indicated the communique would list steps for contact below the level of formal diplomatic relations. They said it also would provide for cultural exchanges, increased trade, and include a pledge for all-out cooperation between the giant nations to dampen strife in Asia.

Nixon, who stayed up until 5 a.m. today completing the agreement, was in an obviously good mood as he talked with newsmen at his guest villa on Hangchow's West Lake. He spoke with feeling and used his arms in broad sweeping gestures. He said that if there had not been secrecy, the talks might have been jeopardized.

"In my view whatever we have achieved in our talks would have been seriously jeopardized and possibly may not have been achieved at all had we at any time in the course of our talks yielded to pressure" to reveal the agenda and progress of the meeting, Nixon said.

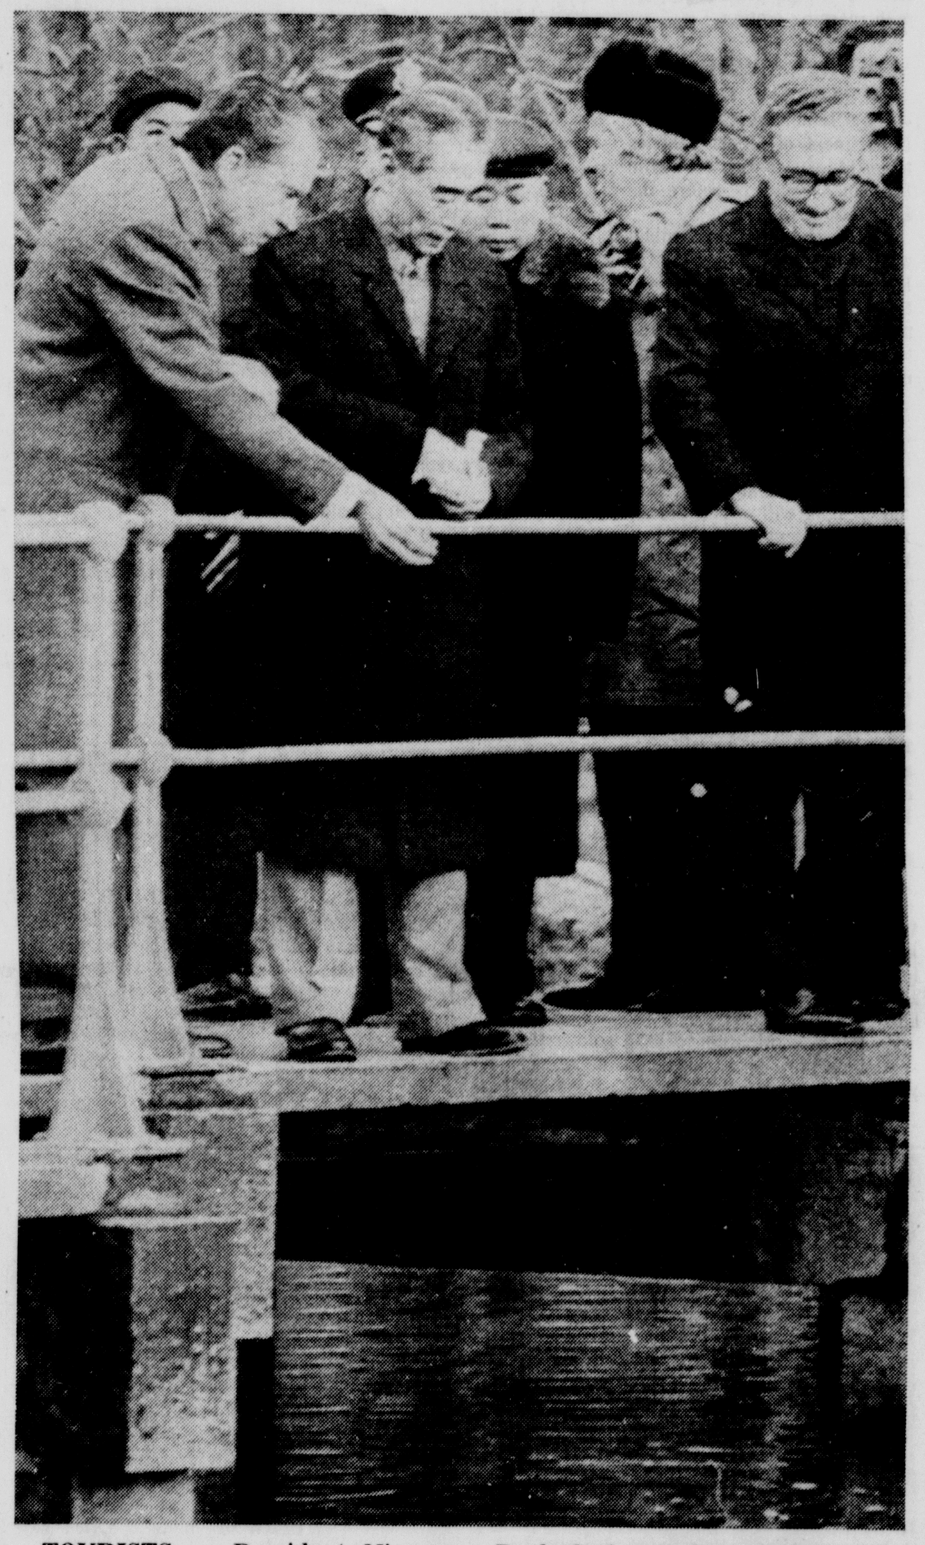

He said the talks had to be conducted in an atmosphere of "mutual trust" and added that the United States had to prove it could be trusted to keep a confidence.

It was considered possible that Nixon ould hold a second meeting here with Chairman Mao Tse-tung, who ma ntains a summer home at HangChow. Nixon met with Mao for one hour in Peking Monday. But Ziegler said no further substantive talks were planned between U.S. and Chinese officials "at this time."

The Nixons flew here this morning with Chou in a Soviet-built plane. They came for sightseeing at this lakeside city which Marco Polo called the "Venice of the Orient." The city nestles on a sparkling lake at the foot of spectacular green mountains.

Viet Copter Crashes Claim Five; Saigon General Missing

SAIGON (UPI)—U.E. spokesmen today reported nine Americans killed or missing in two helicopter crashes in South Vietnam. Three South Vietnamese servicemen were missing and feared dead, including a promising young General.

In war action Communist forces sprang three ambushes and heavily shelled an allied firebase in the Central Highlands while South Vietnamese forces struck into Cambodia in a new 1,500-man operation.

American spokesmen said the two helicopters — both UH1 Hueys — crashed accidentally Friday at Da Nang along the northern coast and at the big U.S. port and airbase of Cam Ranh Bay, 185 miles northeast of Saigon.

Listed as missing in the Da Nang crash were South Vietnamese Brig. Gen. Phan Dinh Soan, deputy commander of Military Region One, U.S. Col. Albert W. Smarr, Jr., of Columbia, S.C., two other U.S. soldiers and two Vietnamese.

The body of another American was recovered following the Da Nang crash and three Americans aboard were rescued. The helicopter plunged into Da Nang harbor as it was returning Soan and Smarr and other officers to shore from a business lunch aboard the destroyer S. S. Craig.

Soan, an artillery officer who rose from Captain to General in nine years, was considered one of the most promising officers in the South Vietnamese army. Col. Smarr was chief adviser to militia forces in Military Region One.

At Cam Ranh a U.S. Army Huey utility helicopter crashed into the ground while on a check flight after repairs. The U.S. command said four Americans were killed and a fifth vissing and believed dead. It said the crash was caused by mechanical failure.

In Central Highlands action today Communist forces struck in three ambushes between 10 a.m. and noon along Highway 14 between the highlands capital of Lleiku and the province headquarters town of Kontum, 25 miles to the north, field reports said.

The ambushes left one Vietnamese soldier dead, one wounded and three vehicles damaged, the reports said. Highway 14 is a key supply road which is considered a likely target should a Communist offensive break out in the highlands.

Earlier today Communist forces fired a 34 round barrage of 82mm mortar and 75mm recoilless rifle shells into Firebase Five, a strategic long-range artillery position that guards the northern approaches to Kontum.

Firebase Five was besieged for a month last year, and discovery of weapons and new roads and trails in the area indicated to Allied intelligence officers another round of attacks might come there.

The shelling attack was the heaviest in recent weeks, and marked the first time 75mm recoilless lless rifles had hit the base this year. Such weapons have to be fired on a line of sight from a range of about 1,000 yards and their use indicated Communist positions are close to the base perimeter.

In Saigon, the South Vietnamese command said about 1,500 of its troops had launched a new operation into Cambodia along the west bank of the Bassac River, butin two days of the drive only six guerrillas were killed.

Pastoral Indian Valley Fighting For Life

By FRANK FARRARA

Indian Valley, a haven of rural serenity threatened by rapidly approaching urban sprawl, is fighting to preserve its way of life.

Subdivisions, with their houses row-on-row, are marching toward the quiet valley west of Novato where horses romp in fields, sheep graze, rural mailboxes line the roadway and an occasional crow flies by.

The country atmosphere of the valley is threatened because it is zoned for 10,000-square-foot lots, a zoning that would accommodate 1,767 homes, where there are now 221.

Residents have been pushing for larger lots for almost two years and their efforts are near fruition with a proposed new general plan that would accommodate 476 homes.

The Main County Planning Commission will have a public hearing on the proposed plan at 8 p.m. March 6 at Hill Junior High School in Novato.

The plan is generally what the residents want: low density, a two-lane Indian Valley Road without significant traffic and the intent to preserve the character of the area, reported principal planner Rowland Darnell of the Marin County Planning Department.

It designates One-acre minimum lots in the flat area and larger lots on the slopes.

This is the last Place in the East Marin urban corridor "that this is possible," Darnell said. "Lucas Valley is gone, and they're not in danger like Sleepy Hollow," he said.

Indian Valley lies off the beaten track, "back in a pocket," and is the "last big chunk of land" in the Novato area to come up for rezoning, he explained.

The valley once was a land of flourishing orchards, but during the first half of this century, it slowly became a rural residential area.

In the early 1950s when it appeared that its ultimate fate was to be urban residential,

Hanoi Claims U.S. Is Sabotaging Talk

PARIS (UPI)—The North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks charged today the refusal of the U.S. and South Vietnamese negotiators to attend next week's session was an attempt to "sabotage" the conference while they continued to bomb the North.

The allies announced yesterday they would not attend next Thursday's session. The decision followed a Communist walkout last Thursday.

Nguyen Thanh Le, the Hanoi delegation spokesman, said the Allied refusal to meet the communists coincided with continued U.S. bombings against North Vietnam in violation of a pledge to halt the strikes.

"The Nixon administration must bear full responsibility for the consequences arising from these erroneous moves," he said.

Muskie Charge

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, today called William Loeb, publisher of the Manchester Union Leader, a liar and a coward.

Muskie, standing on a flatbed truck in a snowstorm in front of the newspaper's office, said of Loeb, "He has lied about me and my wife. He has proved himself to be a gutless coward."

Muskie, the favorite of five Democratic candidates in the New Hampshire primary March 7, was responding to the latest of many recent attacks from Loeb, a conservative who publishes his views in front-page editorials. The Union Leader is the state's largest Leader is the state's largest with morning editions.

In Chinese

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Legislation asking the state Department of Motor Vehicles to print a synopsis of traffic laws in Chinese is before the Legislature.

The resolution by Assemblymen John Burton and Willie Brown of San Francisco noted that the department currently prints a synopsis in Spanish and there has been a "recent large influx of Chinese immigrants."

To Attend Festival

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — First lady Pat Nixon and Gov. Ronald Reagan will attend the annual Sacramento Camellia Festival next Saturday, the governor's office has announced.

Mrs. Cixon will be given a gold brooch and earrings, especially created in the form of the flower, when she dedicates a grove of camellias in Capitol Park. The first lady will also receive a set of gold camellia cuff links and gold tie clasp for President Nixon.

Fairmont Fire

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A two-alarm fire which began in a kitchen caused $35,000 damage in the Fairmont Hotel atop Nob Hill yesterday. No one was hurt.

Firemen said the blaze spread upstairs to a ballroom pantry.

Winchell Estate

NEW YORK (UPI) — Walter Winchell, the columnist and broadcaster, left most of his $750,000 estate to his daughter Walda.

The will, dated Nov. 8, 1971 and filed for probate yesterday in Manhattan Surrogate Court, also showed that Winchell had excluded from his will the widow of his son, Walter Winchell Jr., who committed suicide in 1966. He left $500 each to his two grandchildren.

Winchell, who died last Sun Winchell, who died last Suncancer, left an income of $400 per week and all his tangible property to his daughter, Mrs. Eileen Walda Von Behn.

Time In Jail

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A 27-year-old woman follower of Charles Manson was sentenced to 60 days in jail yesterday for aiding the escape of another Manson family member.

Superior Court Judge Paul G. Breckenridge Jr., said as he pronounced the sentence he was unable to decide whether Sandra Good was "a menace to society or a nuisance."

Zoo's Sad Day

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — Dud Dub, the world's oldest captive seal, has died at the Point Defiance Aquarium here at the age of 33.

"I knew it was coming, but it was a sad day," Cecil Brousseau, aquarium director, said Friday. "I attribute the whole aquarium program we have today to Dub Dub."

The hair seal, whose name came from a child's description of his first home — a wooden tub the youngster called "Dub Dub," had amazed marine biologists around the world for his longevity.

GOP Leader Predicts Humphrey Will Garner Demo's Nomination

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey has gained some bipartisan acknowledgment that may be the Democrats' choice for another run against President Nixon.

House Republican Leader Gerald Ford said at Flint, Mich., that Humphrey is expected to win the nomination, but will lose to Nixon in November as he did in 1968. Ford said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, the Democratic frontrunner, is fading.

In a swing through Wisconsin today, Humphrey got the backing of former congressman John Race, who switched from the Muskie camp. "No Democrat or Republican can come close to matching Hubert Humphrey's record of doing things for people," Race said.

Sen. George E. McGovern,another of the 11 Democratic hopefuls, joined Humphrey in touring Wisconsin for the April 4 primary. McGovern opened campaign headquarters in Milwaukee at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wysockie, whom he called a "typical blue-collar worker who has been so hurt by the Nixon economic policies."

Earlier Friday McGovern and Muskie became the second and third Democrats to file the $500 fee to place their names on New Mexico's June 6 ballot. Sen. Henry M. Jackson was the first to enter.

Despite the crowded field of Democrats, Rep. Shirley M. Chisholm's bid for the nomination was seen as not being decisive by the Rev. Jesse Jackson in Chicago. Jackson, an aide to the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and a human rights activist, said "There are three or four candidacies which could be done without before Mrs. Chisholm's candidacy could be done without."

She has the exclusivity of being the only black and the only woman running to head a major party ticket.

Republican National Chairman Robert J. Dole said in a Lincoln Day dinner at Knoxville, Tenn., that the President has developed foreign policy to a point that the trip to China "could be undertaken without fear that America's motives would be misinterpreted or our resolve underestimated."

Rep. John M. Ashbrook, the conservative Republican trying to wrest the nomination from Nixon, proposed a 20 per cent cut in federal employment except in defense and law enforcement to increase efficiency and reduce expenses. Ashbrook also disclosed in a statement that William F. Buckley Jr., the conservative columnist in China with Nixon, would campaign with him Tuesday in New Hampshire.

Griffin's Amendment On Busing Doomed In Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI)— A Senate amendment that would stop federal courts from ordering racial busing of school children, tentatively adopted Friday, appeared doomed today to eventual defeat.

A UPI survey showed that moderates and liberals — including five Domestic presidential hopefuls who were off campaigning when the crucial roll call came —have the voting strength to scuttle the amendment when it comes up for another vote Tuesday.

Absenteeism was the key factor in the 43 to 40 approval of the busing ban, sponsored by Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich. stunned liberal forces tried to regroup to reverse the action but their depleted ranks were beaten, 44 to 41.

Among the 17 absentees were the five Democrats seeking their party's presidential nomination —Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, George S. McGovern of South Dakota, Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Vance Hartke of Indiana. Since all of them opposed the Griffin amendment, their votes would have defeated it 45 to 43 had the other dozen senators stayed away.

Due to a peculiar parliamentary situation, they and other absentees will have another crack at it, along with th several other busing amendments pending to a $24 billion bill to aid higher education, next week.

A check with aides of the absent senators showed the vote will swing against Griffin then, by a margin of one to three votes, if all senators but the ailing Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., show up and there are no vote switches from Friday's roll call.

The survey showed the anti-Griffin faction would pick up at least nine and perhaps 11 votes, while his supporters gain only four to five. Thus, with 99 senators in their seats, Griffin seemed assured of only 47 firm votes while his opponents apparently could count o 49.

Griffin's amendment would deny all federal courts jurisdiction to order children bused to school "on the basis of their race, color, religion or national origin." It would further forbid federal officials from coercing local school authorities into adopting such busing plans and postpone court orders requiring racial-balance busing until all appeals have been exhausted.

Angela Pays Visit To Soledad Brothers Trial; Salute Warnings

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Three days before her own murder trial is to begin black militant Angela Davis visited the courtroom where the murder trial of the "Soledad Brothers," is under way.

Accompanied by about 10 friends and bodyguards, the 28-year-old Miss Davis appeared at the heavily-guarded courtroom less than 48 hours after she was freed on bail.

Her appearance prompted Superior Court Judge S. Lee Vavuris to warn other spectators against "black power" salutes or other demonstrations.

"All right," Vavuris snapped. "Watch it, Mr. Drumgo."

Drumgo complied but as he walked farther away from the bench he made a quick half salute.

The two cases are connected. The state alleges Miss Davis furnished guns used in a plot to free the "Soledad Brothers," who are accused of slaying a prison guard.

Miss Davis was engaged in a public campaign of speeches on behalf of the "Soledad Brothers" when she allegedly supplied weapons to Jonathan Jackson, 17-year-old brother of George Jackson.

The state charged Miss Davis with murder after young Jackson drew the weapons in a Marin County courtroom and tried to kidnap a judge and other court officials in an alleged plot to free the "Soledad Brothers."

The judge, Jonathan Jackson and two others were killed in the bloodshed which followed. George Jackson was killed in an alleged escape attempt from San Quentin prison last August in which two other prisoners and three guards were killed.

Israeli Planes Attack Guerrillas In Lebanon

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli warplanes attacked Palestinian guerrilla positions in southern Lebanon for the second consecutive day today following exchanges of fire between troops and commandos in the area, military sources in Tel Aviv said.

The Israeli sources provided no further details on the raids. A spokesman for a Palestinian commando organization in Beirut said, however, that the aerial attack was preceded by an artillery barrage.

The Palestinian spokesman said the raids were directed against the villages of Rashaya Foukhar and Habbariyeh five miles inside Lebanon's border with Israel.

There was no immediate confirmation of the renewed attacks from the Lebanese army.

Lebanese officials had said earlier today they feared a new Israeli attack — this time against civilian targets — following a massive raid Friday involving Israeli planes, tanks, artillery and infantry.

Lebanese Foreign Minister Kahlil Abou Hamad met the British and U.S. ambassadors today and scheduled further meetings with other diplomatic envoys throughout the day to discuss the situation along the border.

In New York, Fakhreddine Mohammed of Sudan, president of the U. N. Security Council, called a special session of the body for today at Lebanon's request.

Edouard Ghorra, Lebanese ambassador to the United Nations, said his government wanted the council to hear Lebanon's case "in view of the extreme gravity of the situation endangering the peace and security of Lebanon."

Israeli forces, acting in retaliation for recent attacks by Lebanon-based guerrillas, struck along a 60-mile front in south and southeast Lebanon Friday to wipe out guerrilla bases.

Military sources said it was the biggest raid into Lebanon since May 12, 1970, when Israeli troops mounted a 32-hour attack on guerrilla bases in the Arkoub area.

Lebanese Prime Minister Saeb Salam said the Israeli delegate to the U. N. mixed Armistice Commission told the group after the raid started Friday other raids would follow if guerrilla activityid not stop.

"We will find ourselves forced to hit roads, villages and any other place where we think terrorists might be. If you want to avoid such incursions, it is most desireable that we know more about their bases so we will be able to hit them with as little danger as possible to the local civilian population," Salam quoted the delegate as saying.

Official Lebanese spokesmen said two civilians were killed and one civilian and a Lebanese soldier wounded in Friday's raid. Guerrillas said they lost seven men dead and 12 wounded.

Because we think our competition represents more of a threat to you than it does to us, we're going to help you sort them out.

Your Family

The greatest people in the world. Most of the time. Unfortunately, most of the time doesn't include income tax time. Because the last thing you need when you're doing your taxes is an aunt who took an accounting course just before she dropped out of college. Or a father who thinks how much money you make and what you do with it is something the rest of the family should know about.

Your Neighbors

You know the type. The mild-mannered shoe salesman next door who suddenly turns into a mathematical genius just about the time income tax is due. He knows all the angles. Some of which even the Internal Revenue Service doesn't know about yet. And he's willing to share them with you, "Just to be neighborly."

You

Your own worst enemy. All year long you can't balance your check book, but that doesn't stop you. Armed with your W-2's, a few reams of paper and a couple of gallons of coffee you bravely attack that stack of forms. You may be taking deductions you're not entitled to, and entitled to deductions you're not taking. So, should you be doing your own taxes?

Us

We're H & R Block, with over 6,000 conveniently located offices manned by thousands of specially trained tax preparers who eat, sleep, and drink income tax returns. People who set out to save you money and much of the time do it. The cost? Fees start at $5 and the average cost was under $12.50 for over 7 million customers we served last year.

Furthermore, if your return is audited we will accompany you, at no extra cost, to the Internal Revenue Service and explain how your return was prepared, even though we will not act as your legal representative.

And everyone is eligible to receive our year 'round service which is covered by our one time fee. No extra charge for help with audits, estimates, or tax questions.

We know the people we've just told you about will do your income tax return for less than we can but we don't think you can afford them.

NIXON'S PEKING VISIT

Chinese Restaurateurs Enjoy Boon In Business

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

President Nixon's visit to Peking apparently will be a boon to America's Chinese restaurant business. A restaurateur in Providence, R.I., already has named a dish "Cashewnut Diced Chicken-Nixon."

A survey by United Press International of Chinese restaurant owners in several major U.S. cities showed an upsurge in business since the President and Mrs. Nixon, with chopsticks in hand, dined on Mandarin delicacies at a banquet Monday night hosted by Chinese Premier Chou En-lai.

"I think the way the Nixons have been talking about Chinese food —and how they like it so much —has helped us," said Jimmy Wong, who owns three restaurants in Chicago.

"I EXPECT their experiences to stimulate business all over the world for Chinese restaurants and Chinese food," he said.

In Providence, R. I., Robert Iow, whose Ming Gardens has the dish named for Nixon, said that at a recent party he served dishes similar to those being prepared for the President and his entourage in Peking.

In San Francisco, with the largest Chinese colony in the United States, a poll of leading oriental restaurants indicated it was too early to tell whether Nixon's trip to Peking had improved business, because business always is brisk during the Chinese new year season.

Cecilia Chiang, a northern China refugee and operator of San Francisco's "The Mandarin," said: "We've had a bug upsurge in business doing Peking-style cooking ... on (Chinese) New Years Day we had to turn more than 200 people away."

MISS CHIANG said that because of the Nixon trip, "we had no requests for forks ... people did their best with chopsticks."

In other major U.S. cities, such as Atlanta, Baltimore, Albany, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and New York, the survey indicated that the Chinese restaurant business was seeing a light to heavy increase.

A mild turnout at Philadelphia Chinese restaurants was attributed to a snowstorm and the cold. Albany restaurant owners said it is, perhaps, too soon to tell how the President's China visit affected their business.

As far as increased advertising for their restaurants is concerned, most owners said they had not given it much thought. However, a Philadelphia waiter suggested a good ad might read: "700 million Chinese people can't be wrong."

THE MANAGER of Anita Chue's Chinese restaurant in Boston said he thinks Mrs. Nixon's visit to the Peking Hotel kitchen and remark that "Americans love Chinese food" was a great endorsement for his business. "I know it'll do us some good," he said.

In Waterville, Maine, Oren Shiro, manager of the Jefferson restaurant, said the Republican President's trip "may have some bearing" on his business. But, he added, "I have one Democrat here who says he's not going to eat any more Chinese food."

At Least Political Line In Peking Is Static One

By COURTNEY R. SHELDON
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

A correspondent with President Nixon in Peking is in the difficult circumstances of trying to interpret a historic summit meeting and at the same time understand a country with many more centures of living than his own.

Some reportorial tasks are made easier. In Peking you don't get a different political line at every street corner. Ultimately, one settles on a few Chinese who are willing to converse in detail — and that usually means government officials.

What they say is not new. It does have more interest and relevance at a time when China and the United States are groping for common ground.

THE EYE OF the visitor tells him that amidst the many splendid monuments of the dynastic past there are living conditions which are not improving as fast as the Chinese might like.

Through his ear he learns from the Chinese how great they feel progress has been since the Communists took over.

What is the life of one government worker like? "We work six days a week," he said matter of factly. No vacations? he was asked "No. We have so much to do to build our country. We are behind. We cannot afford vacations." But can't you get away once in a while?

"If we want to visit our mother and father we can go on a leave of absence."

With pay?

"Yes."

Can you save money?

Can you get interest on saved money?"

"Yes."

ALL REAL ESTATE and businesses are owned by the state, but what happens to an individual's savings and personal property when he passes on?

"We don't really have that much, but it goes to one's family."

Do you as a government worker receive higher pay than, for example, a factory worker?

"Yes, slightly."

Do you have more pay for more experience and extra pay for merit?

"Yes, both."

COMMUNES ARE different, he went on to explain. There are no set wages, but what a commune earns is divided up among the workers.

Does this mean that if a commune has very productive soil and its goods are valuable that it can keep all it earns?

"Yes, they can save their money. We go to the fields to learn the life of the workers, sometimes for a few months or even a year, sometimes nearby and sometimes hundreds of miles away," he continued.

Without wife and family?

"Yes."

Do older persons have to do this, too?

"No."

At what age would one be exempt?

"About 60 and, of course, anyone who is ill or disabled would not have to go."

SHOPPING IN PEKING

Jade Rings From $5 And Fine Silk At $2 A Yard

By NORMAN KEMPSTER

PEKING (UPI) — Jade rings for $5 or $3,000. Fine silk at $2 a yard. Intricate ivory carvings for $10 each.

This is the Friendship Store — a square block of jade, silk and fur hats near the center of Peking, already a favorite stop for the instant American colony of 300 persons traveling with President Nixon.

The Chinese may shop at the Friendship Store, but usually they do not. They tend to trade at stores which offer items more of a day-to-day variety.

A LIGHT SNOW was falling in early evening when I visited the store. Few casual shoppers were about and I had the shop to myself.

It is, basically, a souvenir store. But by no means can it be described as a tourist trap.

The clerks are efficient and can speak a little of several foreign languages, especially English.

I BOUGHT some silk. It was carefully measured out — three meters of this bolt, three of that. Then my clerk explained: "This one should not be cut at three meters because it would destroy the pattern. Would you not prefer 3.3 meters?" I would.

The store is divided into a dozen or more shops surrounding an interior courtyard, comparable to an enclosed shopping mall in suburban United States, but far older and far more charming.

The courtyard contains a ping pong table, a reminder that table tennis is the national pastime. No one was playing, though. It was too cold.

Single-Persons Tax Measure

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Robert Cline, R-Canoga Park, has introduced a bill giving single persons the same tax breaks afforded married persons.

The measure introduced Thursday is a companion to legislation introduced earlier by Cline that would give individual heads of households the same tax rates as married persons.

The Assembly approved similar legislation by Cline last year, but the measure died in the Senate Finance Committee.

ACLU Advances Plan On Vacating Death Row

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The American Civil Liberties Union has proposed a plan to vacate San Quentin Prison's Death Row with a minimum of cost.

The ACLU, in a letter yesterday to Warden Louis Nelson, offered to organize the methods to phase out prisoners in the state's execution cells.

The offer was made Thursday following the State Supreme Court's recent ruling banning capital punishment.

The letter had not been received at San Quentin, but prison information officer Joseph R. O'Brien said the ACLU had called offering legal assistance to Death Row inmates.

"Now that the court has ruled," said Paul Halvonik, ACLU legal director, "I am sure that everyone wants to get rid of this ugly anachronism as quickly as possible."

Attorney Gen. Evelle Younger says the decision will be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary.

The ACLU said it would provide a form of habeas corpus writ for prisoners to use, the first step in returning inmates to their sentencing courts for reduction of death to life imprisonment.

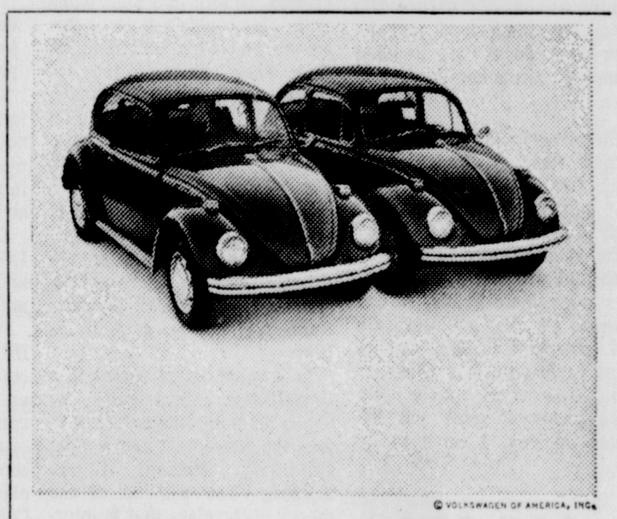

"Since inmates on Death Row don't have legal counsel, considerable delay and confusion would result unless some system is established," Halvonik said.

He said the form writ would facilitate reclassification.

The procedure for handling the reduction of sentence requires that the inmate first petition Marin County Superior Court for a writ of habeas corpus.

The county then would transfer the case to the court that initially imposed the death penalty. That would reduce the sentence to life and return the condemned prisoner to the Department of Corrections for processing and institutional assignment.

San Rafael Council Sets Fire Panel Interviews

The San Rafael City Council will meet in closed session Monday at 7:30 p.m. to interview five applicants for a post on the city's fire commission.

The council is expected to make the appointment during its regular meeting, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m.

The vacancy was created last month with the resignation of the commission's chairman, Dr. Rafael G. Dufficy, who moved to Napa County.

The applicants are John D. Adams of 39 Wallace Way, an automobile dealer; Daniel C. Dufficy, of 252 Center Street, an insurance broker and Dr. Dufficy's son; Henry Hewelcke of 329 Canal Street, manager of North Bay Electric Works in San Rafael; Richard H. Miehling of 244 Santa Margarita Drive, retired bakery supervisor, and Richard F. W. Sadler of 28 Dominican Drive, chief of personnel and industrial relations for the Golden Gate Bridge District.

The council is also scheduled Monday to consider a pact worked out by its negotiating team with representatives of the Marin County Board of Supervisors to give the city power to act as sole agent in selling the old San Rafael courthouse property.

A request by a Los Angeles firm to appeal sign standards set by the San Rafael Planning Commission for Northgate shopping center will also be considered by the council.

To Meet Wednesday

The stamp and coin club of the Sausalito Youth Center will meet Wednesday at the center at 7:15 p.m. Newcomers are welcome, and urged to bring duplicate coins.

Bar Owner Arrested In Profit Probe

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Tamalpais Valley man, owner of a San Francisco topless-bottomless bar, was arrested yesterday by federal agents here on a grand jury indictment for alleged "skimming" of profits.

Nicholas J. Guercio, 45, of 504 Barone Lane, owner of the Dark Room Bar in San Francisco's Tenderloin area, was charged with making false financial statements to a federally insured savings and loan association about his bar.

The arrest was part of a continuing probe of skimming of profits by various San Francisco bar owners. The investigation is being conducted by the Federal Strike Force, an arm of the Department of Justic's section on Organized Crime and Racketeering.

Also arrested was a cocktail waitress at the Dark Room, Linda J. Kaffke, 24, of San Bruno, who was charged with perjuring herself before the grand jury when she denied she ever kept books and handled money for two other Tenderloin area bars.

Guercio was the victim of an armed robbery Jan. 4, 1971, when two gunmen forced their way into his home and make off with $6,300.

The men, dressed in painters garb and wearing nylon stockings over their heads, forced Guercio to open a closet safe and took 63 $100 bills. One of them reportedly told Guercio: "Nick, you did me a favor but a close friend of yours put the finger on you. I have to do this."

A $25,000 Fireworks Suit Filed

A suit asking $25,000 damages on behalf of two teen-aged boys burned last summer when they lighted residue from a fireworks display has been filed in Marin Superior Court against the Town of Corte Madera and City of Larkspur.

The suit claims the boys were injured through negligence on the part of the two cities as well as Pyrotronics Corp.

Wayne Allen York and Kim Reed Kraft, both 16-year-old Larkspur residents, were hospitalized after the July 5 accident in which each suffered burns on their faces and hands.

Failure to take proper precautions on the part of the two cities, which sponsored the display, and the fireworks company caused the accident, according to the suit. Officials should have realized, the suit, that youngsters regularly play on the field.

Damages of $20,000 are asked for York, who suffered more serious injuries, and $5,000 for Kraft.

Woman Is Booked In Theft Case

A San Rafael woman has been arrested and a man is being sought in connection with the theft and subsequent sale of lingerie from a San Rafael warehouse.

Arrested Thursday on suspicion of possessing stolen property was Nancy Lee Gray, 38, of 95 Medway Road. She was released on her own recognizance to appear Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said they got a tip Tuesday that Mrs. Gray was selling stolen nightgowns at Ways and Means, Inc., 70 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael. She was arrested at 6:21 p.m. that day after officers reportedly saw her remove several of the garments from the trunk of her car and take them into the store.

Police said Mrs. Gray told them she had gotten the nightgowns from Michael Arthur McGough, 23, of 509 Canal Street, Apt. 17, and had an arrangement to sell them and split the money with him.

McGough, police said, is a part-time employee of Dreamway, Inc., and is thought to have stolen the items from that firm's warehouse at 188 Market Street, San Rafael. Police had not located McGough as of yesterday.

AT COLLEGE

Old Time Union Leader In Pitch

By LARRY MOWELL

An old-time crowd stirrer parked his soap box at the College of Marin yesterday seeking converts to a labor movement most popular before World War I.

Frank Cedervall's brand of radical unionism reached its giddy peak in 1906 when the Industrial Workers of the World claimed 100,000 members in its second year of existence.

But factionalism, official repression and the changing times broke its back even before Cedervall first lent his cannon of a voice to the cause more than 40 years ago.

Obviously used to larger crowds, he sent in a folksinging pair who couldn't quite agree on the words but served to kill time while vainly waiting for the crowd to swell. He finally started his program with a film on one of the Wobblies' major martyrs, Joseph Hillstrom, better known as Joe Hill, then gave his membership pitch to about 20 students.

It must have been an anticlimactic end to a two- weel spaaking tour through Northern California, but he gave it his best.

In a voice better suited to a tumultuous street rally, he urged his miniscule audience to join the movement for worker solidarity. Without it, he argued, "You will be at the mercy of the class that is interested in only one thing: production of goods for money."

He starte by condemning the society which executed Joe Hill for murder in 1916, but quickly switched to more contemporary support of his turn-of-the century message.

"I want you to reflect about a society that would shoot down in cold blood students at Kent State," he said, then pointed to the "cold blooded murder" of inmates at Attica State Prison in New York and of Jonathan Jackson, killed in the August 1970 shootout that erupted at Marin's Hall of Justice when he smuggled guns to San Quentin prisoners on trial.

He waxed poetic against "a system of society that would defoliate the forests and bomb down a gentle and lovely people, with faces molded as though delicately chiseled by a Rodlan." He claimed that Vietnamese blood pays for the "Cadillacs of tool and die makers."

"This is the story of capitalism," he said.

"Wars are things designed to create jobs and I myself would rather starve to death than have the blood of one innocent man on my hands," he said.

His solution to the horror he painted is the Industrial Workers of the World, nicknamed the Wobblies.

The Wobblies started in Chicago in 1905 during a conference of Socialist leaders and trade union leaders that included Eugene V. Debs, later a Socialist Party candidate for president, and William D. Haywood, the group's first president.

The group's premise is that unionization by industry, not by craft, is the only way to pressure capitalists.

The militant organization preferred strike and sabotage to negotiation and, as a result, many of its members were imprisoned or killed in bloody strikes.

During World War I, the I.W.W. vigorously prosecuted under antiespionage and criminal syndicalism laws.

It was in this period that Hillstrom, or Joe Hill, was executed for murder during a holdup. The poet songwriter became a martyr to the union and is regarded as a folk hero by some today. A Joe Hill Society exists at San Francisco State College.

He also urged intelligent discussion and hit out at the intolerance of today's young radicals, but refused to allow the Independent-Journal photographer to take his picture because of the recent strike at the paper by San Francisco Typographical Union 21.

Despite the persecution and philosophical splits, the union's utopian message continues in a few old-time organizers like Cedervall. "We have to try to bring a new morality into American life and if we but will it, it can be done in an instant," he promised.

"We want to change this society into a society for the welfare of the common man, not the benefit of a few," he said.

Population Curbs Knocked In Novato

About 100 citizens attending the day-long Novato Community Congress were warned today to be cautious of population restrictions.

Taking an all-out conservationist tack to prevent population growth is "unrealistic," William Siden, cofounder of San Francisco Beautiful, warned while presenting a slide show of Novato's beauties and blots. He declared, "Novato is too attractive to halt all growth. Your only hope is to band together and regulate the unavoidable growth."

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste urged Novatans to fight for property tax reform "by initiative, if the legislature fails."

Although Marin has the second lowest county government tax rate in the Bay Area, "I don't think we should be happy" because the taxes are "inadequate to finance local government."

Novato City Mgr. Charles A. Brown tied nationwide city crises in law enforcement and social problems to the lack of revenue for the cities. He said, "The citizen has turned off on the problem.

"Novato city government is not legally near its tax limit but its elected leadership realizes that politically" the tax limit is nearly reached.

The community congress at Novato High School was sponsored by the Novato Chamber of Commerce and Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

School's Curriculum Will Be Discussed

Reed School District trustees will discuss the curriculum for Reedlands Woods School and decide whether any changes are needed for the balance of the school year, at a special board meeting in the school at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the school.

District Supt. Ralph Giovannello said yesterday that trustees called the special meeting because they wanted more discussion of questions raised at their last regular meeting.

Bike Rider Is Hurt In Crash

A 12-year-old Santa Venetia boy whose bicycle collided with a car yesterday was held overnight for observation of a head injury at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael and released today.

The California Highway Patrol said Wayne S. Watkins, of 134 Vendola Drive, was injured at 3 p.m. yesterday as he was riding his bicycle east on North San Pedro Road at the entrance to Gallinas School.

Officers said his bicycle and a car driven by Robert L. Kimberling, 47, of 834 Hacienda Way, Santa Venetia, collided as Kimberling was making a left turn into the school from eastbound North San Pedro. Young Watkins was riding on the left side of the street against the flow of traffic at the time of the mishap, they said.

Discussion Set On Landmark Trees

The Novato Planning Commission will consider an ordinance that would protect "heritage trees" at 8 p.m. Monday at the Novato Community House.

Under the proposed ordinance, a permit would be required before trees designated as heritage or landmark trees by the city could be removed from private property. The burden would be on the tree owner to justify its removal.

Auto Injuries

David Carmichael, 31, of Vallejo, was treated at Marin General Hospital at 11:11 a.m. yesterday for a fractured and cut nose suffered in an auto accident, according to hospital officials. No details were available.

VALLEY

Indian Valley was zoned for 10,000-square-foot lots.

Yet, Darnell said, over the past two decades "the anticipated massive conversion to small-lot subdivisions failed to reach Indian Valley and it "has largely escaped urban pressure."

On the valley floor, a few lots are 10,000 square feet, but they are scattered or in small clusters, he said. "There is no multiple family, no industry, no institutional building and no commercial use except a plant nursery."

It provides "almost country-style living" yet the breadwinner can commute to a job in the city, he said. "It is a life-style not readily available to many families of Marin."

The residents formed an association last April, Indian Valley Associates, "to keep the valley as rural as possible, to protect its natural beauty and preserve it as a place for all to enjoy."

"We're trying to combat sprawl," said president A. N. Schwindt, who can look out the rear window of him home at 1758 Indian Valley Road and see a row of subdivision homes bordering his lot.

People are beginning to realize what some thought of as progress isn't desirable, he said.

"We have a unique valley," Schwindt said. "People do different things. We have sheep, cows, horses, dog kennels . . . we could see the way things were going, the whole situation was going down a rat hole."

One end of the valley opens to the "flat Novato area" and if a large sewer line were put in, as once considered, subdivisions would have swept in, Schwindt said.

Standing on a hillside and gazing over the valley, Schwindt said: "Subdivisions surround us. There is no other place left to move."

He described the proposed general plan as "simple," one that will keep as much open space as possible, provide a road without curb and gutter and no street lights. "None of the things you have in town."

The proposed new zoning is one-acre minimum lots on land with up to 5 per cent slope; one-and-a-quarter acre for 5 to 10 per cent slope; one-and-a-half acre for 10 to 20 per cent slope, and two acres for 20 per cent slope or more.

Darnell said the plan for Indian Valley Road is a "25-mile-an-hour, two-lane road with horse trail on one side and bicycle trail on the other.

Schwindt said residents opposed extending Indian Valley Road through to the Indian Valley Colleges campus, a move that would make it a heavily traveled through road. Darnell said the extension isn't recommended in the plan.

The plan indicates a new connection from Wilson Avenue to Indian Valley Road at Indian Springs Road which would eliminate a sharp turn in the current alignment of Indian Valley Road.

NIXON

When the presidential party arrived in Hangchow after the 710-mile flight from Pekin g Ziegler told newsmen of the agreement.

The press officer said Nixon and Chou did not face each other in the early morning exchange, but worked through aides. But they did confer for 30 minutes after daylight before they boarded the jet at the snow-shrouded Peking airport for the two-hour, 10-minute flight to Hangchow.

The President and Chou spent 15 hours in secret conference together over the five days in Peking. There were indications the talks at times were intensive and difficult.

Ziegler did not say how many agreements were involved. He said the communique was being delayed because the pact must be translated.

Other informed sources said Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Foreign Minister Chi Pung-fei, who worked together on details, had discussed agreements calling for:

Inauguration of a program of cultural exchanges between the United States and China, involving students, scientists, newsmen and others.

Efforts to incease trade. The United States recently relaxed embargoes it had in effect more than 20 years.

An arrangement for continuous diplomatic contact at a level below that of formal relations but sufficiently close and at a high enough level to ensure progress on issues of mutual interest.

Another Londonderry March Set

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Roman Catholic civil rights groups announced today they will stage a protest march against the Northern Ireland government Sunday in Londonderry, using the same route taken by the marchers in the "Bloody Sunday" incident four weeks ago.

"We will not let anybody or anything stop us from marching," said Mrs. Nora Mannion, a member of the Londonderry Women's Action Committee that is sponsoring the march.

The last major protest march in Londonderry was Jan. 30, and British paratroops enforcing a ban on such demonstrations clashed with the marchers. Thirteen civilians were shot to death, and Catholics dubbed the day "Bloody Sunday."

"We intend to follow the same route as the Bloody Sunday march," said Dermot Kelly, head of the Northern Ireland Resistance Movement. As with previous marches, the one scheduled Sunday will be to protest specifically the government's policy of arrest and internment without trial of members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA).

In Belfast, an anonymous caller claiming to be a spokesman for the IRA told newsmen today the group was responsible for the attempted assassination yesterday of Northern Ireland's home affairs minister, John Taylor.

Patrol Vehicle Is Wrecked In Four-Car Crash

A California Highway Patrol vehicle received major rear-end damage yesterday in a four-car accident on the northbound Golden Gate Bridge, officers reported today.

They said officer James G. Noe, 30, of Petaluma, was stopped in heavy traffic near midspan at 6:33 p.m. when he looked in his rearview mirror and saw a car approaching rapidly.

Knowing it would be unable to stop, Noe set his parking grake and braced for the impact. The car, driven by Richard P. Munson, of 17 Woodland Court, Fairfax, pushed Noe's car into another vehicle which in turn struck a vehicle in front of it.

No one was injured in the pileup. The other cars were operated by Leonard L. Kaprielian, 40, of 42 Central Avenue, Sausalito, and Robert L. Stephens 36, of 32 Cottonwood Drive, San Rafael.

Driver Reported In Good Condition

A San Anselmo woman whose car struck a utility pole on Highway 37 today was reported in good condition at Novato General Hospital with a fractured and dislocated left hip and multiple facial cuts.

Elsie E. DeMars, 50, of 1208 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Apt. 9, was westbound on the highway at 1 a.m. near the intersection of Lakeville Highway when, according to the California Highway Patrol, she ran off the road for an unknown reason and hit the utility pole.

Bus Will Operate On Fourth Street

The Golden Gate Bridge District's new commuter bus route between San Anselmo and San Rafael will operate both ways on Fourth Street, not eastbound on Second Street and westbound on Third Street as reported Wednesday in the Independent-Journal on the basis of information from district officials.

The new route, No. 30, will start operation on Monday under the district's new timetables.

Car Case To Superior Court

Jerry Lee Miller, 28, of Sebastopol, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of stealing a car Jan. 10 in San Rafael.

He is to be arraigned March 13.

Miller and another 28-year-old Sebastopol man, Gzrald David Flowers, were arrested after highway patrol officers followed their weaving car north on Highway 101 and stopped it on Civic Center Drive.

Officers said the car had been stolen earlier from a San Rafael residence.

Flowers has pleaded guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge of car theft and is to be sentenced in Municipal court March 14.

TALKS

decision Friday of the American and Saigon peace delegations not to attend the session scheduled Thursday.

The Allied refusal was in protest against an unprecedented walkout of the Communists at last week's meeting to dramatize their demands that the U.S. Air Force stop all air raids on North Vietnam.

The Hanoi official said the Allies' decision to boycott next week's meeting "shows once more that the Nixon administration and its agents continue to gradually and gravely sabotage the Paris conference on Vietnam.

"This is being done while the United States pursues its bombings and other war acts against the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam in violation of its pledge to stop totally and unconditionally the bombing and other acts of war against North Vietnam," he said.

Le's statement coincided with South Vietnam's renewed offer to convene a Southeast Asian conference in Saigon or elsewhere to seek the reestablishment of peace in the area while refraining from forming a political bloc.

Lucas Valley Rezoning On Agenda

Proposed rezoning of nearly 3,000 acres in Lucas Valley will be considered Monday at 9 a.m. by the Marin County Planning Commission.

The commission, which will meet in its regular meeting room at the Civic Center, has been requested by nearby residents to rezone the land to low density residential and agricultural use.

The land totals 2,914 acres and lies on both sides of Lucas Valley Road from the county's juvenile hall to Big Rock.

Density in the area is now generally one homesite per two acres but under the rezoning it would be reduced to as much as one homesite per 13 acres.

The commission also is expected to consider a master plan for the 101-unit Venetia Cover townhouse development in Santa Venetia, the so-called Tiburon Trails Plan already approved by the parks and recreation commission, and rezoning the 26-acre John J. Farrar Jr. property near Fairfax from an agricultural to a residential designation.

Session Slated On Evaluations

Preliminary plans for a program of evaluating the performances of teachers and other certificated personnel in the Mill Valley School District will be discussed by the district board at 8 p.m. Monday in Park School.

A bill passed last year by the state Legislature requires that all districts establish methods to evaluate teacher effectiveness in the classroom and that such a program be in effect by the time school starts in September.

In other business, the board will consider a pilot grammar testing program for fifth grade students and procedures for selecting a new principal for Old Mill School.

Coins Stolen

Owners of the Seconds Room, a candle manufacturer at 37 Duffy Place in San Rafael, lost $50 in coins in a burglary discovered Thursday morning, according to police.

OBITUARIES

FRANCIS BOUQUET

Memorial service for Rev. Francis Lester Bouquet, librarian emeritus of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, will be at 8 p.m. Thursday in Montgomery Chapel of the seminary.

Bouquet died Feb. 13 in a Marin convalescent hospital at the age of 73 after a long illness.

He was born in St. Louis, Mo. and reared in Kansas City. He earned his bachelor of divinity degree from the seminary in 1924 and returned to serve on the faculty in 1943. He was librarian from 1952 until his retirement in 1964.

JAMES WILSON

Memorial service for James Allan Wilson, 19, a Corte Madera resident for the past 13 years, will be tomorrow at 3 p.m. at Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley.

Wilson died Monday afternoon in a fall from the north tower of the east side of the Golden Gate Bridge. There was no witness, officials said. His body was recovered by the ship Guess Who and turned over to the U.S. Coast Guard.

Son of the late David H. Wilson, he is survived by his mother, Marilyn Wilson, Corte Madera and brothers David Mark Wilson of San Rafael, and Alec John Wilson and Paul Richards Wilson both of Corte Madera. He is also survived by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Richards of South Dakota.

A native of San Fraccisco, he had been a resident of Corte Madera for the past 13 years. He graduated from the Larkspur-Corte Madera School, the Henry C. Hall School and, in June 1970, from Redwood High School.

The family prefers contributions to the American Cancer Society.

LUCY JACKSON

Lucy Elizabeth Jackson, longtime employee of the San Rafael School District, died yesterday in Healdsburg, after a brief illness. She was 82.

Mrs. Jackson was born in Sprague, Wash., and moved to San Anselmo in 1912. She was a member of the First Christian Science Church of San Rafael, and for many years was the church's second reader.

She is survived by her daughter, Patricia Davids of Healdsburg; a son, Colin G. Jackson of Morgan Hill, Santa Clara County, a brother, Clyde Davis of Chelan, Wash., six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Private family services were to be held today in Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

ALMA RIBLET

Funeral arrangements for Alma P. Riblet, 86, former Petaluma resident, were pending today at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

Mrs. Riblet died Wednesday at a Los Angeles hospital after a long illness. She had moved to Petaluma from Ship Harbor, Nova Scotia in 1889 with her parents, the late Rev. John and Mary A. Partridge. Her father was pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church, Petaluma for 25 years.

Mrs. Riblet had lived in Petaluma until nine years ago when she moved to the Eastern Star Home in Covina. She was the wife of the late Henry Nelson Riblet, a poultry rancher.

Mrs. Riblet was a member of St. John's Episcopal Church and Morningstar Chapter No. 16, Order of Eastern Star.

Auditions Set By Ross Players

The Ross Valley Players have scheduled four auditions for parts in an upcoming play, a Broadway success called "Forty Carats."

Tryouts for the comedy will be at 8 p.m. Monday and Thursday, 3 p.m. March 5 and 5 p.m. March 6 in the Barn at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

The play, to be directed by Bill Derveniotes, will open April 28 and run Fridays and Saturdays to May 27.

South Span Jumper Was From Berkeley

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The man who jumped to his death from the south end of the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday has been identified as Richard J. Grimm, 21, a Hare Krishna divinity student. Grimm's body was found early yesterday morning on the roof of the Fort Point Museum.

Grimm's last known address — according to coroner's investigators — was 2710 Durant Avenue, Berkeley. A 24-hour pass from Napa State Hospital was found in his pocket.

Environmental Study To Continue

The Petaluma City Council will continue study of the proposed environmental design plan at an adjourned meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

The proposed plan is an update of the 1962 general plan and includes plans for an east-side greenbelt and provisions to restrict growth to 500 new living units per year.

The Twins Are Current Attraction

By SHERMAN WALKER

The Twins (Gemini) make up a bright constellation which is in view this week.

This pair is much mentioned in history, both mythological and factual. The Apostle Paul sailed in a ship "whose sign was Castor and Pollux." The Twins sailed with the Argonauts in search of the Golden Fleece and were considered influential in the success of the expedition. Possibly their feats on the voyage caused them to become the favorite constellation of sailors.

To locate the Twins, face southward at 9 p.m., Standard Time and look at the region of the sky that is spghtly south of the overhead point or zenith.

It was near the star cluster M-35 that the unknown planet Uranus was discovered. One March night in 1781, astronomer William Herschel (then an amateur astronomer and professional musician) was sweeping the skies with his homemade telescope when he observed an object that he first thought was a comet.

Subsequent investigation showed it to be a planet, causing a worldwide sensation. It was the first one actually discovered. In 1939, the planet Pluto was discovered in this same figure.

Castor was originally the brighter of the two main stars and was designated as Alpha. Pollux was the second brighter and was called Beta. They seem to have changed in the 300 years since they were classified because Pollux is now the brighter one.

Jury Returns Guilty Verdict In Burglary

A jury in Marin Superior Court Thursday convicted Robert Louis Arnett II, 22, of San Rafael, of the burglary of a San Rafael home last Nov. 24.

Arnett, a parolee from the California rehabilitation center, is to be sentenced by Judge Henry J. Broderick on March 16.

Arnett and Thomas Eric Grayson, 21, also of San Rafael, were arrested when police answered the report of a burglary in progress at a residence on Woods Street.

Officers said they found Grayson outside the house and Arnett coming down the front stairs.

Grayson has pleaded guilty to the burglary and is to be sentenced March 27.

Drive For Heart Funds On Sunday

Volunteers from the Marin County Heart Association will blanket Marin tomorrow seeking donations for the annual Heart Fund campaign and passing out literature on heart attacks, the association has announced.

Association director Donald G. Reuter said about 2,500 volunteers are expected to join the door-to-door campaign as part of a national effort.

Volunteers collected $16,000 last year.

Nationalist China Student Rate Up

TAIPEI (UPI)—One of every 3.5 persons in Nationalist China is a student, according to official statistics.

They show that total school enrollment at the end of 1971 was 4.19 million, an increase of 2.9 per cent over 1970. Nationalist China has a population of 15 million. Schools numbered 4,111 last year, an increase of 75 over 1970.

Earthquake School Funds Are Sought

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Reagan administration yesterday asked the Legislature to add nearly $50 million in construction money to the proposed 1972-73 state budget, including $30 million to help make schools earthquake-proof and $150,000 for a new governor's mansion.

State Finance Direcor Verne Orr said the $49.5 million budget augmentation requested for new capital outlay projects also would provide funds to improve the state park system, increase safety at state mental hospitals and finance new buildings on two University of California campuses.

The action increased Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed state budget for the next fiscal year to $7.66 billion.

In a letter to the chairmen of the Assembly Ways and Means and Senate Finance committees, Orr said the $30 million in new earthquake protection funds would be used to replace and repair public school buildings in California to bring them up to state earthquake safety standards.

"No project is more important than that which contributes to the safety of our schoolchildren," Orr said. "It would be tragic to postpone school repairs and suffer the loss of schoolchildren's lives in any future earthquake when prompt utilization of these funds might well prevent such a catastrophe."

About $150,000 would be used for initial site development, preliminary plans and working drawings for a new governor's mansion in Sacramento. Orr said the mansion would not be available for occupancy until at least Jan. 1, 1975, after Reagan leaves office.

Reagan moved out of the century-old official governor's mansion shortly after he took office in 1967, condemning it as a firetrap. He now lives in a private residence in fashionable East Sacramento owned by several of his wealthy friends. The state pays $15,000 annual rent on the home.

Orr said that of the remaining $19.5 million requested by Reagan, $5.2 million would finance a humanities building at the UC San Diego campus and $6.3 million would pay for a second engineering building at the UC Santa Barbara campus.

He said $6.77 million would go to improve the park system and $1 million would be used to help the state Department of Mental Hygiene meet accreditation standards and strengthen fire and safety protection at mental institutions.

Orr said Reagan is proposing virtually the maximum amount of capital outlay funds permitted for fiscal 1972-73 under provisions of a tax bill enacted last year.

Under the measure, no more than one-third of the $150 million it provided for capital outlay could be allocated in any one budget year.

He said the $150 million—derived from income tax withholding — would provide pay-as-you-go financing for capital outlay projects, thus avoiding "placing the burden on taxpayers for what otherwise would result in paying increased costs of bonded indebtedness."

Slide Show On Park Scheduled

A multiscreen slide show on Big Bend National Park, 700,000 acres of wilderness in southwestern Texas, will be presented March 7 at 7:30 p.m. at the Corte Madera branch of the Marin County Library.

The show, according to Corte Madera librarian Jan Christenson, represents six years of photographic work by Robert Perkins Jr, of Dallas, Texas.

TELEPHONE WORKER

112-Pound Pole-Climbing Girl

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—"I'm not the typical girl who's afraid of spiders. I guess I'm a tomboy."

That's how Patty Jo Watson, 22, describes why she prefers being outside as a telephone installer-repairman to being inside as a telephone operator.

(San Rafael's Pacific Telephone Co. office also has a woman installer-repairman, Alana MacFarlane, who began the job last October.)

Patty Jo's job involves clambering up telephone poles, crawling under houses and occasionally punching holes in walls to put telephones in their proper place. She hefts a 25-pound reel of wire or a 60-pound ladder with ease.

"It's just a matter of balance," said Patty Jo, who is 5-feet-2 and weighs 112 pounds.

PATTY JO was a telephone operator for a year, then spent half a year stringing wire inside the Pacific Northwest Bell (PNB) office, a job shared by two dozen other women in Oregon.

The outdoors beckoned Patty Jo, however, and despite some misgivings she applied for a job as an installer.

One company official explained that the firm because of federal regulations is engaged in an effort to open all jobs on the basis of qualification regardless of sex. That has put women in a number of new positions, including an older college graduate in Seattle who is a plant supervisor. The Seattle woman had to take training in pole climbing as did Patty Jo but she supervises such work rather than doing it daily as Patty Jo does.

To Patty Jo pole climbing is strictly routine by now. She even prefers poles without metal steps so she can go up and down by digging in her climbing spikes.

Miss Watson went through a three-week training course, then worked in the field with a supervisor for three weeks before joining a regular crew last September.

Now she is on her own. Each morning she reports for her assignments, then checks out in her olive green telephone company van with a sheaf of orders for telephones to be installed or repaired.

She asks for and gets help only on the same sort of jobs as her fellow workers—such as putting up a crossarm or stringing wire across a roadway.

Her supervisor, J.D. Rolph, said the company has decided Patty Jo may not lift any ladder longer than 28 feet, which weighs 60 pounds.

So far she hasn't needed anything bigger.

ON THE JOB she wears slacks, T-shirt and cowboy boots and 20 pounds of gear, including tools and hard hat. She changes the Cowboy boots for climbing boots when she has pole work to do.

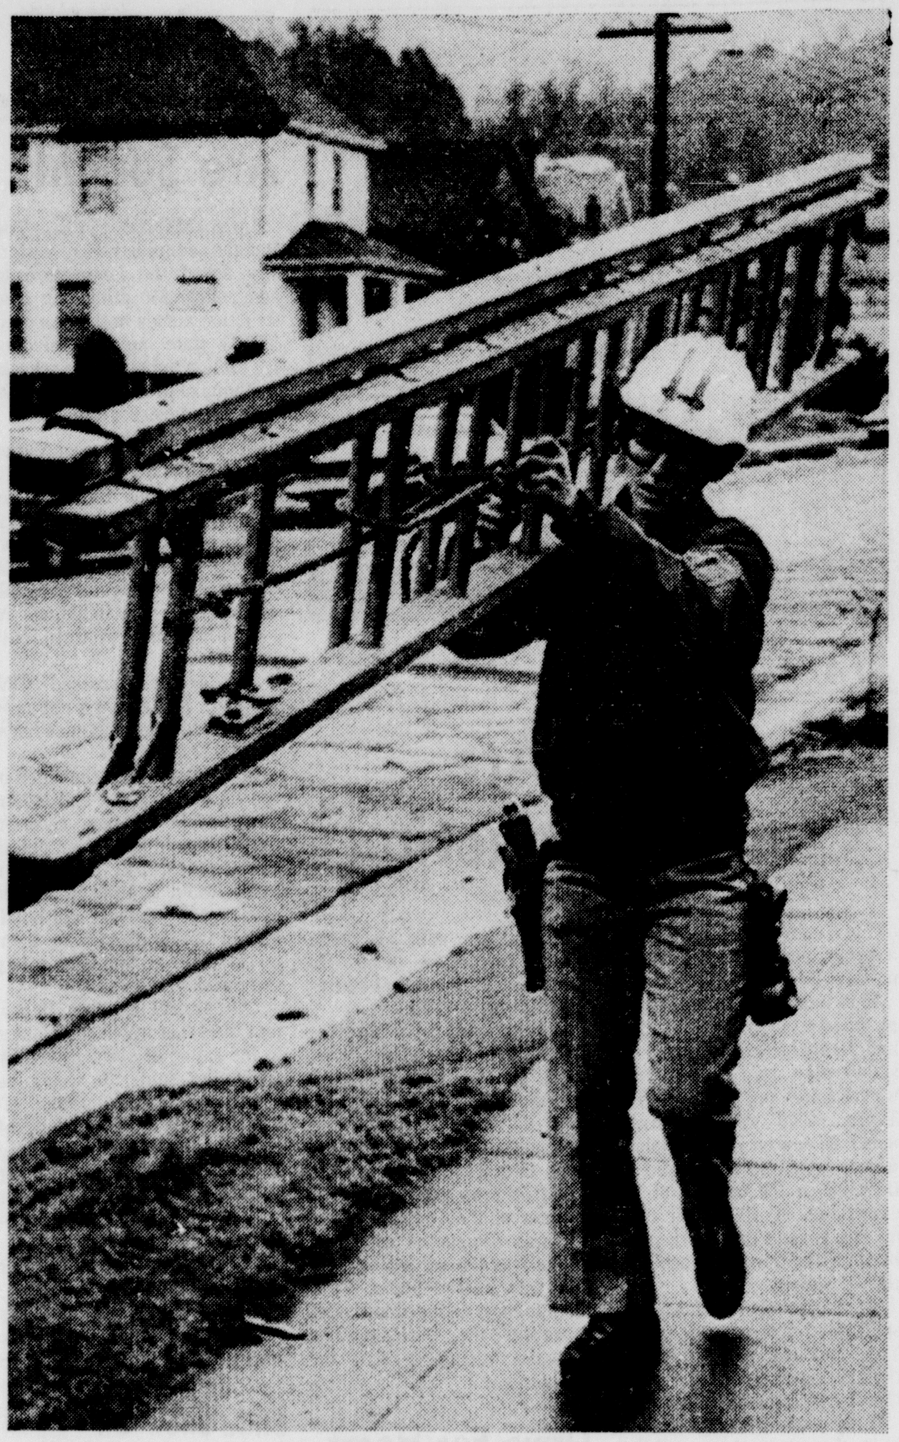

"We finally convinced her to get some rain gear," Rolph said. It rains in Western Oregon much of the fall and winter. Patty Jo conceded she also had invested in some thermal underwear and "I took my vacation the coldest week and it hasn't been too bad."

She finds her fellow installers, mostly also young, "like a lot of brothers." Some have volunteered to help her fix her car. Tinkering with the car is one of her hobbies. Others are bowling with a telephone company team, and golf.

ROLPH SAID the men have generally accepted her and her presence has caused no problems.

Customers accept her readily, too. Her unusual position "makes for good conversation," Patty Jo said. "Older people especially are real jolly."

Few customers have indicated much surprise at having a woman knock on the door and announce she is there to install the phone. "But an awful lot of them ask if I'm old enough to be working for the telephone company," she said.

A TELEPHONE installer-repairman, Patty Jo Watson of Portland, Ore., balances a 60 pound ladder with ease. She is one of an increasing number of women moving into what have traditionally been men's jobs with telephone companies across the nation.

Program For Expectant Parents Is Being Offered

The Education for Childbirth program is offering a series of classes for expectant parents beginning March 7 at 7:30 p.m. The nine weekly classes will be held at the offices of physical therapist Gunhild Brown, 1300 South Eliseo Drive in Greenbrae.

Classes include instruction to increase the understanding of pregnancy and labor and techniques for breathing, relaxation, posture control and postpartem recovery.

Husbands are urged to attend all classes, which include films on childbirth and discussion with a pediatrician.

Expectant mothers must have written permission from their physicians to participate. Instructor for this series will be Mrs. Margaret Farley, registered physical therapist. Further information may be obtained from the offices of Mrs. Brown.

ON THE AGENDA

Marin Unit Will Co-Host Jewish Welfare Luncheon Monday

Women's Division of the Jewish Welfare Federation of San Francisco, Marin County and the Peninsula is having a luncheon Monday at the home of Mrs. Stanton Sobel in San Francisco.

Chairman is Mrs. Richard L. Swig of San Frankisco, and the Marin co-chairman is Mrs. Leonard Sperry of Belvedere.

The Rt. Rev. C. Edward Crowther, assistant bishop of California and honorary canon to Grace Cathedral, will speak on behalf of the federation fund drive.

Reverend Crowther incurred the wrath of the South African government because of his militant opposition of the apartheid policies when he served in Kimberley as dean of the Anglican Cathedral and was deported from that country. He has appeared on television and at universities since his return to the United States in 1967 and now serves as visiting fellow at the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions in Santa Barbara.

DOROTHY YOUNG, a Novato lawyer, will speak at the Novato Federated Women's Club public meeting at the Novato Branch of the Marin County Library on Thursday.

Coffee will be served at 10 a.m. followed by the talk at 11:30 a.m. by Mrs. Young.

A luncheon will be held at Nero's restaurant at noon. Mrs. Claude Lewis is reservations chairman.

Baby-Sitting Training Program To Be Held At College Of Marin

The annual baby-sitting training program for girls and boys will be held next Saturday at the College of Marin, sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary to the Marin Medical Society as a public service.

Termed the Good Emergency Mother Substitutes program, the course will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Olney Hall and will cover fire precautions, environmental safety, the handling of infants and child care, first aid and resuscitation, and the responsibilities of baby-sitters and parents.

GEMS program chairmen are Mmes. Allen Beallo and Brian Williams of San Rafael.

Speakers will be Mrs. John Degenhardt of Larkspur, on responsibilities of baby-sitting;

Mrs. Joseph Alderson of San Anselmo, activities for preschool children; Nancy Boyce, R.N., basic first aid; William C. Lellis, assistant chief of the Larkspur Fire Department, fire prevention and safety; and resuscitation by the Kentfield Fire Department.

Participants in the child care, safety, feeding and changing demonstration will be Mmes. Robert Wilkes of Novato, George Monteverdi and Robert Pope of San Rafael, and Miles Weinberger of San Anselmo, all auxiliary members.

Mrs. William Langford is refreshments chairman, and Mrs. Ellis N. Mitchell is publicity chairman.

Registration for the free course for boys and girls 12 to 16 years old may be made on registration forms from Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Beallo, the chairmen. Forms must be returned to Mrs. Brian Williams, 252 Mt. Shasta Drive, San Rafael.

Party Tomorrow For 92nd Birthday

By MOLLY MARIN

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Gross of Mill Valley will honor the 92nd birthday of his father, Robert Gross of San Francisco, at a dinner party at their home tomorrow afternoon.

Robert Gross was born in Riga, Latvia, and came to San Francisco in 1904 and has been visiting Marin County since then.

Highlight of the menu of Latvian dishes Mrs. Gross is preparing will be a special birthday cake called a "kringle," which takes a whole day to make.

In accordance with his custom at his birthday parties the guest of honor will read one of the poems he writes each year and will also entertain with a few Latvian songs and dances. Most of the 14 guests will be his grandchildren's friends, who have been attending his birthday parties for years.

USIA Aide Will Speak On Tuesday

Barbara McClure White of Washington, D.C., career minister of information for the U.S. Information Agency, will speak at the Katharine Branson School in Ross at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Miss White is the only woman to hold that highest rank with the career service of the USIA.

She was scheduled to arrive today and will be a guest of Mrs. Galloway Ferrin of Kentfield during her Marin visit. She then will speak to the Century Club of San Francisco Wednesday and to the World Affairs Council in San Francisco on Thursday. On Friday she will address the Institute of Foreign Languages in Monterey.

Miss White began her government career in 1942 with the Office of War Information and has served in Cairo, Rome, Turin and in Santiago, Chile, where she was public affairs officer at the American Embassy.

Miss White will speak to the student body of the Branson School on "As Others See Us: Images of the U.S. Foreign Policy."

RETURNED THIS week to their Tiburon home after a Hawaiian honeymoon are Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Morrison. The bride, the former Mrs. Harry M. Bragg of Tiburon, and bridegroom, a former Long Beach resident, were married on Feb. 15 at the Tiburon home of Capt. and Mrs. Claude MacKenzie.

MR. AND MRS. Neil Craig of Novato have returned from a 10-day trip to Hawaii. It was Mrs. Craig's first trip to Hawaii and her second plane flight. They were entertained by Mrs. Craig's cousin in Honolulu and they also spent time on the islands of Maui and Hawaii.

THE BOB Flahives have returned to their home in Corte Madera after a 10-day skiing vacation in British Columbia, where they skied above the tree line at Whisler Mountain and at Garibaldi National Park. The couple flew to Vancouver and returned by cruise ship, the S.S. Oriana, to San Francisco, a two-day trip.

IDA KATHERINE Kaser of San Rafael, who was 94 years old on Thursday, was honored twice this week, first at a dinner hosted by her sons on Sunday, and, on the day of her birthday, at a luncheon given by Mrs. Joe Mueller.

Mrs. Kaser's sons, Ralph Laymon of Fairfax and Robert Laymon of Cupertino, and their families began the birthday celebrations Sunday night at the Union Hotel in Occidental. The luncheon, at Mrs. Mueller's home in San Anselmo, was attended by Mrs. Kaser's friends from the First Congregational Church in San Rafael.

Born in Boone County, Mo., Mrs. Kaser lived most of her life in Colorado. She has lived in San Rafael since 1950.

Yolanda Antoinette Guerrero's engagement to Stephen Paul Granucci of El Cerrito has been announced. The couple is making wedding plans for June 4 at St. Anselm's Church in San Anselmo.

Yolanda is the daughter of Benjamin Guerrero of San Diego and Mrs. Marie Elvira Meraz of Fairfax. She is the sister of Donald Raymond Guerrero of San Francisco, Delia Joyce, Joseph Oscar, Francis and John Salvador Guerrero, all of Fairfax.

Yolanda was graduated from Oxnard High School and attended Ventura Junior College. She is employed at the Marin County Civic Center in San Rafael.

Stephen is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Frank E. Granucci of El Cerrito and the brother of Anthony Francis and Thomas Peter Granucci. Mrs. Olivia Granucci of San Francisco and Mrs. Mae Ashton of San Carlos are her grandparents.

Stephen is a graduate of Harry Ells High School in Richmond and attended San Jose State College. He is employed with the Internal Revenue Service in San Francisco.

Guide On Correct Pearl Wearing

The cultured pearl authorities have come up with a guide of what shade pearls should be worn by whom. They suggest that fair-skinned women look best with pale pink toned pearls; fair-skinned brunettes look well in cream rose. Darker skinned women can wear the cream colored pearls best, and black women look well in champagne tones.

Gray or white haired women with fair skin find silver-white pearls most flattering, while the darker skinned mature woman wears medium or dark blue-gray pearls well.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Sounding Off On Sour Romance Should Have Been Held Back

DEAR RAP:

When you mentioned the use of egg carton crating for acoustical lining in a teen's room, I wondered if it was a fire hazard. Then I read of a fire which caused a baby's death — in a room lined with egg cartons. Firemen said they contributed greatly to the spread of the flames. Be warned, teens! — DR. E. L.

DEAR SUE AND HELEN:

I really liked this guy (Ted), but after I dated him about four times, he went back to his old girl friend. I did a lot of crying, especially when he brought her to see me once when my folks weren't home. I later found out she insisted, and said she'd come alone if he didn't take her — so he came along to keep her from starting a fight with me.

Well, shortly after that, he broke up with her for good, and now he wants to go out with me again.

But my mother says absolutely not! You see, I told her how miserable I was, and I really blew up to Mom after the girl's visit (before I knew all the facts).

So my folks think Ted is bad news and enjoys hurting girls and they won't listen to my explanation. All they remember is my crying.

I want so much to go out with him. How can I swing my parents over? — PRISONER OF PARENTS

DEAR P OF P:

This is a perfect example of letting your parents know too much before you're sure about it yourself. When you're mad at a guy, don't tell them all the bad things about him, even if it makes you feel better at the time, 'cause some parents never forget — and it takes them forever to forgive.

All you can do is explain that what you said was in a fit of emotion and hope they'll finally understand. Good luck! — SUE

DEAR PRISONER:

If your folks won't give you a chance to say it, write it, explaining that Ted was in a bind and shouldn't be judged by what you said in anger. Then ask if they will let him visit a couple of times, so they can get to know him better. From there on, it's up to him!

Parents get terribly protective when they fear their little girl will be hurt. Right, Sue? — HELEN

DEAR HELEN:

You won't print this letter since it opposes you. I just have one question: Where do you come about telling someone to outgrow witches? I'll bet you've never even read a book on witchcraft!

You probably think a witch is a person who goes around snapping her fingers and turning people into toads. I've got news for you, Mrs. "Helper," and this advice goes for your cool, mod, suave, sophisticated daughter too: Just keep still on subjects you don't know anything about. When it comes to witchcraft — you're both dumb! — DANNY M.

DEAR DANNY:

You lost the bet: I've read several books on witchcraft, voodoo, and various other metaphysical phenomena, but they haven't carried me much beyond a mild acceptance of ESP. Sorry, sir, and thanks for not turning me into a toad. — HELEN

DEAR DANNY:

I hope you don't get out your voodoo dolls and poke pins in the "Susie" number, 'cause it's enough pain just getting a mean letter.

Everyone has a right to his own opinion, and I just don't believe in witchcraft. My argument? I believe in God. Okay? — SUE

(Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.)

Round Table Cloth Needs No Pattern

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE,

I have a round table which needs a skirt, it measures 24 inches across and 30 inches high. Would you tell me where I can find a pattern to make a round table cover?

MRS. J. S.

DEAR MRS. J.S.:

A pattern won't be necessary as a round cloth is very simple to make by following these few instructions.

First, measure the width of your table, divide it into two and add the measurement from the edge of the table to the floor. This will be half the total width needed.

Since the size and height of all tables vary, you will have to measure your own table accurately, however, as an example, I shall explain how Mrs. J. S. would construct her cloth. Since half the width of her table is 12 inches and the height is 30 inches, these two measurements add up to 42 inches without any allowance for hemming. (Since you would ordinarily use a narrow rolled hem, you wouldn't need any additional length for this.)

Most fabrics are not as wide as you need (84 inches in this case), so it will be necessary to piece your fabric before you begin. If you seam the extra width on at each side of the one piece of wide fabric, the seams will hardly be noticed because of the way the skirt of the table cover hangs. A center seam for piecing is much less desirable.

After the fabric has been pieced and the seams pressed, fold and find the exact center. Measure a piece of string the exact length you need, which in Mrs. J.S.'s case would be 42 inches, and attach one end to a piece of chalk or pencil. Hold one end of the string tightly in your hand at the center of the fabric, and using the end with the chalk to move around the entire outer edge of the fabric, creating a perfect circle for you to cut.

Have fun, and make lots of these simple cover-ups for old tables, patio tables or whatever. They can spark up an entire room.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. A. M. Karstrom of San Diego is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following sewing suggestions:

"On articles that must be sewn, leaving a space for 'turning,' such as belts, pillow cases, neckline ties, etc. I sew a row of machine stitching on the seam-line on the two edges to be slip stitched later. Next, sew, turn, and slip stitch the machine stitching, rather than the fabric together, thus creating a continuous look of all inside stitching. Works perfectly because a stitched line turns in much more readily.

DEAR EUNICE,

I wish to make my husband and sons aloha shirts as the ready mades are quite expensive. My problem is that all patterns use a patch pocket instead of the welt pockets found on the better shirts.

Can you please tell me how to apply the pocket which is inside the shirt with just a welt showing on the outside?

MRS. E.W.K.

DEAR MRS. E.W.K.:

Patch pockets are used most frequently in the pattern books because they are so much easier to execute for the novice seamstress. If you desire to use the welt pockets, my advice to you would be to purchase a pattern with this type of pocket. You'll have the exact measurements as well as detailed instructions and you can easily substitute this type of pocket for the one used originally on the pattern.

This is zhe real run of sewing, branching out from the patterns and making your very own choice of trims, as well as details.

DEAR READERS,

Several weeks ago I wrote about a skirt that had a center front zipper with an opening below the zipper. I'm sorry that the pattern is discontinued. Unfortunately, there is no way that I can know just when this will happen. As all who sew know, some patterns remain on te books for five years, others seem to be removed overnight.

It is so simple to adapt your zipper closing to any basic skirt pattern. Choose a rather slim, A-line pattern, usually fitted at the waistline with darts, front and back. Instead of placing the center front of the pattern on the fold line of the fabric, place it 2 inches away from the fold, and cut the fabric on the fold.

Your center front seamline will now be the original fold line, and you'll find an extension of almost one and one-half inches on each side which will make a nice finish for the open section below the end of the zipper. Sorry for any inconvenience I have caused you. However, perhaps this little experience will teach you how simple it is to make minor design changes of your own and give you the courage to try your own innovations.

If you are having trouble with fitting your patterns to your figure, Eunice Farmer's booklet "Your Pattern and You" explains the common pattern adjustments with illustrations. For your booklet send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Eunice Farmer in care of the Independent-Journal.

Jasbir Brar To Claim Miss Foot

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Foot of Petaluma have announced the engagement of their daughter, Judith Ann, to Jasbir Singh Brar of Vairoke, Punjab, India.

A graduate of Petaluma High School and a sophomore at California State Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo, Judith is a member of the inter-collegiate track team. She is the sister of Betsy and Kenneth Foot and the granddaughter of Mrs. Eva Gregg of Petaluma.

Jasbir, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sacha S. Brar, has a sister, Sukhminder, and five brothers, Hardev, Jagdish, Inderjeet, Gurpreet and Jagroop, all of Punjab.

Affiliated with Alpha Gamma Sigma, American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the Indian Students Association, Jasbir received his education in both India and the United States. He was graduated from India's Government Higher Secondary School and Government Polytechnic College in India. Continuing his education in the U.S., he was graduated from West Hills Junior College in Coalinga in 1970 and will receive the B.S. degree in mechanical engineering from Cal Poly this year.

St. John's Episcopal Church in Petaluma will be the setting for the Sept. 2 wedding.

Using Buttons For Designs

Brightly colored buttons can be used to make designs on jeans, jackets, T-shirts or anything that needs brightening.

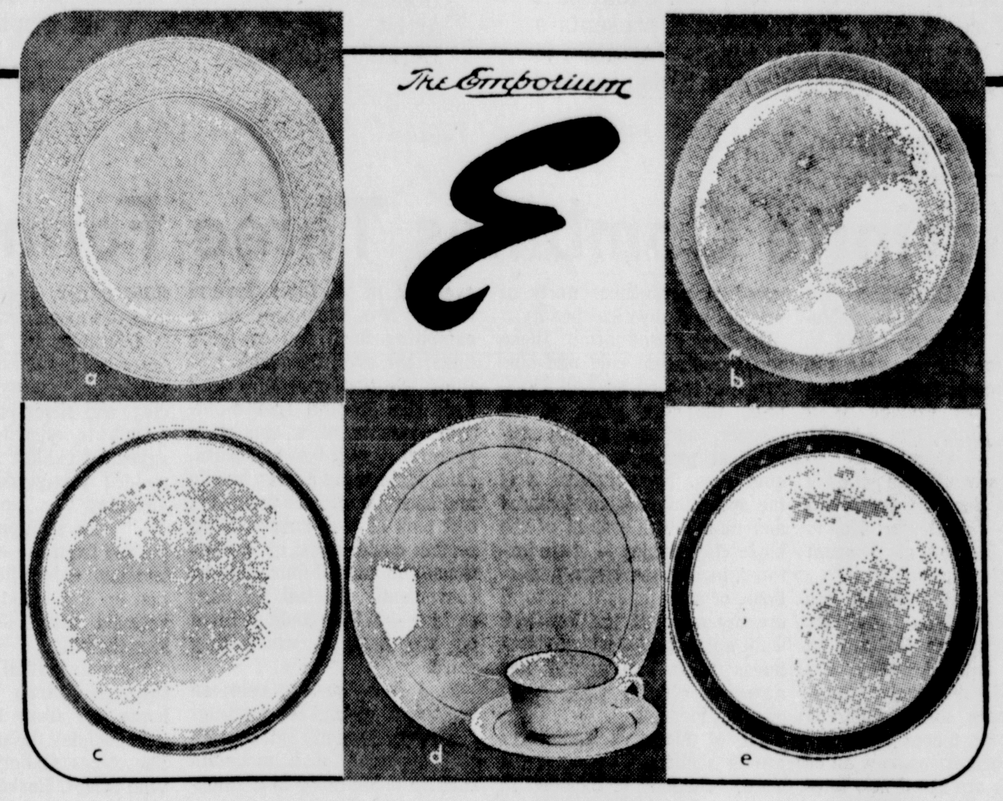

A tall giraffe or a long-stemmed flower can fit on the leg of pants, and a tree, flowers and sun design could be just what the back of a jacket needs for an individual look.

EVOLVING IMAGE — This stark four-part sculpture in clay and fibreboard presents a vision of a two-lane, hilly road's transition to a monument in the mind's eye. This clay and fiberboard work and others by Kentfield artist, Richard Moquin, is on display in a Berkeley gallery.

ART REVIEW

Marinite Combines Three Forms

By ADA GARFINKEL

BERKELEY — Richard Moquin, who has been living in Kentfield for just one year and who teaches sculpture at San Francisco City College, is a painter, a potter, and a sculptor.

Up until recently, his primary work was done in functional ceramics — good ones too, to judge by his list of museum credits and awards.

Now, however, Moquin has put it all together, and his exhibit at Ames Gallery in Berkeley, entitled "Clay and Fibreboard," is a major transition to pure form. Whereas formerly the pieces could be lifted off their bases, now all of the objects are fused into tote-mix-like sculptural units of pristine and mystical beauty.

At first observation, these sculptures seem cold and austere, due to their over-all whiteness, the high gloss of the lacquer, and the almost mechanical precision which Moquin uses. Nevertheless, it is the spontaneous innovativeness and uninhibited content of the basic clay shapes — their textures, incised markings, projections, or sometimes the natural creamy color of the low-fired whiteware clay — which transforms them into serene and arresting objects with which one can identify.

All of Moquin's aculptures are in sections — in fact the word, "section" is included in everyone of his titles. Several of the five sculptures he is exhibiting have two or more units, but even the single unit titled "Section: and ¼ = one" gets the Moquin treatment. This consists of a cup on a pedestal — split into four parts, each part having its own handle and each flat surface painted in soft pink or blue stripes. Each section could serve as a functional cup and all four could be conveniently stacked for easy storage — if they could be lifted off the base — which they can't!

In a more serious vein, an ecological vision, the four-unit "Highway Section" is a conceptual evolution of a mountain road to a highway, to a smog-filled crater, and finally to an abstract monument. The stages of transition are imaginatively described in painted "highway" markings, "smogy" airbrushed clay, and silver enamel.

This is a provactive and smashing exhibit . . . from the molded plexiglass, fibreboard, and clay ". . . and Section on . . ." with its upper part suspended from the ceiling, to the two-unit caterpiller-like "Section on Reflection" which a 2-year-old asked if she "could kiss them".

Moquin's exhibit will continue through March 15. Gallery hours are from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The Ames Gallery is at 2120 Vine Street, Berkeley.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Witness' Proves Suspensful Again

By KAY KSANDA

An old chestnut was pulled out of the fire last night when the Novato Community Players reactivated the suspense drama "Witness for the Prosecution," by the famed English mystery writer, Agatha Christie. The cast was excellent, the story still had its nice twist and its surprise ending, but the production was uneven, because the lead didn't know his lines.

Bill Murray as Sir Wilfrid Robarts, Q.C. has his character clearly defined, but was short on his speeches. He carried his script with him, and when his concentration broke, so did the momentum of the play. Perhaps by tonight at 8:30 o'clock and next Friday and Saturday nights, he'll make it a team effort.

The show is good, for it's beautifully cast, and has some very good acting. Regina Waldon in the part of the aging and spiteful housekeeper, Janet McKenzie, was outstanding, gripping, and very professional. Her portrayal of this supporting character lifted the show out of its secondary catagory into 15 minutes of real theater.

The story concerns the plight of Leonard Vole, born scapegoat, who is on trial for the murder of a middle-aged lady. His wife Romaine is more villianess than helpmate, and he seems to be certain for the hanging rope. The place is London, and the time is the present.

Jackie Proett as Romaine was excellent, and as clever with her German and cockney accents as Regina Waldon was with her Scotch burr. Both women had their deliveries down to a fine edge.

Another character, that of police Inupector Hearne, was so real that one would almost believe Harvey Teague is a policeman. Teague is better than that, he is captain of Marin County Sheriff's Department. Now, that's casting!

The momentum will surely catch, and the play should be all together after opening night jitters. Showtime is 8:30 p.m. at the Novato Community Playhouse next to city hall.

"WITNESS FOR THE PROSECUTION" — Mystery courtroom drama by Agatha Christie: produced by the Novato Community Players. Directed by Evans Burke; producer, Caryl Yaudes; sets, Joseph Jacob and Roy Mathias; costumes, Mavis Marney; lights, Pat Conway; sound, David Diamond. The cast: Meyers, Dale Kleine; Leonard Vole, Don Bosque; Sir Wilfred Robarts, William Murray; Romaine, Jackie Proett; secretary, Mavis Marney; Judge and clerk, Dan O'Brien; Inspector Hearne, Harvey Teague; housekeeper, Regina Waldron. Also: James Barrett, Craig Waller, Brian Dudley, Joseph Talarico, William Harsock, Richard and Marilyn Epidendio, Becky Hoetger, Carol Klein and Chuck Cherry.

Forum Set On Cancer Treatment

A film and a forum on the Laetrile technique of treating cancer will be presented Thursday and Friday, sponsored by the staff of the College Times, campus newspaper at the College of Marin.

Admisuion will be free for the film showing at 8 p.m. Thursday and the forum at noon Friday, both in the Student Center. Panelists will include Dr. Charles Gurchot, developer of the therapy, and Wynn Westover, representative of the McNaughton Foundation which has supported Laetrile research for 12 years, according to Jay Hutchinson of Fairfax.

Zunino Marriage Is Dissolved

The marriage of Marin Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino and his wife, Sally Louise, has been dissolved after an uncontested hearing in Marin Superior Court. The grounds were irreconcilable differences.

The Zuninos married in 1956 and Mrs. Zunino filed for dissolution in May of last year. Custody of two children, Ernest M., 11, and Laura L., 7, was granted to Mrs. Zunino.

Zunion, 41, joined the district attorney's staff in 1964. He ran unsuccessfully for municipal court judge in 1970.

Bids Opened On Highway 101 Projects

The state Divisqon of Highways has opened bids for work on two stretches of Highway 101 in Marin and Southern Sonoma.

The highway will be widened and resurfaced along a 3.8 mile stretch from the Golden Gate Bridge to about a third of a mile south of Richardson Bay Bridge. A fourth lane will be added, northbound, from just south of Rodeo Avenue in Sausalito to just south of Richardson Bay.

A drainage collection system will be constructed in the median of the freeway at the foot of Waldo Grade.

Five bids were received for the work, the lowest from McGuire and Hester of Oakland, $687,965.

Lighting systems will be modified along the highway in Sonoma County, from three-quarters of a mile south of the South Petaluma undercrossing to a third of a mile north of Route 12 in Santa Rosa.

Bids for this work included other construction on Route 12. Six bids were received for the entire package. Low bidder was the R. Flatland Co. of San Mateo, at $45,420.

Board To Eye Budget Figures

Preliminary projected budget expenditures for 1971-72 will be reviewed by the Sausalito School District board at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the district office, according to Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg.

Among the tentatively proposed budgets to be discussed: administration, instruction, transportation, plant operation and maintenance, fixed charges and capital outlay.

The board will also hear a report on the distict's second grade instructional program.

Home Owners Seek Relief—Bay Mud

The Marin County Assessments Appeals Board took under submission yesterday the tax appeals of seven Greenbrae Marina residents who claim their homes are slowly sinking in bay mud.

The seven are all part of a group of Larkspur homeowners who have filed suit against developers Niels J. Schultz Sr. and his son, Niels Jr.

The $1.5 million suit alleges that their homes — all located in the Greenbrae Marina subdivision — were built on marshland which the developers knew was improperly graded and filled.

During yesterday's appeals hearing, the seven homeowners sought substantial tax breaks, claiming their homes had lost value as a result.

One resident, Patricia Sorensen of 237 Riviera Circle, told the board her home built in 1967 cost $54,000. Because of subsidence, she estimated its worth now at between $30,000 and $35,000.

Walls are cracked, doors won't close and the fireplace is pulling away from the wall, Mrs. Sorensen said. Because of the tilt of the house, she continued, her cakes come out lopsided, eggs won't fry properly and water won't drain from her washing machine.

"We had to put four inch blocks of wood under the head of the bed in the guest room because a guest complained of the tilt," she added.

Others told similar stories yesterday, the third hearing on the homeowners' plight.

At the conclusion of yesterday's complex hearing, the three-man board agreed to take the appeals under submission and forward its findings within 15 days.

Besides Mrs. Sorensen, other homeowners appealing their assessments were:

Carlton D. Dethlefsen of 230 Riviera? Carlton F. Corey of 97 Corte Del Bayo, Frank M. Cooley of 270 Riviera, Earl B. Short Jr. of 255 Riviera, Jack D. Polan of 251 Riviera, and Ernest J. Russell of 10 Corte Del Bayo.

Short Comic Opera Set At Dominican

"The Mock Doctor, or, the Dumb-Lady Cured," a short comic opera by Moliere and Fielding, will be presented at Angelico Hall, Dominican College. The director will be Daniel E. Caldwell, actor in residence and drama instructor at Tamalpais High School.

Performances will be given at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and March 10, with a children's matinee at 2 p.m. March 11. Tickets will be sold only at the door.

Symphony To Feature The Salkins

The Marin Symphony Orchestra directed by Sandor Salgo will feature pianists Milton and Peggy Salkind as guest artists in its second concert of the 1971-72 season on March 7 at 8:30 p.m. at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Residents of Mill Valley, the Salkinds, who specialize in the literature of music originally written for four hands, one piano, will perform Andrew Imbrie's Little Concerto for Piano Four Hands.

The program will also include Schumann's Symphony No. 3 in E Flat Major, Richard Strauss's "Don Juan" and Mozart's Concerto for Horn No. 4 in E Flat Ma jor, with David Sprung, principal French horn of the symphony as soloist.

This program originally announced for April 11 replaces the Honegger dramatic oratorio "Jeanne D'Arc Au Bucher," which will be presented on that date.

The American Heart Association says more than 27 million Americans have some form of heart and blood vessel disease.

14 INCHES

Thick. That's how solid the walls are in this HOME. In 1906 there was more room and more lumber that's why this mansion was built and still reigns over 5.33 acres. The old red-brown shingles blend in with the towering redwood grove. All rooms are spacious and have 40 ft. ceilings. A wide staircase leads to 3 big, bright bedrooms. Demanding $110,000.

WOODS & WATER

Your own black forest chalet perched on the waters of San Francisco Bay. The main house in this snug sanctuary is redwood exterior, all knotty pine in, and features 2 loft bedrooms, a captain's bunk in the living room, a sitting room for solitary gazing at the City. A boat slip in the cellar, and it's own beach. Separate guest house, separate beach house are ideal incomes. A truly unique and prized location. EXCLUSIVELY OURS at $90,000.

DOUBLE "A" FRAME

with a stunning view of 4 to 5 counties, and the cool waters of the Bay. Luxuriously private. Lots of glass. 4 bedrooms plus loft, attic, dining room, electric kitchen, 3 full baths. Enjoy the Alps of Marin. Only $64,500.

NOTICE OF DATE FIXED FOR SUBMITTING ARGUMENTS ON SCHOOL DISTRICT MEASURE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that at an election to be held in the SHORELINE UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT of Marin and Sonoma Counties, California, on June 6, 1972, there will be submitted to the voters the following measure:

PROPOSITION

Shall the SHORELINE UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT incur a bonded indebtedness in the sum of $1,200,000.00, bearing interest at not to exceed 7% per annum payable annually the first year and semi-annually thereafter, for the purpose of raising money for the following purposes (which are hereby united and shall be voted upon as one single proposition) to-wit:

(1) The purchasing of school lots.
(2) The building or purchasing of school buildings.
(3) The making of alterations or additions to the school building or buildings other than such as may be necessary for current maintenance, operation or repairs.
(4) The repairing, restoring or rebuilding of any school building damaged, injured or destroyed by fire or other public calamity.
(5) The supplying of school buildings and grounds with furniture, equipment or necessary apparatus of a permanent nature.
(6) The permanent improvement of the school grounds.
(7) The carrying out of the projects or purposes authorized in Section 15811 of the Education Code, to-wit: Providing sewers and drains adequate to treat and/or dispose of sewage and drainage on or away from each school property.
(8) The demolition or razing of any school building with the intent to replace it with another school building, whether in the same location or in any other location?

Arguments for or against this measure may be submitted to the Elections Department, Room 152, Hall of Justice, Civic Center, San Rafael, California, not later than March 6, 1972, which has been determined by the County Clerk to be a reasonable date based upon the time reasonably necessary to prepare and submit the arguments. No argument shall exceed 300 words in length. Arguments may be submitted by the Governing Board of the District or a member or members authorized by it, any individual voter, any bona fide association of citizens or any combination of such voters and citizens.

Pursuant to Sections 1461 and 1463 of the Education Code, one argument for and one argument against each measure will be selected for printing and distribution to the voters with the card notice of election. Preference and priority in selection will be given to arguments of the following, in the order named:

1) A member or members authorized by the Governing Board.
2) Bona fide associations of citizens.
3) Individual voters.

All arguments submitted must be verified. The proper form of verification is available from the County Clerk.

New Rules For Boating Safety

Marin County boating enthusiasts will be facing a new set of Coast Guard requirements for lifesaving equipment this summer.

New regulations, which take effect April 17, 1972, call for one of several types of approved flotation device for each passenger in sailboats, canoes and rowboats as well as motorboats. Present requirements cover only motorboats.

A Coast Guard spokesman said regulations were expanded in an attempt to cut down boating deaths. The action was taken under the authority of the 1971 Boat Safety Act.

Docent Tours Of Museum Announced

Docent tours of the Louise A. Boyd Museum of Science in San Rafael will begin the first week in March. Designed for children but open to interested adults, the trips are guided by trained volunteer workers. The museum is located at 76 Albert Park Lane.

The tours are intended to teach children about the different ecological communities in the county, according to museum director Stephen Siegel. The museum also maintains a zoo of county animals.

MUSIC TO HIS EARS — Rev. Al Price of St. Paul's Episcopal Church practices a few chords on the church's new organ. It was built in Germany and includes two manual keyboards, a pedal board and about 1,000 pipes — many of which can be seen in the background.

A New Organ's Dedication

A new organ at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, San Rafael, will be officially dedicated at 10 a.m. services tomorrow.

"The recent acquisition of the organ commemorated the 100th anniversary of the church, and is dedicated to parishioners who founded and nourished St. Paul's from 1868 to 1968," said Rev. Al Price, church organist-choirmaster.

Price will be aided in the special performance by trumpets, trombones and tympani, all played by San Rafael High School students.

"The organ was obtained through the generosity and love of parishioners, over and above their regular subscription to the financial outlays of St. Paul's," Price said.

The final payment on the organ will be given tomorrow to a representaitve of the builder —the Augustus Laukauf Company of Germany

Price said the public is invited to the services. Rev. Hugh Hardin is rector of the church.

Fund Appeal Week Will Begin Soon

The 26th annual Catholic Relief Overseas Aid Fund Appeal will be held March 5-12, the week culminating in a special collection in all Catholic churches.

Proceeds from the appeal support emergency relief, social welfare and self-help programs operated by Catholic Relief Services, the overseas aid and development agency of American Catholics, in 70 countries of Africa, Asia and Latin America. Aid is distributed to more than 27 million people each year.

Catholic Relief Services is a major source of relief supplies and financial support for victims of military and civil strife in East Pakistan as well as survivors of killer tidal waves in the Bay of Bengal.

The national goal for the 1972 appeal is $10 million, the minimum amount required to maintain the worldwide programs.

Minister's Wife Doesn't Quite Fit The Stereotype

"I think the wife of a minister just starting out can be a little paranoid," says Mrs. Edwards, wife of The Rev. James R. Edwards of the First Presbyterian Church in Colorado Springs.

"The seminaries tend to make wives more worried about the future than they need to be," she said. "Once you get into the church you realize that it is people, not just a structure."

Mrs. Edwards and her husband arrived in Colorado Springs last September after his graduation from Princeton Theological Seminary. Since then, Mrs. Edwards says, she has become totally involved with her husband's work.

"I don't feel that a position has been imposed on me at all," she says. "If I couldn't be enthusiastic about church activities, then how could I expect the members (of the church) to be?"

Mrs. Edwards also says she believes the stereotype of the church as a monolithic institution disinterested in current problems is erroneous.

"I believe that the church moves enough that outdated attitudes can be improved upon," she says.

"As a couple, Jim and I really have a chance to witness together young people. These days, youth lacks the image of a couple. For them to see a husband and wife moving and changing is really important."

According to Mrs. Edwards, one of her most important jobs is seeing that her husband remembers he's as important to his family as he is to his parishoners.

"Jim's Monday off is really sacred. Since he gives so hard all week long, he neds the break. We love the outdoors and usually use his day off to go to the mountains. Jim's wise enough to think I'm a pretty important priority in his life."

'Superstar' At Old First Presbyterian

A stage production of the rock opera "Jesus Christ Superstar" will be presented Sunday nights at 7 and Saturday nights at 8 opening tomorrow and continuing through Easter Sunday.

All performances will be held at Old First Presbyterian Church, Sacramento at Van Ness. Doors will be open one-half hour before curtain time. Admission is free.

MARIN CHURCH EVENTS

Covenant Church Leader To Speak Here Sunday

DR. M. B. ENGEBRETSON
Question-answer session

Dr. Milton B. Engebretson, president of the Evangelical Covenant Church of America, will be guest speaker tomorrow at the 9:30 a.m. worship service of the Marin Covenant Church.

"What Holds the Church Together?" will be the topic of his talk. Following the service, he will be open for questions in the 10:45 adult class. Simultaneously, there will be classes for children of all ages.

Engebretson is in California on an administrative tour of Covenant churches in California and Arizona. This will be his first visit to Marin County since the local church formed three and one-half years ago.

Engebretson has been president of the Covenant since June 1967.

Brotherhood Lecture

The third and final February "brotherhood lecture" at Novato Congregational Fellowship at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow is "Which is Now the Black Moses — Booker T. Washington, Dr. W. E. B. Du Bois, or Marcus Garvey?"

The public is invited to the lecture and discussion at the Patio Building, 864 East Grant Avenue, Novato. It will be supplemented with a short audiovisual presentation.

Environment Talks

The Fairfax Community and St. Augustine's Episcopal churches are sponsoring a series of environmental discussions during the Lenten season. All presentations are at 8 p.m. at Fairfax Community Church.

The next discussion, on March 1, will be led by John Clark who will talk on the People's Lobby and the Clean Environment Bill. Mary Davi and Polly Smith will talk on parks and open space on March 8 and County Supervisor Peter Arrigoni will talk about county environmental issues on March 22.

The sessions are open to the public.

The Medium

Poetry is the medium through which Marin Unitarians hope to better know other members tomorrow at 11 a.m. services. JoAnn Edson, Dave Granley, Wally Kibbee, Sandy Byers, Barbara Voorhees, Aileen Menard and Chris Hansen —a junior high student — all will read poems. Visitors are welcome to the services at the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin, 240 Channing Way, San Rafael.

Divine Healing

Divine healing's place in prophecy will be examined tomorrow at Christian Science church services. "Christ Jesus" is the subject of the Bible lesson-sermon.

Services at First Church of Christ, Scientist, San Rafael, will be conducted by Edwin Bare and Georgia Jordan at 9:30 and 11 a.m.

Lenten Services

Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church in Tiburon is holding Lenten services on Sundays at 7 p.m. tomorrow and on March 5, 12 and 19.

OF GOD AND MAN

Some People Believe In Miracles

By LOUIS CASSELS
U. P. International

Some people believe in miracles, not merely as events that may have occurred long ago in Palestine, but as a live possibility here and now.

Others regard miracle stories as an embarrassing survival of primitive superstitution, a stumbling block to Christian faith in a scientific age.

Nearly everyone develops one attitude or the other by his late teens. Thereafter his mind tends to harden around his adopted attitude, automatically rejecting any contrary argument.

Observing this, the late C. S. Lewis concluded that it is not evidence, pro or con, but preconceptions which determine whether a person believes in miracles.

Lewis felt it was footless for Christians who believe in miracles to offer testimony or "evidence" to non-believers. Not even directpersonal experience, he said, can convince a mn who's already made up his mind that miracles cannot happen.

"Whatever experiences we may have, we shall not regard them as miraculous if we already hold a philosophy which excludes the supernatural," he said. "Any event which is claimed as a miracle is, in the last resort, an experience received from the senses; and the senses are not infallible. We can always say we have been the victims of an illusion. If we believe in the supernatural, this is what we always shall say.

"If the end of the world appeared in all the literal trappings of the apocalyptic vision of the Book of Revelation, if the modern materialist saw with his own eyes the heavens rolled up and the great white throne appearing, if he had the sensation of being himself hurled into the lake of fire, he would continue forever, in that lake itself, to regard his experience as an illusion, and to find the explanation of it in psychoanalysis or cerebral pathology."

In the same way, Lewis said, people whose faith is heavily mortgaged to belief in miraculous "guarantees" are preconditioned to imagine miracles where none have occurred, and often consider it a mark of piety to accept gullibly every miracle story that is spread abroad.

Neither of these extreme attitudes seemed reasonable to Lewis, the brilliant Oxford don who probably was the most persuasive advocate of mature Christian faith in this century.

As a thoroughgoing intellectual, Lewis accepted fully the findings of modern science and took for granted the "normal stability of nature." But he was also convinced that there is "a reality beyond nature."

When both of these beliefs are held at once, and only then, Lewis argued, a person "can approach with an open mind the various reports which claim that this super-or extra-natural reality has sometimes invaded and disturbed the sensuous content of space and time which makes our natural world".

If we take an open-minded look at the evidence, Lewis said, "we find that accounts of the supernatural meet us on every side."

"History is full of them— often in the same documents which we accept wherever they do not report miracles. Respectable missionaries report them not infrequently. Intimate conversation elicits from almost every acquaintance at least one episode in his life he would call 'queer'.

"No doubt most stories of miracles are unreliable... but then, so are most stories of all events. Each story must be taken on its merits. What one must not do is to rule out the supernatural as the one impossible explanation."

And that of course is just what a great many people today have done. They simply disbelieve, a priori, in the reality of any event—whether it be an ancient event such as the healing of a terminal cancer — which cannot be "explained" in naturalistic terms.

Thus they close their minds to the great truth which Shakespeare put into the mouth of Hamlet:

"There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosphy."

Lewis's discussion of miracles is one of the hitherto unpublished essays collected posthumously by his long-time friend and former personal secretary Walter Hooper, recently published in the United States by the William B. Erdmands Publishing Co., Grand Rapids, Mich., under the title, "God in the Dock." It is highly commended to all Lewis fans.

BAPTISM OF ICE

Kent Wheeler of Bradford, N.H., is baptized into the Newbury, N. H., Free Will Baptist Church by Pastor Mack Owens in the icy water of Hall's Lake. Church members cut through 28 inches of ice to create a baptismal pool for the ceremony. Temperature at the time was five degrees above zero.

Tam Cagers Beaten By San Rafael; Drake Stops Novato

Injured Garner Sees Indians Fall, 58-47

By PAUL CANE

The Tamalpais High School Indians "are not a one-man gang," according to coach Bernie Schneider, but they certainly looked like a reasonable facsimile after last night's 58-47 loss to the San Rafael Bulldogs at College of Marin in Kentfield.

Star forward Will Garner sat dolefully on the bench watching as his cohorts dropped their second straight Marin County Athletic League basketball contest since he pulled an abdominal muscle last week.

The defeats meant nothing in the league standings, since Tam had already clinched the MCAL title. The Indians finished 12-2 in the league and 19-7 for the year. San Rafael, surging at the finish of the race after stumbling in the backstretch, won its third straight to take third in the league at 9-5, with a 15-13 over-all record.

Center Wayne Lechner did the scoring honors for San Rafael with 19, and pulled in 15 rebounds as Tamalpais suffered underneath without its star.

Instead of working inside as is their custom, the Indians "tried to hit the open man," according to Schneider, but were stymied by the San Rafael aggressive zone defense, led at the top of the key by Ken Mallett and under the basket by Lechner and Duke Bessee.

Mallett, in relief of foul-plagued Jerry Molinari, was credited with five assists in addition to his fine defensive work.

San Rafael trailed at the half by a point, nudged ahead by one entering the final period, and crunched the Indians 20-10 in the fourth quarter.

Donnie Canfield scored 15 and Duke Bessee had 13 for San Rafael.

Tamalpais relied on guard David Jones (18) for its scoring, but was outmanned physically underneath by the Bulldogs.

San Rafael collected innumerable tip-ins and short jump shots, points which Garner viciously restricts when he is in the lineup.

According to Schneider, Garner's injury should be fully healed by the middle of next week, giving him "at least a week" of practice time before Tam travels to Oakland for the Tournament of Champions beginning March 9.

Although Tam closed off the season with a pair of losses, Schneider was not displeased with his team's efforts. "We sort of fell apart there, but we played a lot of guys who weren't used to playing with each other. A lot of our boys learned out there."

Filling in for Garner was 6-1 Cas Dickens, who ended with seven points. Mike Dinehart, the Indian "big man," was held outside and limited to three.

WHICH WAY TO GO? — Ed Chavez of Drake (22) tried to find a way around Novato's Tom Conklin (30) in the second quarter of last night's basketball game at Novato. He couldn't do it and was called for travelling, but did little else wrong all night in sparking Drake to a 60-51 victory in a Marin County Athletic League finale.

Ed Chavez Triggers Pirates' Late Rally

By LEW CODDINGTON

With the hottest hand and the coolest head in the house, sophomore guard Ed Chavez fired Drake High School to a 60-51 victory over Novato last night with a 12-point explosion in the fourth quarter.

Chavez' heroics erased a five-point lead which Novato had fashioned after switching to a zone defense in the second half. A zone provides no barrier against somebody ramming home jump shots from the 15-20 foot range, as Chavez did on four occasions.

The triumph gave Drake undisputed possession of fourth place in the Marin County Athletic League with a 7-7 record, and closed the Pirates' season with a 14-13 over-all log. Novato finished 5-9 in the MCAL and 11-15 for the year.

"He's something, isn't he?" beamed Drake coach Bob Fitzhenry about Chavez. "He's got a lot of confidence."

Chavez played only the second and fourth quarters and finished with 14 points, high for Drake. Greg Shaw scored 12, Tom Carlisle 11 and Ric Herbert 10. Herbert, who played the other guard opposite Chavez, also had an excellent fourth quarter with eight points.

Marty Moroski of Novato led all scorers with 17 points, playing despite what coach Jim Carnica conceded might be a broken foot or ankle bone, sustained in the second quarter.

In the first half, Moroski was the only Hornet to consistently penetrate Drake's 1-3-1 zone defense, on drives or with passes. Novato shot from outside with medium success and trailed by narrow margins, including 25-20 at halftime.

Novato went to a zone in the second half and simultaneously got strong work on the defensive boards from Willie Barnes. With Joe Powell hitting twice from the left corner, the Hornets erased a 32-29 Drake advantage to lead at the end of three quarters, 38-34, and they later stretched the margin to 45-40.

Chavez put Drake ahead to stay with 4:10 remaining on a unique four-point play. He rifled home a long jumper, was fouled afterwards, and made both ends of a one-and-one for a 46-45 Pirate lead.

Events soon became frantic. Play was halted to clear the Drake cheerleaders off the court. Shortly afterward, a Drake player mistakenly tried a layup at his own basket, but missed.

Chavez kept cool. He maintained control of the ball on offense, and found time during the fourth period to force jump balls, intercept passes, grab rebounds, and generally make himself obnoxious to Novato.

Drake won the game at the free-throw line, making 20 of 28 shots compared to 11 of 22 for Novato.

Big 10 Upholds Suspensions

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) —University of Minnesota basketball players Corky Taylor and Ron Behagen began serving the rest of their suspensions today, insisting they were "victims of circumstances" during a hearing before officials of seven Big Ten Athletic Departments.

The Big Ten panel remained behind closed doors for almost 24 hours after the hearing. Then in a written decision, the seven men announced they had unanimously upheld the suspensions of the two 6-foot-9 juniors by Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke for "flagrantly unsportsmanlike" conduct during a brawl with 36 seconds remaining in the Jan. 25 Minnesota-Ohio State game.

The panel also prohibited the players from practicing with the team or participating in any post-season games.

"I think we were just victims of circumstances," Taylor said Friday night. "I'm just going to try not to get too emotional. There's too much politics in it at this point."

The two originally were suspended jointly by the Twin Cities Assembly Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics and the Big Ten. But when the Minnesota Student-Faculty Group reinstated them Feb. 10, Duke clamped on a full-season suspension-his first big decision since he took the post last fall.

U.S. District Court Judge Earl Larson then ruled that Duke had power only to suspend the players "temporarily," and ordered a hearing before the athletic directors to insure "due process."

"They weren't gonna let Duke fall out the window," Behagen said. "I never felt, when the judge said he had to go before the athletic directors, that I would be able to play again this year. But it was that one chance in a million that made me give my testimony."

The seven athletic directors on the jury refused to comment on their decision.

In a 10-page written decision, the directors ruled that the length of the suspensions is unprecedented in Big Ten basketball, but that the actions by Taylor and Behagen also were unprecedented.

Tam Indian Nickname Under Fire

Two proposals to change the name of the Indian mascot have been advanced at Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley — one by a teachers' organization, the other by a student.

The Tam High School chapter of the Tamalpais Federation of Teachers (FTF), an organization which represents about 30 per cent of the teachers, adopted a two-point proposal last week.

"We want to change the name from Indians to something else, and we want to set up a procedure whereby we could democratically, by large involvement, come up with a more suitable symbol," said Frank Gold, past TFT president, who made the proposal.

A proposal to change the name from Indians to "an animal" was put before the student council Wednesday by Kim Baez, a freshman student who is part Aztec and Sioux.

"A discussion was entered into by the student council," said John McSween, director of student activities and finance. "The proposal was tabled until next Wednesday's meeting."

Baez also is circulating petitions among the student body in an effort to gain support.

The Tam High chapter of the Tamalpais District Teachers Association, which represents the large majority of teachers at the high school, has not yet taken a stand, but may do so in the next few days, according to its local vice-president, Pete Klain.

Indian nicknames for athletic teams at the professional and collegiate level have come under fire in recent weeks as being mocking or degrading to native American Indians.

MARIN TAR CAGERS IN FINALE TONIGHT

College of Marin's basketball team will be in San Bruno tonight for its season finale against Skyline College, 8 o'clock.

The Tars must win and hope for the upset of the year in the Camino Norte Conference when Santa Rosa Junior College hosts Contra Costa College of San Pablo tonight.

Contra Costa's Comets lead the conference with a 12-1 record while Marin trails with a 11-2, the 60-52 loss Wednesday to West Valley College of Campbell being the costly blow to the Tars' chances. Prior to that loss, the Mariners, winners of 25 of their 28 games, were ranked No. 3 in the state.

Champ team of the CNC advances to the state playoffs March 9-11 in Ventura, unless there is a tie. If there is a tie for the title, a regional playoff game would be held sometime next week.

Four Share Lead In Gleason Golf

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—When the sponsors of the $260,000 Jackie Gleason Inverrary Golf Classic decided to put up the year's biggest golf prize, they had a right to expect a pretty good tournament. And so far, what they are getting is a lot better than pretty good.

Not only were four tour pros tied for the lead with seven others just two shots off the pace after two rounds Friday, but all four of golf's super names —Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Lee Trevino and Arnold Palmer —were within striking range of the $52,000 first prize.

Leaders Gene Littler, John Schlee, Buddy Allin and Dick Lotz and the four stars all agreed that the reason for the tight competition and the exciting golf is the deceptively tough par 72, 7,182-yard Inverrary course designed by Robert Trent Jones.

"This is one of the greatest golf courses I've ever played. It's fantastic," says Player.

The course proved such a stern test, that even on a relatively calm south Florida day, Littler could shoot a one-over-par 73 and still claim a share of the lead. Littler had gone into the day with a two-stroke lead over Bruce Crampton, who shot a 74 Friday and still is only three strokes off the pace.

Crampton, Nicklaus and Player, along with six other golfers, shared three-under-par 141 scores.

"I played pretty well," said Player. "I played all right," said Nicklaus.

The satisfied looks on the two faces belied the understatements and Player and Nicklaus were obviously both confident they would be in the chase for the big money until the end.

Trevino shot a 67 —among the best rounds of the day —but he didn't look or act satisfied.

"I haven't had time to work on my golf this year. Too many outside interests," he said before leaving for an afternoon-long session on a practice putting green.

Car Racing Set In Santa Rosa

Bay Cities Racing Association super midget auto race in Santa Rosa tonight at 8 o'clock will end the season at the Sonoma County Fairgrounds Exposition Pavilion site.

Qualifying is set for 7 p.m. with racing scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock. General admission is $2.75 with youngsters 13 to 16 at $2 and 6 to 12 year-olds at $1. Children under six are free as is the ample parking.

Chuvalo Suspended In Canada

WINNIPEG, Man. (UPI) — The Manitoba Boxing and Wrestling Commission today called on the Canadian Boxing Association to follow its lead and suspend those who took part in the four-fight card here Monday, in which one boxer died and another charged he took a dive under threat of death.

In announcing their suspensions Friday from any professional or exhibition event in Manitoba, the commission said it hoped the Canadian Boxing Association would make a similar ruling.

The suspensions were to remain in effect until completion of a one-man inquiry into "irregularities" on the card and claim by Christopher he threw his bout against Chuvalo because his life had been threatened.

Chuvalo and his manager have dismissed the charge as "ridiculous."

Ungerman told newsmen that if the fight was to have been thrown "it would be a Chuvalo that would have been approached not a Christopher.

"I'm shocked that the boxing Commission would even permit Christopher in the same ring as Chuvalo," Ungerman said. "So that's your answer right there."

Christopher said in a signed statement to the boxing commission Thursday that a man he could not identify had threatened his life in his hotel room just prior to the heavyweight fight.

Seals To Visit Chicago Tonight

CHICAGO (UPI) —Winner of only one game in the month of February, the California Golden Seals open a three-game road trip tonight against the Chicago Black Hawks.

While Chicago is trying to snap its two-game losing streak, the Seals are trying to shake a six-game winless string. Only time the Seals have won thus far in February was 3-2 over Philadelphia on the 9th.

The Seals play at Buffalo Sunday and tackle the Rangers in Madison Square Garden Wednesday night before returning home.

UNEXPECTED MOVE

Ken Holtzman In A's Camp

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) —Newly acquired lefthander Ken Holtzman showed up unexpectedly Friday in the spring training camp of the Oakland Athletics.

Holtzman, acquired from the Chicago Cubs for Rick Monday, wasn't expected until next week because his wife was undergoing emergency surgery in Chicago. But he flew to Arizona when his wife was reported in good condition following the surgery.

Fifteen pitchers, six catchers and shortstop Bert Campaneris went through 2 1-2 hours of workouts in the Arizona desert.

Normally, Campaneris would not be required to report until Sunday with the rest of the squad. But he wants to take some time off in March to visit his Cuban parents in Mexico City so he was given permission to report early. Campy hasn't seen his folks in 10 years.

Absent but not forgotten was ace lefthander Vida Blue who is holding out for roughly a $75,000 raise above his $14,750 salary of last season.

Players in camp debated the merits of Blue's salary demands. In addition to Blue, only second baseman Dick Green and rookie pitcher Gil Marcano have yet to come to terms.

Dave Kingman 'Key' To Giants' Lineup

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) —Manager Charlie Fox of the San Francisco Giants envisions a lineup which starts off with Willie Mays, Chris Speier, Dave Kingman, Willie McCovey and Bobby Bonds.

Meanwhile, ace relief pitcher Jerry Johnson and righthander Jim Willoughby signed 1972 contracts Friday. That leaves righthanded pitcher Juan Marichal, southpaw Ron Bryant and infielder Tito Fuentes as the major holdouts.

Two pitchers who have been impressive thus far are lefthander Mike McCormick, the former Cy Young Award winner making a comeback from a back operation, and Don Carrithers, who was 7-3 at Phoenix and 5-3 with San Francisco last season.

Seattle Sues ABA In McDaniels Row

SEATTLE (UPI) —The Seattle Supersonics and basketball player Jim McDaniels Friday brought a $1.3 million antitrust suit against the Caroline Cougars, the American Basketball Association and others.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court here, also seeks to prohibit the Carolina team and the ABA from interfering with the contract between McDaniels and the Sonics and a court Order saying that McDaniels be allowed to play for Seattle.

A restraining order was serving on McDaniels by the Cougars Wednesday night prohibiting him from playing with the Sonics.

U.S. District Judge Morell Sharp said a hearing on the Supersonics' request for a preliminary injunction against the Cougars will be set as soon as all defendants in the suit have been notified of the action.

The suit accuses the defendants of engaging in conspiracy and restraint of trade by attempting to "suppress competition of the National Basketball Association and its teams in selection and solicitation of college basketball players.

The plaintiffs say the Cougars illegally signed McDaniels to a contract with promises of bonuses. The suit also charges the ABA with preventing the NBA from acquiring top basketball talent.

In their suit the plaintiffs contend the Cougars acted in violation of ABA rules when they "secretly solicited" McDaniels while he was a college student at Western Kentucky.

The suit also says the Cougars violated rules of the National Collegiate Athletic Association when they "induced" McDaniels to sign a contract before the draft selection date agreed upon by both the ABA and the NBA.

Bay Area Lacrosse Team In Pebble Beach

A Bay Area junior lacrosse team, which includes representatives of four Marin County squads, will play a Robert Louis Stevenson School All-Star team tomorrow, 1 p.m. in Pebble Beach.

The Bay Area team will include delegates from Novato's Parks and Recreation and the Church of Latter Day Saints teams, plus members from the Corte Madera Lacrosse club and the San Rafael Parks & Recreation Department.

Warriors Host Chicago Bulls In NBA Battle

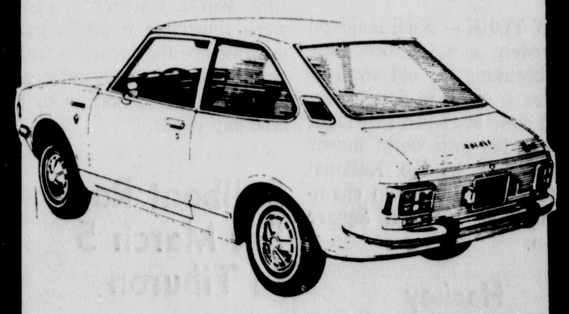

OAKLAND (UPI) — Golden State's somewhat slippery grip on second place in the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division may depend on how well Clyde Lee can handle Bob Love tonight in Oakland.

But with Lee of the Warriors guarding him, Love managed a total of 29 points in his last two games against Golden State. He averages 26 points a game.

After tonight's game, the Warriors hustle to Houston for a date with the Rockets Sunday and return to Oakland for a matchup with the Cincinnati Royals on Tuesday night.

Giants' Cumberland Wants To Be Third

CASA GRANDE — John Cumberland finished the 1971 baseball season as the No. 3 starting pitcher of the Giants. The same young man is determined to start the 1972 season in the same rotation slot behind Juan Marichal and Sam McDowell.

"That's my plan," said the six-foot southpaw. "All I have to do is convince Charlie Fox."

Cumberland didn't come to spring camp with any cluttered ideas of how to implement his plan. He isn't going to try any new pitch. He isn't going to try any new strategy.

"I'm going to go with the same stuff," said Cumberland. "I think I had pretty good success with it last season, especially against the Braves and Cubs."

Cumberland, indeed, had exceptional success against Atlanta and Chicago. In fact, he was a perfect 4-0 against the Braves, 2-0 against the Cubs. Against other clubs he wasn't as perfect and wound up with 9-6 record and commendable 2.92 ERA.

HANK AARON, Atlanta's big belter, still hasn't gotten a hit off Cumberland. For some reason Aaron had trouble last season against all Giant lefthanders. Hammerin' Hank's batting average against Giant southpaws was .195 last year.

What is Cumberland's pitching secret against Aaron?

"Well, I wouldn't call it a secret," said Cumberland. "I throw him nothing but screwballs. However, I did make one mistake against him last year and got away with it. I was lucky. He popped it up and then said something to Russ Gibson who was catching me at the time."

What Aaron said to Gibson was: "Who does that young fellow think he is, Sandy Koufax?"

CUMBERLAND weighed 202 when the season ended last year. He weighed 202 when he checked in this spring.

"How did I stay in shape during the winter?" Cumberland echoed a question. "By making my own bricks for a retaining wall on a 15 acre ranch I bought. I have three horses, three cows, a big house and barn on the place. It's at Dunedin in Florida. My wife loves it as much as I do. Some friends are taking care of it for us until we get back home next October."

October?

"YES, the middle of October," said Cumberland, "after the World Series. We got as far as pennant playoffs last season. This year I have every confidence we're going all the way. We're better than we were last year.

"We'll have Dave Kingman's big bat right from the start of the new season. And Willie McCovey is sound again after his winter knee operation."

CYCLE TRAINING — Driver safety instructor Maurice Weinger adjusted the helmet of student Karen Plumhof, while Gerald Diaz, Marin County Motorcycle Association teacher, pointed out vehicle features to rider Brian Kane yesterday at Redwood High School in Larkspur. IN MARIN SCHOOL CLASS

Motorcycle Safety Added

By RON LENT

Sigmund Freud would likely suggest cycle therapy for motor-powered bike enthusiasts afflicted with delusions of adequacy when speeding pell mell on highways.

However, the Marin Motorcycle Club has an alternative to Freud's mythical approach: the free, club-sponsored safe cycle riding course.

The club, a 200-member strong organization geared to promoting the sport of motorcycling and safety, has been masterminding this defensive driving-oriented program for five years.

"We've taught some 500 people the basics of safety in driving and equipment," Gerald M. Diaz, a former club president and class teacher pointed out.

FREE COURSE

Although this course is free, applicants must meet certain requirements, such as possession of a valid California driver's permit, proof of age exceeding 15½; and, if under 21, written parental permission.

"We have been supplying everything else," Diaz continued, including cycles, safety equipment such as helmets, classroom material including films, and course locales.

In presenting the course free to eligible persons, the club hopes to maximize cycle safety and minimize accidents by promoting the class at all Marin County high schools, according to Diaz.

AT REDWOOD

He added, "We will have our next course at Redwood High in April, and we hope to have a summer course at Novato High starting in June, like we did last year."

For the record, Diaz asserted that Novato High's undertaking last summer marked the first time such a class was accredited. "It was given one credit, and that's just great. The idea is we would like this at all the Marin high schools."

If this dream became a reality, it would culminate five years of intensive work by the safety-minded organization.

The affable Diaz recalled that "we in the club knew that cycle accidents were all too common, and, even if you just fell off a cycle, you were bound to get hurt. So we wanted to do something about it.

"Five years ago we made an initial approach to Marin high schools seeking their cooperation in a motorcycle driver training course similar to that taught with automobiles. We did not get the response desired. So we went elsewhere and took ads in newspapers.

CYCLE ACCIDENTS

"Since we knew that some 75 per cent of all cycle accidents involved people with less than three months riding experience we knew something had to be done," he emphasized.

Thus, Diaz and company did not take no as an answer from Marin schools. "The public read our adds," he stated, "and responded favorably. We started out with a two-hour classroom session and a three-hour riding session.

CLASS WORK

"It has grown 12 hours in class work and nine hours in riding," he explained. Diaz, the in-class instructor, noted, "We try to tell students about safety and the importance of using good equipment. We explain what are good safety helmets and bad; we try to stress the importance of a tuned motor, tight spokes and good brakes.

"And in this course at Redwood in April, we will be taking this one step further. We are going to talk about responsibility when riding the dirtbikes in the hills, about possible property damage . . . "

NO SNAP

Diaz declared that this "is no snap course. We've flunked people. Some people have failed the test at the end of the course."

Although course students have failed, the community has not. "We've received vital help from the San Rafael and Novato police departments. We've got films, projectors and instruction from them. We can't say enough for their help in aiding this program's growth."

While tossing the kudos, Diaz lobbed a few towards his Marin Motorcycle Club. "You've got to have a pretty fine organization when you have 200 paid-up members. And some of those same members loaned their smaller vehicles for use in the program. In addition, several motorcycle store owners contributed at least three more per year on a loan basis."

He also said that the organization supplied the safety equipment.

Yet, to Diaz and the Marin Mtorcycle Club, it is worth the effort when attempting to teach proper handling of two-wheeled, motor-powered vehicles.

Board Spurns Black Charges

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

EAST LANSING, Mich. — The Michigan State University Board of Trustees refused yesterday to support charges made by three faculty members that the Big Ten discriminates against black athletes.

The board first rejected, on a 5-3 vote, a resolution endorsing the action, and then approved a resolution disclaiming the action by the same margin.

Trustee Kenneth Thompson of East Lansing introduced the resolution denying endorsement to charges made by Dr. Robert Green, director of urban affairs at MSU; Dr. Joseph H. McMillan, director of MSU's equal opportunity program, and Dr. Thomas S. Gunnings, the school's assistant director of minority counseling.

San Marin Decisions Marin 'Cats

Hoza Wright made a crucial three-point play in overtime to boost San Marin High School to a 77-74 basketball victory over Marin Catholic last night in Kentfield.

Wright scored 22 points for the night and hauled down 24 rebounds as the Mustangs won their third Marin County Athletic League game against 11 defeats, but failed to escape the league cellar. San Marin finished 7-17 over-all. Marin Catholic concluded its season at 5-9 in the MCAL and 13-16 for the year.

Fred Doar scored 19 points for San Marin and was especially helpful in overtime after the Mustangs' other two big men, John Tait and Bart Saling, fouled out. Tait scored nine points before he left, while Greg Mazeres had another nine and Marty Larsen 10.

Tim Stone of Marin Catholic led all scorers with 21 points, followed by Michey Hurley with 16 and Dan Mahoney 13.

It was an ironic victory for San Marin, which defeated Marin Catholic in overtime in the two teams' previous meeting, but elected to forfeit the game when league officials ordered it replayed from the spot of a dispute following a Marin Catholic protest.

CAGE FINALE

Redwood Tops Terra Linda

They say that it's always the pretty girl who ends up without a date, and Redwood High School's basketball team proved the adage again last night.

The Giants from Larkspur went up to Terra Linda and defeated the Trojans, 65-49, to finish second in the Marin County Athletic League with an 11-3 record, one game behind Tamalpais.

Redwood's over-all mark is a glittering 24-3, but the Giants will sit at home the weekend of March 9-11 while Tam goes to the Tournament of Champions. Terra Linda finished with a 4-10 MCAL record and a 10-15 mark for the year.

Sophomore forward Darrell Elder, closing the season with a rush, scored 18 points for Redwood to lead all scorers. Tim Hennessy chipped in 14 and Sam Farb and Steve McGee notched 10 each.

"McGee hurt us on the boards, and so did Elder," said Terra Linda coach Bob Corley. "Redwood started running and boarding in the third quarter."

Redwood committed 15 turnovers in the first half and barely led at intermission, 20-18, but shifted into high gear in the second half.

Guard Nick Mattoes led Terra Linda with 14 points and forward Todd Young contributed 12 more. Guard Eric Borcherding missed the game with a foot infection.

CHICO TRIUMPHS

Sonoma State Ends Season With Loss

By PAUL DWORIN

In a see-saw battle which saw the lead exchanged five times in four minutes, Chico State College outscored Sonoma State College 9-0 in the last two minutes to deal the Cossacks a 77-68 Far Western Conference loss last night.

With the loss, the Cossacks' closed the 1971-1972 season at 3-23 and 0-12 in the league. This was the second straight year that Sonoma State went winless in FWC play. Down by 11 points with 13 minutes showing on the clock, The Cossacks outhustled, outrebounded and outscored Chico 13-2 to tie the game at 59-59 on Henry Crawford's layup at 9:44. One minute later, Bob Ward's 15-foot jumper gave Sonoma State its first lead of the second half, 62-61.

It was a short lived lead as Chico went back on top of Tim Gallagher's free-throw and Rich Nelson's left-hand hook. Don McCormick put the Wildcats ahead by four and then Bill Heath and Darryl Ravani hit from outside to tie it up again at 65-65 with 4:45 to play. Fifteen seconds later Crawford hit a free-throw to give the Cossacks' their last lead of the game and Ravani's 20-footer put Sonoma ahead by three.

Those were the last points of the game for the Cossacks as Chico went ahead to stay on two quick buckets by Steve Albrecht and Tim Klick.

Sonoma State — Heath 4-2-10, Holmes 2-1-5, Martinson 3-3-9, Crawford 5-4-14, Bucklew 1-4-6, Ward 6-4-16, Ravani 4-0-8. Totals: 25-18-68.

Kelseyville Whips St. Vincent Quintet

Closing out an altogether frustrating season, St. Vincent High School lost its tenth straight North Central League II basketball game last night to Kelseyville High School, 82-51.

St. Vincent ended the year with 0-10 league record and an overall mark of 8-15.

The Mustangs were blown out of the small Kenilworth Junior High School gym in the first quarter, with the Indians taking a 24-10 lead. Kelseyville extended its lead to 20 points at halftime and built it up to a 36 point margin at the end of three quarters.

Ken Hook led the Indians' assault with 37 points. Mark Tippett, a freshman who's been playing solid ball for the Mustangs in the last few games, led St. Vincent's with 15 points. Herm Benedetti, who has been injured for much of the season, returned to action and scored nine points.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Holdup Play Only Needed To Guard Against Heart Break

Every experienced player is familiar with the holdup play: You just refuse to win at the first opportunity when the opponents lead their best suit. Sometimes you refuse to win the next time also, but this second refusal must be handled with care if your opponents are resourceful players. See what happened to poor South in today's hand.

SHREWD MOVE

West opened the five of hearts, and East put up the king. This was a fine time to execute a holdup play, and South shrewdly played the seven of hearts instead of winning with the ace.

East continued with the eight of hearts, and South made the mistake of refusing this trick, too. You don't think this is so terrible? You know some good players who might do the same thing? Don't admit it out loud.

West won with the jack of hearts and returned a heart, wherupon East made a brilliant discard — the queen of clubs. Now South couldn't develop the clubs (or the spades) without giving the lead to West; and West would then defeat the contract with the rest of the hearts.

CAN MAKE

South would make the contract if he took the second heart. He leads a diamond to dummy in order to return a club through East. Whenever East plays low, South will win the trick; whenever East puts up the queen, South will play low.

If South wins the first club, he returns to dummy with a diamond to lead another club. As a result, East is forced to win his side's club trick. South's ten of clubs becomes his ninth trick. (South cannot afford to lead the ace or king of clubs from his own hand, since East would happily drop the queen.

Heart Break

What if East had a third heart and could lead the suit after winning his club trick? In that case, the seven mission hearts would break 4-3, and declarer could afford to lose three heart tricks and one club. The holdup play is needed only to guard against a 5-2 break in hearts, since South cannot afford to lose four hearts and one club.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Guess who was born today, Feb. 26, and became famous as:

1. A well known French author? A child prodigy who won literary prizes before he was 20, this prolific writer was nearly jailed for his unstable politics, but consistently hailed for masterpieces like "Les Miserables": (A) Alexandre Dumas; (B) Victor Hugo; (C) Emile Zola.

2. A western frontier scout called "Buffalo Bill"? A former Pony Express rider and Indian fighter, this plainsman got his nickname selling buffalo meat to the U.S. Cavalry, then used it to advantage appearing in a Wild West Show: (A) Wyatt Earp; (B) David Crockett; (C) William F. Cody.

3. A Hollywood film and TV comedian? Trying to keep a tidy apartment with sloppy Jack Klugman on TV makes Felix (48 today) a name more famous than a crazy movie cat, but it won't win him an Oscar: (A) Tony Randall; (B) Tony CUrtis; (C) Jack Lemmon.

4. A noted London and New York actress? There'll be a cake with 50 candles on it in Los Angeles today for this English beauty and maybe a big present with best wishes from husband Michael Wilding, too much a gentleman to count candles: (A) Deborah Kerr; (B) Julie Andrews; (C) Margaret Leighton.

ANSWERS

1 (B) (Victor Hugo); 2 (C) (William F. Cody); 3 (A) (Tony Randall); 4 (C) (Margaret Leighton).

Bill Asks Hearing In Repossessions

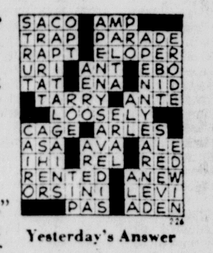

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill to require a hearicg before a consumer's property may be repossessed has been introduced.

Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, said his measure was in keeping with a San Diego U.S. District Court decision striking down a California law allowing property to be repossessed without a hearing or notice to the consumer.

Sidewalk Cleanup Duty Of Merchants

DOG MESSES on business district sidewalks are the target for bitter complaints by many Marin housewife shoppers.

This was evidenced by the number of notes and phone calls after comments on that subject in this space two weeks ago.

One conclusion from the calls and notes: If San Rafael merchants want customers, said merchants better do a better job of keeping their storefront sidewalks clean.

One reader took this column's comments to heart even more than casual callers or note-senders. He is Norris W. Rawles, director of San Rafael's Department of Public Works.

Norrie Rawles had several pertinent observations. He cited City Ordinance 858, which says, "All persons owning or occupying places of business within said city shall keep the sidewalks in front of their business premises free from such matter."

"Such matter" includes "any refuse, rubbish, garbage, debris, paper, glass, dirt, dust, animal or vegetable matter, cans, sweepings or any other matters of similar nature."

The city public works director wants it clearly understood that the city's responsibility for keeping the streets clean ends at the curbing. Rawles is justly proud of the frequency and degree of cleanliness attained in city street-sweeping operations.

Gutters are even flushed regularly.

It is true that an early morning walk along Fourth Street in San Rafael will reveal streets cleaner than sidewalks.

AN EARLY MORNING survey is not fair to those merchants who faithfully discharge the duty assigned to them by City Ordinance 858. If you walk along the street before they have cleaned up the overnight accumulation of litter — including dog messes — you will not see the results of their daily cleaning efforts.

Some thoughtfully provide emergency clean-up service oftener than once a day. One day last week, the operator of one retail establishment on Fourth between A and B streets was seen in mid-day, with pail and broom, scrubbing away at dog messes tracked across his section of sidewalk by unwary pedestrians.

That merchant represented the best of his kind. He was carrying out his legal responsibilities. He also was endeavoring to keep his store inviting to customers. Further, he was doing the menial chore himself, putting into practice the old adage that a good boss never orders those he supervises to do a job he would not do himself.

Two blocks away, on Fourth between D and E streets, are some storefront sidewalks that obviously haven't received daily cleaning. The messes there are repulsive.

CITY ORDINANCE 958 also provides, "Any person violating any provisions of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punishable therefore by a fine of not more than $500 or by imprisonment of not more than six months or by both such fine and imprisonment."

The city needs to give this matter attention. A walk along Fourth Street from Lincoln to E and return on the opposite side of the street should be an eye-opener (and perhaps a shoe-dirtier). Such an inspection should result in citations for merchants whose shops front on the most offensive sections of sidewalk.

If there is a question about evidence to make the charge stick in court, the I-J might be persuaded to cooperate by supplying photographs of offensive sidewalk messes in front of easily identifiable stores.

ORDINANCE 958 provides, plainly, "No person shall throw or deposit refuse, rubbish, garbage, debris, paper, glass, dirt, dust, animal or vegetable matter, cans, sweepings, or other matters of similar nature upon any street, sidewalk or other public place within the City of San Rafael . . ."

Even if it were worded "no person or dog shall . . ." etc., it would be difficult to enforce against dogs.

As Norrie Rawles has observed, San Rafael needs a leash law and a curb-your-pet law if dog messes on sidewalks (and on neighbors' lawns) are to be eliminated.

Our nicer suburban shopping centers offer neat, clean sidewalks. If our downtown San Rafael shopping area wishes to stay in the running, our merchants better get with it to keep downtown sidewalks clean and neat.

Whatever happened to the "San Rafael Beautiful Committee"? It needs to be reconsituted and reactivated.

Bouquets & Brickbats

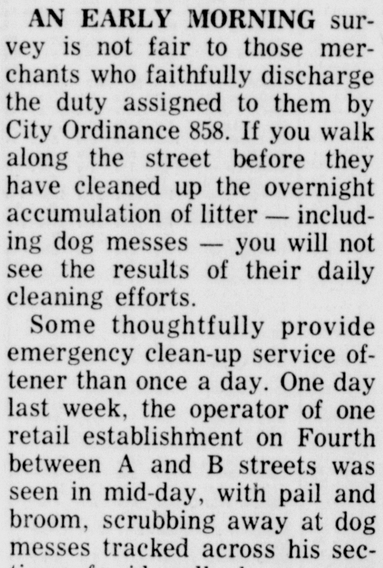

BRICKBATS to the 19 California state senators who took off a day early for what already was a three-day holiday week end.

BRICKBAT to the City of San Rafael for allowing its elevated parking structures to become eyesores for lack of paint.

BRICKBAT to the Marin County Humane Society for another misleading annual financial report. The report lists income at $86,305 and expenses at $71,942, making no mention whatever of $206,338 received from the County of Marin nor of where it went.

BOUQUETS to John Bretino of the Marin Sheriff's Patrol and Deputy Sheriff Michael Hicks for their rescue of two fishermen whose boat was stranded in the Petaluma River by engine trouble.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Some Considerations On Capital Punishment

Amid all the outcry for and against capital punishment, there are a few things to consider:

(1) No one knows whether it acted as a murder deterrent or not. However, it did prevent those receiving it from becoming repeaters!

(2) If people accused of murder are released on bail before their trial, their life might be endangered by an angry public or by an accomplice, not yet arrested, to prevent him from testifying at the trial. During the prohibition era, mobsters would try to get one of their own out on bail and on the street, where they were able to "discourage" him from testifying . . . permanently.

(3) As of August, 1971, 14 states had abolished capital punishment. Of these, three retained it for crimes such as killing peace officers, killing by a life-term prisoner, multiple murder, treason and piracy. If the U.S. Supreme Court hands down a decision that no executions may be permitted, then these exceptions would no longer be legal.

How About Ability Of Administrators?

Now that the Sausalito School District's problems involving dismissal charges against two of their teachers have been solved, one by the board itself and the other by the ruling of Judge Keating, perhaps it might be wise if the board would look into the capabilities of those administrators who brought the charges.

It seems to me that if the charges were so flimsy that a new board could take action and have the charges set aside, then perhaps whoever caused the charges to be filed might not have been very competent or else they were trying to ruin someone's reputation without any basis.

Tour Of Sausalito Schools Recommended

We would like to recommend a most enjoyable and thoroughly enlightening tour: a tour of Bayside and Martin Luther King schools. We urge everyone to take this tour: all parents of young children and anyone else who wants to know what he's voting for or against.

Frist, what we didn't see: those time-honored classroom activities of our school days —clock-watching, goofing-off, and general trouble-making. What we did see were children not just vitally interested in their schoolwork but enjoying it as well. The vast majority of them were so absorbed that they didn't even notice our entering their classrooms. The learning techniques (note the word learning — not teaching) enable each student to work at his own pace; the quicker student isn't bored, the slower isn't discouraged. By being able to work at his own pace, the student develops pride and self-confidence. The teacher and/or aide-to-student ratio is excellent, with one-to-one work when needed.

It's not just the students who radiate this positive aura. The personnel at both schools seem actively dedicated to the development of each student. (Does anyone else remember those teachers who seemed to be only interested in putting in their time, totally unconcerned with whether or not their pupils learned anything?)

Superintendent Lindberg, Mr. Hopkins of Martin Luther King, Mr. Renzulu of Bayside, their staffs, and their students have worked wonders. . .

Fascinating Fare For Chinese TV If Mao Visits Washington

WASHINGTON — Every one of us who has been glued to the TV set since President Nixon and his party arrived in China now knows more about the People's Republic than he dared dream he would.

Thanks to our able TV correspondents, we are now aware of what a hat costs, what kind of leather people wear on the soles of their shoes, how people walk in a park, and how many bricks it takes to build a brick teahouse.

One can't help projecting into the future, when Mao Tse-tung makes his first visit to the United States and his activities are beamed back via satellite to the people in China:

"GOOD EVENING, comrades — This is Wo-pang of the Anti-Imperialist Television Network Broadcasting System, bringing to you live and in red color the banquet that President Nixon is giving in honor of our beloved and venerated leader, Chairman Mao, and his beloved and venerated wife, Madame Mao.

"Ba Ba Rah, what do you make of all of this so far?"

"Wo, the thing that impressed me the most was the reception the American people gave or beloved Mao. I was told by my interpreter that no one had received such a reception in Washington since Mayor John Lindsay joined the Democratic Party. The people seem very pleased to see Chairman Mao."

"Did you see many schoolchildren waving to Chairman Mao?"

"No, I didn't, but the interpreter told me that was because most of the children go to school on buses and it's hard to see them waving. Wo, what impressed you the most so far about this trip?"

"I THINK THE THING that impressed me the most is that the U.S. Marine Band had managed to learn the Chinese national anthem. I believe this is a very good sign for future Chinese-American relations. They're starting to eat now. Do you have any idea what they're eating, Ba Ba Rah?"

"I have the menu right here in front of me. The first dish is fruit cocktail, which is supposed to be an American delicacy."

"It is, Ba Ba Rah. I had some for breakfast and I can assure our Chinese viewers it is very delicious. Our beloved Mao is now eating his fruit salad with a spoon."

"Yes, Wo, Chairman Mao and Madame Mao have been practicing for months with a spoon and fork and knife. They both seem to be handling them very well."

"Quite well, Ba Ba Rah. Chairman Mao looks very much at ease. Who is that he is speaking to next to him?"

"My interpreter says that is Billy Graham, a minister who is the second most important man in the administration. The man speaking to Madame Mao is Bebe Rebozo, a friend of President Nixon's who is the third most important man in the administration."

"CHAIRMAN MAO is now talking to a woman. Who is she?"

"That is Martha Mirchell, who is considered the most important woman in the administration."

"Billy Graham seems to be handing pamphlets to Chairman Mao. What do you suppose they are?"

"I don't know, Wo, but my interpreter says he believes Mr. Graham may be trying to persuade Chairman Mao to become a Christian."

"Now Bebe Rebozo is handing pamphlets to Madame Mao. What do they say?"

"My interpreter says that Bebe Rebozo is probably trying to sell Madame Mao some Forida real estate."

"WHO ARE THOSE people who have just come out on the stage, Ba Ba Rah?"

"They are the American entertainers. They are called the Ray Coniff Singers."

"Oh, no, Wo. My interpreter informs me it is always done when somebody entertains at the White House."

MARQUIS CHILDS

Moscow Meeting Much More Important Than Peking Visit

WASHINGTON — A raft of atmospherics has come out of China: How Mrs. Nixon uses chopsticks; the ballet, which is beautiful though political; what Chinese girls do or do not do on dates; the musk ox in exchange for pandas. While this show of good will is largely trivia, it may nevertheless get us a little farther down the road to peaceful relations with the people's republic.

Judged as a summit, however, there should be no illusions about the Peking exchange. The summit meeting with the Russian leaders in Moscow in May will have infinitely more meaning.

A strategic arms limitation agreement will be signed there, with specific numbers for defensive missiles on each side and a beginning on limits for offensive missiles. That agreement might have been signed at any time since the end of the last SALT session in Vienna in January. For obvious reasons it is being postponed to give the signing a full-dress ceremony in the Kremlin.

THE DELAY of three months is risky. An untoward incident, exploited by opponents bent on frustrating any agreement, could undo the patient work of two years. On the other hand, additional time — the SALT negotiators are to convene again on March 28 — will mean an opportunity to perfect and perhaps to expand the terms of the treaty.

Since the first hydrogen bomb was exploded in 1952, with a realization by those who witnessed at Eniwetok its unbelievable fury, a profound change has taken place. That realization has dropped from the public consciousness and the strategic arms race has become an esoteric numbers game confined to scientists, military men and disarmers. The consequences of millions of deaths are an abstraction fed into a computer, with human suffering and the disastrous blow to civilization drained away.

This is what Senators Cooper, Hart and Symington, actively concerned with a limitation on strategic arms, have said about a report of the Operations Research Society, a private organization. That report was seized on by opponents of nuclear agreement as discrediting the distinguished scientists who testified against the defensive missile, Safeguard, on the ground that it would not work and that any effective defensive system would upset the delicate nuclear balance.

THE SENATORS went to great lengths with a questionnaire sent to leading scientists to get opinions on whether witnesses should be discredited because they had not had access to all the information possessed by the government. This would mean that a decision taken within the closed confines of government could not be challenged.

"In the ABM debate the participation of experts provided the Congress and the public with an almost unprecedented exposure to the many facets of a major defense policy," George B. Kistiakowsky, who had been President Eisenhower's sciecce adviser, wrote in reply. "Its formative process was especially enriched by the nongovernment experts who are not restricted in their public views by the official government positions."

Stressing their concern over both the Chinese and the Russian nuclear threats in the coming decade, Cooper said that he and his two colleagues had concluded that Safeguard was a very poor choice. That opinion was based on the expert testimony of independent scientists.

THE CHINESE THREAT is far less at this point than that of the Soviet Union. While the Chinese are developing a missile in the thousand-mile range, they have no intercontinental ballistic missiles. They have no defensive missiles, nor any nuclear submarines.

Peking has repeatedly refused to have any part in disarmament. The stock answer has been: abolish all atomic weapons. This was for years the stock answer of the Soviet Union.

The patient, persistent efforts of Gerard Smith, the chief American delegate to SALT, and his opposite number, Vladimir Semyonov, have brought the negotiation to a hopeful stage. Smith and Semyonov have had the active quarterbacking in Washington of Henry A. Kissinger, the president's security adviser, and Soviet Ambassador Anatoliy Dobrynin. This is not the millenium. But if the present beginning fails, as other starts have failed, the last-chance door may be finally closed.

JOSEPH C. HARSCH

Bipartisan Foreign Policy Largely Myth In Presidential Election Year

By JOSEPH C. HARSCH
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

In theory, foreign policy should be kept out of partisan politics. In practice in the United States, particularly in a presidential election year, it seldom is kept out.

The Vietnam War is now back in the present presidential campaign and with a vengeance. It is deplorable. It was inevitable. And it is very American.

THE ONLY TIME in American history when a war and the foreign policy wrapped around that war were kept largley bipartisan was the case of World War II.

The American Revolution was highly partisan and political. In fact American politics were founded on the original division between those who favored the war and those who opposed it.

The War of 1812 was partisan and regional. New England came close to seceding over the issue. And the Mexican war was bitterly opposed and criticized in the North.

The Civil War was completely partisan and political. It made the Republican Party. Republicans were "the war party." The Democrats largely opposed it all the way through, and paid the price of being the minority party for half a century afterward.

The Spanish War was an exclusive Republican Party property on which it capitalized most successfully by winning it so quickly. Had the war dragged on, Republicans might well have hurt themselves by it.

AMERICAN INTERVENTION in World War I was highly controversial. Large segments of the American community, particularly in the Midwest, were opposed. Republicans were divided. Some, led by former President Theodore Roosevelt, supported it. Others opposed it. The party as a whole refrained from making the war a partisan issue, but once the victory had been won, went to work to make up for lost time on the Versailles Treaty and the League of Nations.

The two parties more or less coalesced against Nazi Germany before Franklin Delano Roosevelt was willing to begin serious intervention in World War II. Republicans joined his war cabinet. That war and the resistance to Russian expansionism after the war were the nearest things to bipartisanship in foreign policy the United States has yet known. It lasted through the early part of the "cold war" and survived so far as Europe was concerned to the present. It broke down over the Far East from 1949 on.

Republicans seized on the fall of China to communism in that year as a political weapon. They accused the Democrats of being "soft on communism" for not going to war to save Chiang Kai-shek's China. A year later, with less than total consistency, they were attacking the Democrats for getting into the Korean war. In the 1952 campaign Republican candidate Eisenhower seized the peace issue by promising to go to Korea if elected.

THE VIETNAM WAR was kept largely nonpartisan in its early stages but in the 1968 campaign Richard Nixon repeated the Eisenhower ploy of 1952 by promising to end the war and saying he had a secret peace plan.

In the present campaign Democrats have from the opening moment been exploiting to the hilt the fact that the war is not yet entirely over. That it worries the Republicans is proved by the revival, by White House aide H. R. Haldeman, of the old charge of treason used by Republicans against Democrats in the 1950 and 1952 campaigns.

Duffy Backs High Court Death Rule

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Former Warden Clinton Duffy of San Quentin Prison said today he agrees with the California Supreme Court's decision to do away with the death penalty.

Capital punishment, he said, is "very cruel, very unusual and very gruesome."

Duffy told a news conference he participated or officiated at the executions of 150 persons during his long career.

He described for reporters the moment-to-moment last seconds of an executed man, climaxing his recital by describing how the condemned looked after the pellets were dropped in the gas chamber.

"Sometimes it's the second or third breath that kills them, seldom the first," he said. "Their eyes roll, they twitch, they struggle, they urinate, they defecate, they turn purple. It is very gruesome."

Duffy pointed out it costs about $20,000 more to execute a man than to keep him in prison for life and said he opposed life imprisonment without possibility of parole because many murderers can be rehabilitated.

"The (parole) boards are not going to let out people who are going to kill again. The death penalty does not stop people from killing," he said.

Meanwhile in Santa Cruz, Lawrence E. Wilson, former warden at both San Quentin and Soledad State Prisons, also said he supported the supreme court decision.

Wilson described the death penalty as a "brutal, dehumanizing thing that doesn't deter crime and could well foster it."

"Only the stumblebums were put to death," Wilson said. "Those smart enough, or who were rich enough, found the loopholes."

Wilson, now a prison consultant, was warden at San Quentin in 1967 when Aaron Mitchell, last man executed in California, was put to death.

Asked how you would keep lifers from killing guards, Duffy said:

"I don't know of a case of a lifer who has killed an officer. It is usually persons serving sentences of a lesser degree."

Troy Dangerfield, president of the Officers for Justice of the San Francisco Police Department, also opposed capital punishment even for the murder of a police officer.

"I think of myself as a human first, a police officer second. I do not make any special emphasis should be placed on me as a police officer.

"The protection of society is a job for all. It should not be relegated to the handful of policemen. When you have killed a policeman, you have killed a human being."

Participants at the news conference also pointed out that the pending decision by the Supreme Court of the United States on capital punishment will not affect last Friday's State Supreme Court decision.

Arnheiter Files Suit Over Book

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A $5 million damage suit charging libel has been filed by retired Navy Lt. Cmdr. Marcus A. Arnheiter of Novato, against author Neil Sheehan because of his book, "The Arnheiter Affair."

The suit filed in federal court Friday accused Sheehan of "breach of contract, fraud and decit, conspiracy, breach of confidence, libel and slander."

Arnheiter, 46, an Annapolis graduate, was relieved as captain of the destroyer escort Vance on March 31, 1966, while the vessel was on patrol off Vietnam.

The Navy said the action was taken because of Arnheiter's "bad judgment and lack of integrity." He demanded a court-martial for exoneration but the Navy refused. He then retired.

Arnheiter said that in 1968 he agreed to talk with Sheehan for a news story. He said the use of the material in the book was improper as well as unfair and inaccurate.

The lawsuit also named as defendants Random House, publisher of the book, and the New York Times, for which Sheehan is a reporter. The suit asked for an unspecified amount of general and actual damages as well as the $5 million in punitive damages.

The Navy said in 1968 after a six-day closed hearing in Washington that Arnheiter was relieved of his command because he would create pretexts for shelling the shore, without even knowing whether friendly forces were in the area.

At the time, Arnheiter contended he was undermined by mutinous junior officers who resented his efforts to whip into shape a ship and crew which was woefully unprepared for war.

New Span Ticket Plan Is Ordered

Interchangeable tickets valid on the Golden Gate Bridge and the bridge district's buses and ferries were ordered yesterday by district directors.

The new tickets, to go on sale July 1, will come in two types of books. One will be a $10 book of 20 50-cent tickets, the other a $15 book with 20 50-cent tickets and 20 25-cent tickets. The new books will be valid up to one year.

The two new "convenience" ticket books will replace the existing versions, which Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said now total 18 different styles.

Under the new system, bridge and ferry commuters still will have no discount, but passengers using the tickets aboard all transbay buses will continue to save 25 cents on the cash fares.

District auditor Robert Tough said simplifying the ticket system also will speed counting of daily receipts from the three operations. He estimated the cost of an automatic counter at $15,000.

The board's unanimous approval of Luehring's recommendations for the new ticket system called for bids on a six month's supply of the tice tickets.

Golden Gate Bridge District directors also:

BUSES — Asked the federal government to pay for two-thirds of the $19,000 cost of installing individual reading lights aboard the 20 additional new buses being ordered.

TERMINAL — Advised the state that the district wants to use the East Bay Transit Terminal in San Francisco for its bus operations.

PATRONAGE — Received report from Luehring that commuter patronage aboard the district's bus system was at least 25 per cent more than that carried by Greyhound Lines. Almost 5,600 ride the buses each way each weekday.

FERRIES — Received report from Luehring that the monthly percentage increase in passenger counts continues to average 40 to 45 per cenl over the like period a year ago.

LIGHTS — Awarded a $58,721 contract to Tamar Electronics Inc. of Belmont for 122 roadway light fixtures.

PAINT — Awarded a $10,395 contract to the Ameron Corrosion Control Division of Brea, Orange County, for 1,000 gallons of inorganic zinc silicate paint.

YOUTHS — Approved a $35,000 program to hire 35 poor high school youths to work during the summer on district projects, possibly including renovation of old bus shelters.

DEPOTS — Referred to committee a request from the Marin County Transit District that the bridge district help subsidize bus depots in San Anselmo and Mill Valley.

CLUB BUS — Received report that the club bus operation, which provides charter service from Marin points to the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco, had shifted from Community Enterprises Inc. to Franciscan Lines because of a disagreement over costs.

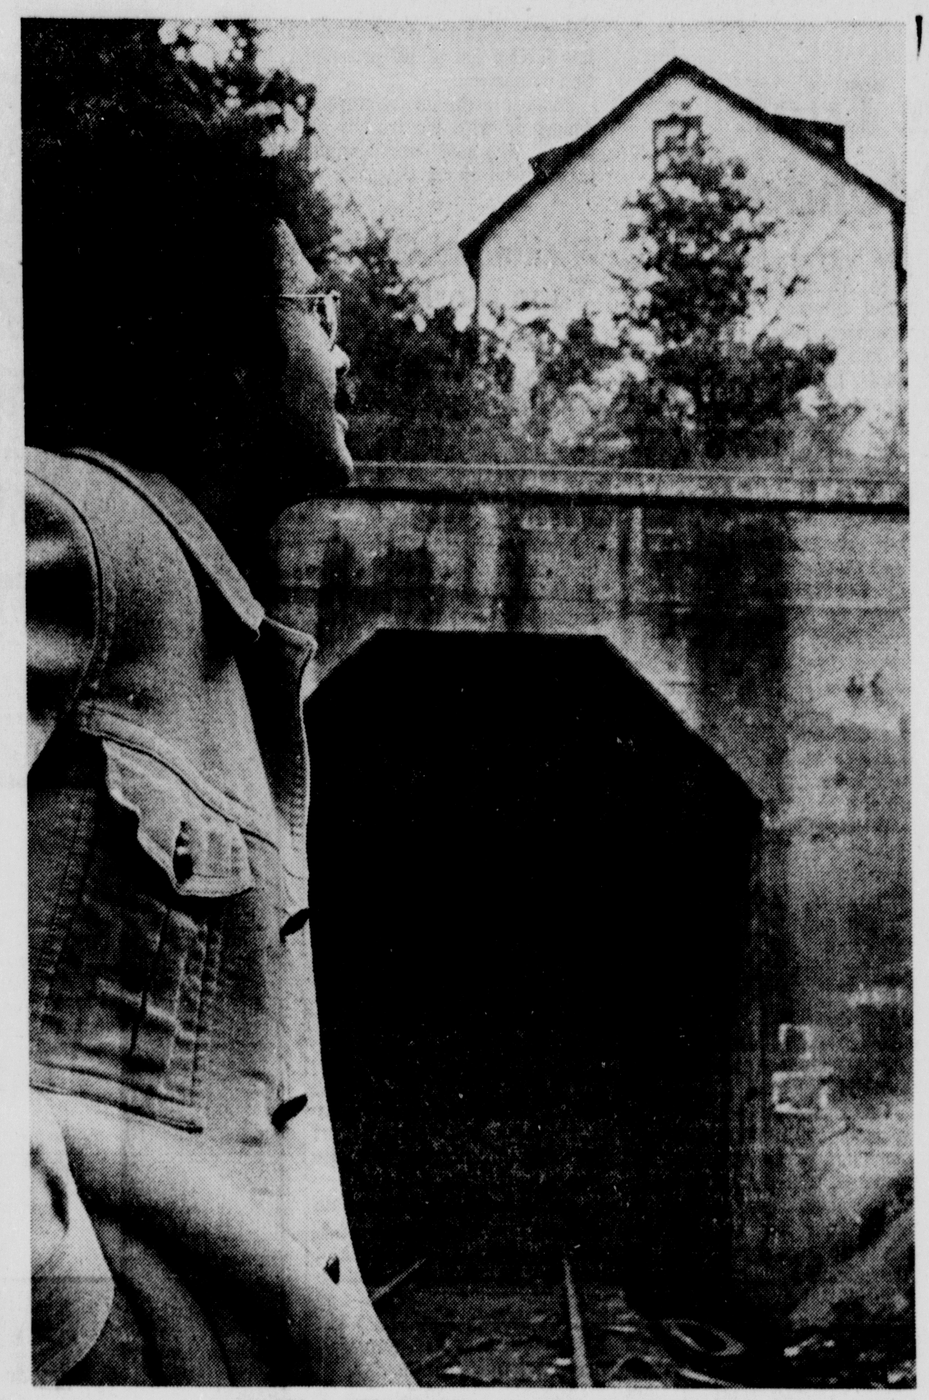

ROUND HOUSE — Postponed action on a recommendation by Luehring that the Round House Restaurant at the toll plaza be closed, and its space converted for office use by district employees. Directors said the step should await completion of a study of district office space.

FERRY — Received report from Luehring that the Sausalito ferry was disabled Thursday when water leaked into an engine cooling system. Buses were substituted for the ferry until it was returned to service late yesterday.

LOBBYIST — Hiked the annual retainer of the district's Sacramento lobbyist from $20,000 to $25,000 a year.

GREYHOUND — Defeated, 11-1, a motion by director Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco that 20 coaches leased from Greyhound Lines be returned when the 20 additional new buses are delivered in July or August.

FUNDING — Referred to committee a proposal by Leonoudakis that the district endorse pending federal legislation that would hike from two-thirds to 90 per cent the amount of federal grants for transit projects.

WILL THE TUNNEL HOLD?

Robert Jaffe of Corte Madera studies a neighbor's house — precariously perched, he fears — atop the 79-year-old Northwestern Pacific tunnel. Jaffe and other homeowners above the tunnel, abandoned last year, ask if it will collapse. The railroad says it was in good condition when the last train went through and a study done for the city of Mill Valley in the mid-60s called it safe. The hilltoppers, however, have persuaded the Town council to ask the supervisors for a fresh look.

KNOW THE LAW

California Highway Patrol

Driving On Divided Roads

Driving on a divided highway: Where must you drive?

The California Vehicle Code states that it is unlawful to drive any vehicle upon any highway which has been divided into two or more roadways by means of intermittent barriers or by means of a dividing section of not less than two feet in width either unpaved or deliniated by curbs, lines, or other markings on the roadway except to the right of the barrier or dividing section, or to drive any vehicle over, upon, or across the dividing section.

To make any left turn or semicircular or U-turn on any such divided highway, except through an opening in the barrier designated and intended by public authority for the use of vehicles or through a plainly marked opening in the dividing section is equally unlawful.

When in doubt about where to turn, wait for the obvious offramp or turn around point. Don't chance a mistake and cause an accident.

Elephant Wins $4,500 Damages

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The owner of a performing elephant, which has forgotten how to water ski, won't dance and doesn't stand on its front legs because of an auto accident, was awarded $4,500 damages Thursday.

Ted de Wayne, owner of Bimbo Jr., said he and his elephant were on their way to their North Hollywood home from a Palm Springs circus performance March 30, 1969, when a car driven by Michael J. Mathwig collided with Bimbo's trailer.

De Wayne said Bimbo suffered whiplash.

Long-Awaited Angela Trial Scheduled To Begin Monday

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)— Angela Davis goes on trial here Monday in a courtroom that will hold fewer than 100 persons. But the proceedings will attract the interest of millions.

The state charges that Miss Davis is guilty of murder, kidnap and conspiracy arising from the Hall of Justice gun battle in Marin County Aug. 7, 1970, in which a judge and three other persons were killed.

Miss Davis, who is currently on bail, and the defense lawyers contend she had nothing to do with this event and that her arrest and detention are politically motivated.

They say she is being prosecuted because she is a Communist, because she is black and because the power structure in the United States is "racist." This is also, they contend, why she was held in jail for more than 15 months before being admitted to bail only four days before her trial was to begin.

A grand jury indicted Miss Davis on charges of furnishing the guns taken into the Marin County court house by 17-year-old Jonathon Jackson in an escape plot that was supposed to have eventually resulted in a demand for freedom for the so-called "Soledad Brothers" from San Quentin prison.

Superior Judge Richard E. Arnason, 50, of Contra Costa County is the sixth judge assigned to the Davis case. Others disqualified themselves or were disqualified by the defense. Judge Arnason has had the case since May 1970, and has survived a challenge "for cause" by the defense.

Occupying the 64 seats outside the railing in the courtroom will be newsmen and spectators. In pretrial court appearances the spectators were highly partisan in favor of Miss Davis and the press, some from the underground newspapers, has not been completely without bias.

The defense contended throughout the lengthy pretrial period that Miss Davis cannot get a fair trial in California and challenged the jury selection system without success.

It did manage to get the trial moved out of Marin County, where the crimes were committed, but was unsuccessful in having it transferred to San Francisco, the county the defense says offers the best chance for a fair trial. A move to transfer the trial again out of Santa Clara County was refused.

Miss Davis made headline news even before she was linked with the Marin County gun battle. As a self-avowed Communist teaching philosophy at UCLA, she had been the target of the Board of Regents of the University of California.

The regents voted not to continue her employment for the 1970-71 school year and she sued. The court test of her firing was rendered moot by subsequent developments.

On Aug. 7, 1970, young Jackson invaded the courtroom of Superior Judge Harold Haley where three black convicts from nearby San Quentin were participating in a jury trial. Jackson handed guns to the other three men and they fled, taking along the judge, an assistant district attorney and three women jurors as hostages.

As they left the court house one of the convicts, James McClain, 37, allegedly told a sheriff's deputy to "free the Soledad Brothers" or the hostages would be killed. The Soledad Brothers were three black prisoners charged with killing a white guard in Soledad prison earlier that year. One of them, George Jackson, 29, was Jonathon's brother. George was later killed in an alleged escape attempt from San Quentin Aug. 21, 1971.

A gun battle erupted between law enforcement officials and the convicts as the latter started driving away in a rented yellow van, still holding their hostages.

Judge Haley, Jonathon Jackson, McClain and William Christmas, 27, were killed and the third convict, Ruchell Magee, 32, and the assistant district attorney, Gary Thomas, were wounded.

The guns used by the convicts, the state says, were purchased by Miss Davis, who had been previously seen in the company of Jonathon Jackson while rallying support for the Soledad Brothers. A warrant for her arrest was sworn out but she had disappeared. She and Magee were later indicted by the Marin County Grand Jury for kidnap, murder and conspiracy. Miss Davis was arrested by FBI agents in New York Oct. 13, 1970, and extradited to California, where she arrived Dec. 22, 1970, to be housed in the same building where the gun battle had started almost five months earlier.

A closed-circuit TV has been installed to give a view of the proceedings to representatives of news media who are unable to get seating in the small courtroom. Only about 30 seats will be available for press, radio and television in the courtroom itself and more than 50 news organizations have applied for credentials for several hundred newsmen and women.

The remaining seats will be occupied by family and friends, including representatives of the National United Committee to Free Angela Davis, an organization that has helped raise funds all around the world for her defense and obtained more than 300,000 signatures to petitions asking that she be admitted to bail.

The shortest estimate on the length of the trial is four months, given by prosecutor Albert W. Hawis Jr., an assistant state attorney general, who has filed a list of 109 prosecution witnesses.

Longest estimate by anyone connected with the trial is by Moore, who said once it might take a year to try the case.

Richmond Given Tops Marks In Integration

OAKLAND (UPI)—A Richmond school official testified Thursday that his city's schools have already achieved better integration than the rest of the country and twice as good as other parts of California.

Richard Lovette, deputy superintendent of schools, displayed charts in Superior Court showing 41 per cent of the black students in Richmond are attending predominantly black schools. He said figures for all of California show 82 per cent of the black students are in mainly black schools.

Richmond has a voluntary school busing plan and the plaintiffs, represented by Attorney Eugene Swann, contend integration will not be successful unless busing is mandatory.

Sausalito Church Rummage Sale

The 7-Up group of the Sausalito Presbyterian Church will hold a rummage sale Saturday and Sunday, March 4 and 5, at the church, according to Leslie Phipps, publicity chairman.

Among items offered for sale will be baby clothes, toys, games, books, shoes, clothes, housewares, placemats, a hardware macrame flower pot and candle cradles. Sale hours will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and noon to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Proceeds will go toward financing a one-week group trip to the Mexico City area in June.

TWO PRIVATE INVESTIGATORS, played by Stephen Brooks, left, and Robert Hooks, pause in their hunt for a suspect in a mass murder to scan the wanted posters in scene from "Two For the Money," the ABC Network's "Movie of the Weekend" tonight at 8:30 o'clock on Channels 7 and 11.

There Are Three Things That Terrify The TV Establishment

By JOHN BEAUFORT

The three things that most baffle and even terrify the faceless hierarchy of the TV establishment are time, haste and talent.

Time because time is money. Taste because it is the great unknown. Talent because the establishment mistrusts and resents it.

Obviously, there are exceptions to the foregoing gloomy generality. But they definitely are exceptions. And they become more exceptional as the quality of video entertainment continues to decline and deteriorate.

NETWORK CENSORSHIP (spotlighted once more in the course of current Washington hearings) is part and parcel of the network fear of talent. In contrast, for instance, to stage dramatists, TV writers are "cabin'd, cribb'd, confined, bound in to saucy doubts and fears" of video executives and powerful advertisers. Ironically — but quite understandably — these top decision-makers are as insistent on physical violence as they are resistant to intellectual conflict.

A handful of talented people manage to survive and even surmount the medium's antitalent discrimination. A tiny minority represented by such contrasting stars as Lucille Ball, Flip Wilson and Mary Tyler Moore manage to surmount it regularly. But a far larger number go down to defeat against the deadly awfulness of the "system."

Look what it did to series starring such talents as Shirley MacLaine, James Stewart and Henry Fonda, three recent casualties that come to mind.

THE PEOPLE IN charge of the Bell Telephone Hour seem more senstive than most other sponsors to the value of talent. Which goes at least part way to explain the wonderfully upbeat quality of a show like the recent "'S Wonderful, 'S Marvelous, 'S Gershwin." The Fred Astaire medley alone was a tribute, not only to the enduring quality of the Gershwin tunes and the timelessness of the Astaire magic, but also to the simplicity and taste with which the sequence was done.

Except for the "Porgy and Bess" medley, which got rather elaborate, the whole show reflected the sound premise that, when you are blessed with the glories of a Gershwin score, the thing to do is to glory in them.

By unhappy contrast, talent seems to have gone down for the count in CBS's recently introduced "Sonny and Cher Comedy Hour." This dreadfully expensive and expensively dreadful program confronts its cheerful stars and their guests with one of the most mistaken notions of video talent, which is to bury it under a bushel of gimmicks, insane patter, sketches and (in this instance) lampoons.

A RECENT SESSION guest-starred Tony Randall, one of whose chores was to play a "Cherman" (isn't it always?) prince in a strudel take-off of "The Student Prince." Randall preserved an expression of disdain which must have been no end stimulated by the quality of the material he was required to deliver.

It is perhaps too much to expect the TV brass to overcome their triad of terrors all at once. Perhaps they could begin by emancipating talent. A thought for the month of Lincoln's birthday.

Joan Baez' Latest — Fine Album By A Fine Person

By JOHN SUNIER

Looking at some new Vanguard and Elektra released:

JOAN BAEZ — "The First 10 Years" — (Vanguard VSD 6560/1): What is there to say about such a fine artist and fine person as Joan Baez?

This lovely double-disc album features some of her best work for this label over the past decade plus a 12-page photo history booklet full of great color shots by local photographer Jim Marshall.

Among Joan's gems will be found "Love Is Just a Four-Letter Word," "There But for Fortune," "Sweet Sir Galahad" and "Carry It On." There are several Dylan tunes, and her good friend Bob joins her on some. Backing ranges all the way from Joan's own guitar to beautiful arrangements by Peter Schickele and Grady Martin.

Joan's personal life may be having its ups and downs, but her artistic path has been a continual upward climb from the Boston days of 1958 when Joan and Mimi hesitantly tried out their quivering young voices at The Golden Vanity.

PETER SCHICKELE — P.D.Q. Bach's "The Stoned Guest" — (Vanguard VSD-6536): The latest in Schickele's series of musical spoofs will convulse most opera buffs as well as those who can't stand "that ridiculous caterwauling."

Format is that of the Met Opera Broadcast, with a host named Milton Host, the orchestra of the University of Southern North Dakota and the Hoople Heavy Opera Company. Most of the cliches of opera are laid low in this "Half-Act Opera," which is rather hurried because the gym in which it is being presented must be cleared for a basketball game. Even the Met Opera Quiz is hilariously satinized.

LARRY CORYELL — "Coryell" — (Vanguard Apolstolic VSD-6547): Larry Coryell is one of the most exciting guitarists around. His work lies in an area neither rock nor jazz but somewhere in between. He plays both acoustic and electric guitar and can loudly wail as well as enchant with delicate melodic lines that could fit comfortably into a Villa-Lobos Prelude or Sor Study. Larry also sings and plays piano on his solo album, and the cover photo is one of the most sensitive family portraits I've ever seen.

COUNTRY JOE and The Fish — "C.J." — (Vanguard VSD-6555): I guess this is the last one for Joe McDonald with The Fish, as they have gone their separate ways. It's a pip, though having heard Joe doing some of these same songs solo, I do feel the versions with the band are not as good. Among the beauties are "Mara," which was also on the "Quiet Days at Clichy" soundtrack, "Rockin' Round the World" and "The Love Machine."

PINK FLOYD — "Atom Heart Mother" — (Harvest SKAO-382): I'm rather ashamed to have only recently found out about Pink Floyd. This British rock group leans toward trippy electronic effects and fantastic-mixes of classical, rock, jazz, sound effects and what have you that usually hold together with superlative final effect.

This LP — probably the first with a portrait of a cow on the cover — devotes one side zo the title suite, a form similar to some of the extended things Emerson, Lake and Palmer have done. The form is something of a theme and variations, with an extraordinary melody often delivered by the John Aldiss Choir. The nameless organist is tremendous, and in pseudo-quadraphonic or with headsets the sound of this entire album is almost not to be believed.

I've found that many people that don't really like rock at all flip out over Pink Floyd, so give this one a listen whatever your predilections.

WHITE NOISE — "An Electric Storm" — (Island Records SW-9303); Another trippy electronic album which is quite a technical tour de force, but may also be a bit ear-wearing in the long run.

The scene is life in the 21st Century when inter-personal relations (all right, sex, but remember this is a family newspaper) have become cold, inhuman and electronic. Perhaps describing this LP as one of those party records of heavy breathing fed through a Moog synthesizer might be the most accurate picture of what the darn thing is all about.

A POET'S THOUGHTS

Should sorrow knock upon your door
And it seems your heart can stand no more,
Should still waters run, oh so deep,
And tears, then splash upon your cheeks,
Just listen then to me —
To what I say:
Believe that there will be another day
When sorrow will be no more,
Just love and faith,
And trust forever more.

SHUFFLED LIKE CARDS

Shuffled like a deck of cards
Whose faces fade by time and care,
Doing things that must be done —
None can escape his share.

From the rocking in the cradle
To the rolling in the hearse,
Each meant to do much better —
Forgetting they could have done worse.

FAIRFAX — DOROTHY E. LYNN

YOUR RECITAL

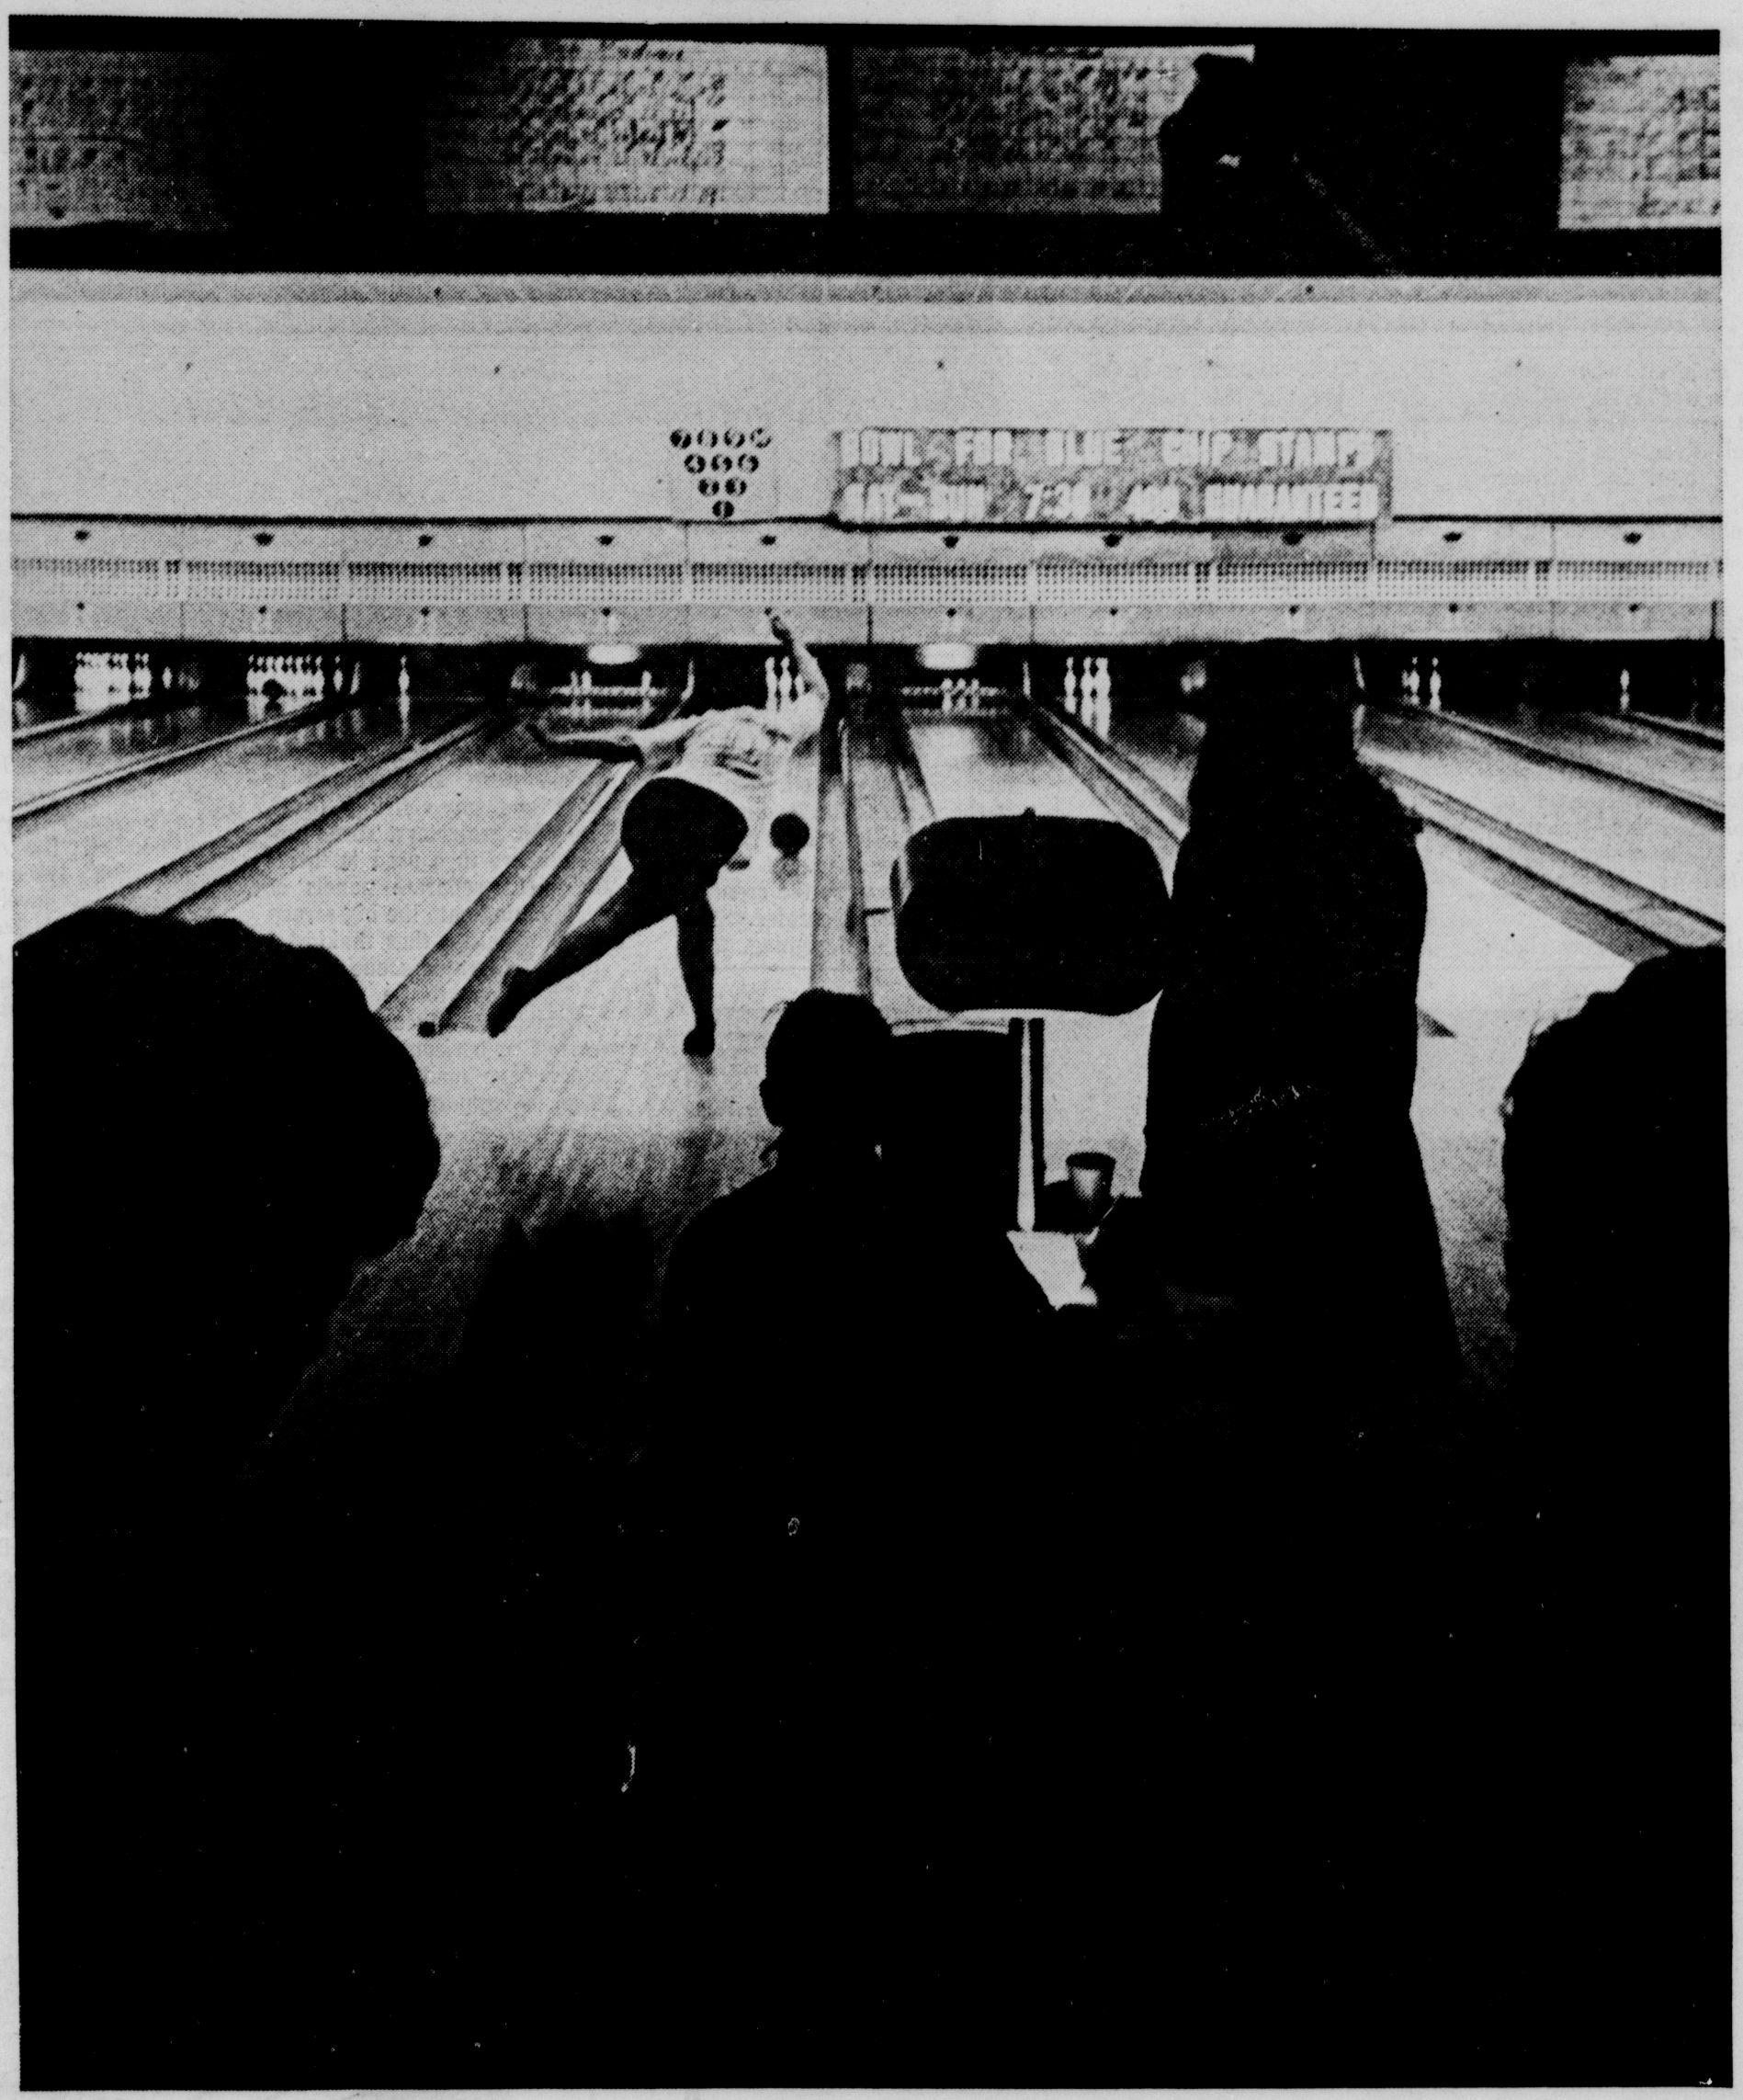

A basket of glads
Adorns the stage awaiting
Your graceful entrance.

Across the filled room
Your blues eyes flash a love note
Meant for me alone.

An Art Show With The Acting

Alonso Gonzalez Has Used His Ingenuity Along With His Creativity In Designing And Executing Sets For Children's Play

WELL-KNOWN for his design work for College of Marin productions in the Fine Arts Building theaters, Alonso Gonzalez faced a different kind of challenge in preparing the sets for a Marion Hayes Cain production of "The Adventures of Pinocchio." He and Mrs. Cain hit upon a novel solution — seven painted scenes, photographed in panels and projected upon a giant screen. Three of the scenes are shown on the facing page.

Marin children who attend tomorrow's Marion Hayes Cain-produced performance of "The Wonderful Adventures of Pinocchio" at 2 p.m. in Veterans Memorial Building at the Marin Civic Center will be treated to an art show along with the drama.

GONZALEZ HAS done the settings for the timeless tale of Pinocchio. And his technical approach to the assignment is as original as his creative work.

Presented with a new challenge by the dimensions of the huge stage of the Veterans Memorial Building, Gonzalez and Mrs. Cin solved the problem of the scenery by doing away with conventional sets and the accompanying backstage stress.

Instead, Gonzalez has designed and painted seven scenes, and then filmed each of these in three separate panels.

These three-panel photographs of the sets are then projected upon a master screen, 12 to 36 feet in its dimensions, to form the backdrop for the antics of Pinocchio and other members ff the cast.

For one thing, the heavy screen weighing several hundred pounds must be carefully counterweighted from the overhead bars. The loading and unloading of the screen itself is a job for four men.

Then there were the creative demands upon Gonzalez. First there was the designing, then the painting in color, and next their photographing, also in color, in three sections. These panels were then framed in glass and taped firmly to fit into slide projectors. Three projectors are then used to throw the three separate panels of each setting onto the big screen simultaneously, thus making a single, integrated scene.

"They had to be carefully designed so as to avoid strong vertical or horizontal lines that would have made the separations too apparent," Gonzalez explains.

MRS. CAIN describes the results as "very exciting and most colorful."

"The Wonderful Adventures of Pinocchio," four months in its preparation, has already been enjoyed by some 4,000 children who watched it under Youth in Arts program auspices on Tuesday of this week.

Now hundreds of more Marin youngsters will be able to view "The Land of the Toys" and "The Seashore" and all the other Gonzalez-sets-paintings at tomorrow's public matinee performance.

THE TWO-HOUR production involves a cast of 85 and involves the Winifred Baker Children's Chorus.

It is a production intended primarily for children in the kindergarten through the sixth grade age range. But, says Mrs. Cain, it should be enjoyed by adults as well. And they might well be especially appreciative of the artistry and ingenuity demonstrated in the Alonso Gonzalez sets.

THE SEASHORE WHERE PINOCCHIO MEETS THE GREEN FISHERMAN

THE LAND OF THE TOYS SCENE

THE MOUTH OF THE MONSTER FISH

Profile Of A Marinite

"I guess you have to be of a certain philosophical bent to be interested in living in the town or being on the council," says Roy Farrington Jones of Ross.

By LARRY MOWELL

He lives in and represents a town clinging to its small town way of life in a period of runaway change.

NO VISITOR to the antique office of Farrington Jones and Son in San Anselmo is likely to escape without picking up some tidbit of Marin history, either from the old photographs and paintings that line the walls or from the voluminous memory of Jones himself.

Talking recently in his back-room office at 224 Sir Francis Drake, Jones was surrounded not only by paperwork and appraisal texts, but also by paintings of Muir Woods before it was a park and Sleepy Hollow when it was a cow pasture. A photo shows a railroad and ferry terminal called Sausalito and another captures 19th Century San Rafael.

Ask him about a piece of property and he is likely to tell you he learned to drive the 1928 Buick there or maybe his grandfather, a Marin man, rode over there in the carriage in 1896 to watch a building go up.

EVEN STATISTICS reflect a man firmly established. Now 46, he has been a partner for 25 years in the firm his father established in 1916. He has lived in Ross 20 years and has served on its town council since 1962.

Ross is the kind of small town where a citizen can tell the council no leash law is needed because "we have more civilized dogs than Novato" — and have the councilmen agree.

It is the kind of town where four-lane roads, apartments, signs, expanding government and hitchhiking hippies are viewed with equal alarm.

His longish hair and bushy mustache might convince briefly the uninitiated that he is soft on such things, but his acerb sometimes volatile reactions, quickly make it clear where he stands.

STILL MEMORABLE is his a'tack on fellow councilmen last April for granting too many variances. He charged the town was threatened with becoming a "Terra Linda-type community — all children and dogs."

He complained that when a sheriff's deputy drives through, "he doesn't even wave. The only time they stop is when they need directions so they can serve a warrant on a parking ticket or if there is a deadbeat who hasn't paid his bill."

Jones admits he is not bashful about sounding off and on several occasions has embarrased his colleagues.

"On some occasions I turn out to be a crusty cuss when I don't mean to be," he said. "There are times I start talking and I look out at the reporter busy scribbling notes and I say, 'Oh no, why did I ever start?"

BUT REFLECTED in most of his stands are the idiosyncratic attitudes of Ross residents and a desire to preserve the town's special atmosphere of stately homes and tree-lined lanes.

"I guess you have to be of a certain philosophical bent to be interested in living in the town or being on the council," he said.

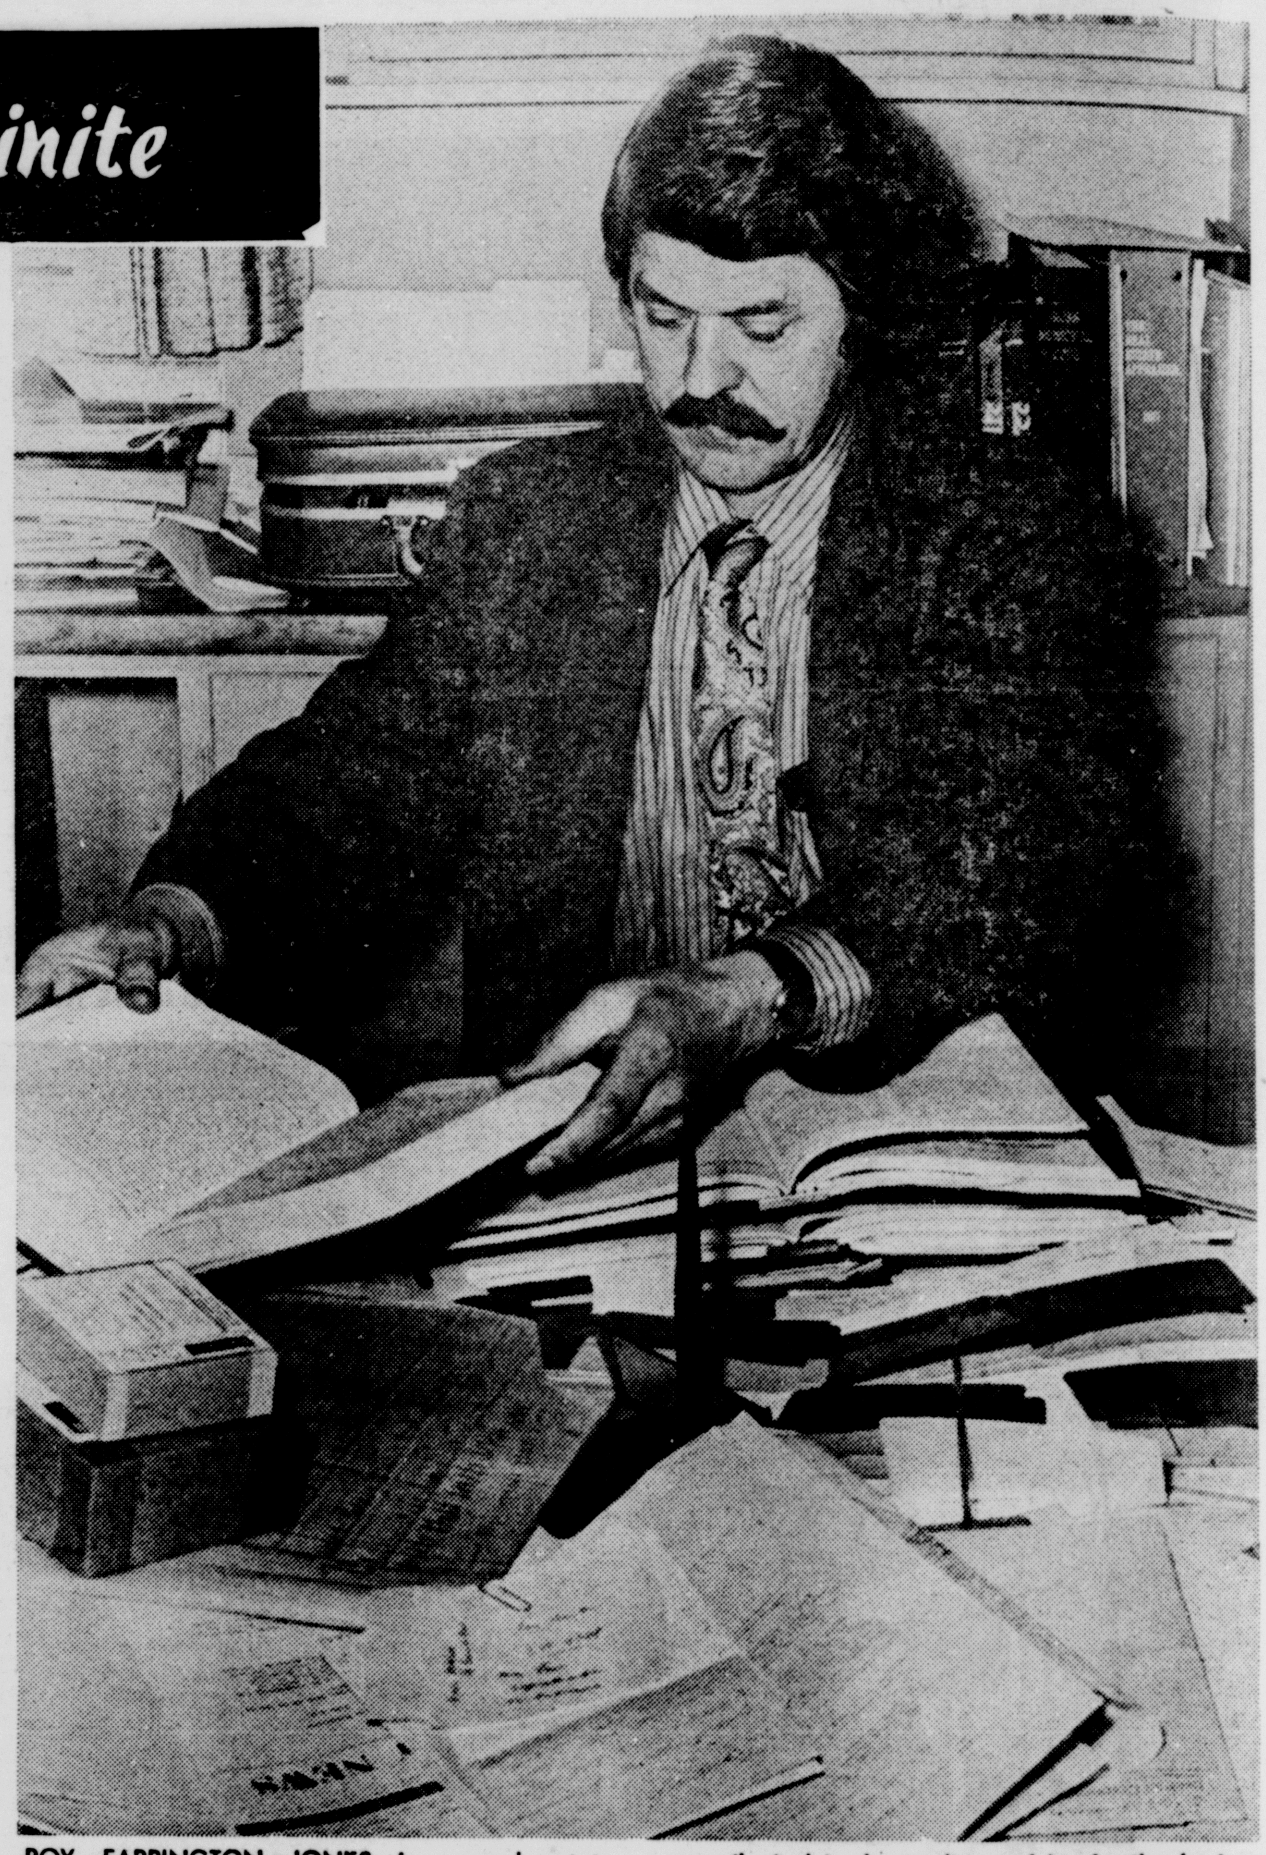

Townspeople are not "wild about progress for the sake of progress," he explained. "If you want to know the news of the town, you can go to the Ross store or the post office and you can find out what is going on."

"An apartment dweller is more like a potted plant. He can be moved from place to place without suffering," Jones said.

THE TOWN'S highly exclusionary zoning ordinance, which bans just about everything that isn't a single family house, is jealously guarded by Jones.

"I'm a believer in the philosophy that good zoning ordinances which are enforced mean high property values," he said.

ROY FARRINGTON JONES is a real estate appraiser with offices in San Anselmo, and a Ross resident with a decade of service on its town council. And in the tradition of his family, he is a dedicated student of Marin history and a staunch defender of the rural atmosphere of Ross.

Government has as much chance of spreading in Ross as apartments. In contrast to similarly small Belvedere, which has a city council, parks and recreation commission, planning commission and city administrator, Ross has only its unpaid town council and a part-time clerk.

That one governing agency, dedicated to stretching the dollar as far as possible, has been tightfisted with programs other municipal governments dole money to without a second thought.

RECREATION programs are one example. "If people want certain extra things for their kids, I think they should do a little work and raise the money themselves," Jones said. "How many people out of a town of 2,800 are interested in recreation? I'm talking about the guitar lessons and hiring a recreation director and things like that."

While he frowns on tapping the public till for private hobbies, he doesn't frown on hobbies. In fact, he talks with a certain amount of fascination about his collections of nostalgia.

"Again you see what a blue sky looks like. You see what the county used to be. I think there is a built-in nostalgia in people," he said of his collection stored in boxes at his home on Olive Avenue.

WHY DOES HE feel such a strong tie to the past? "I don't know. I guess it's like voting Republican," he said.

He and his wife have traveled throughout the state photographing paintings and lecturing about California art.

He said his wife, a former professional photographer, taught him to use a camera because she was too short to photograph paintings in galleries.

Now he is the official Ross photographer as well as town historian and police and fire commissioner. Outside the town, he has served on the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission for the past two years.

Jones is also a member of the Marin County Historical Society the American Right of Way Association, the Society of Real Estate Appraisers and the Marin County Real Estate Board.

HE WAS A founder and member of the Ross Property Owners Association from 1960 to 1962.

His background is exclusively Marin County. His grandfather, Dr. William Farrington Jones, set up practice in San Rafael in 1888 and helped found San Rafael General Hospital, now a nursing home.

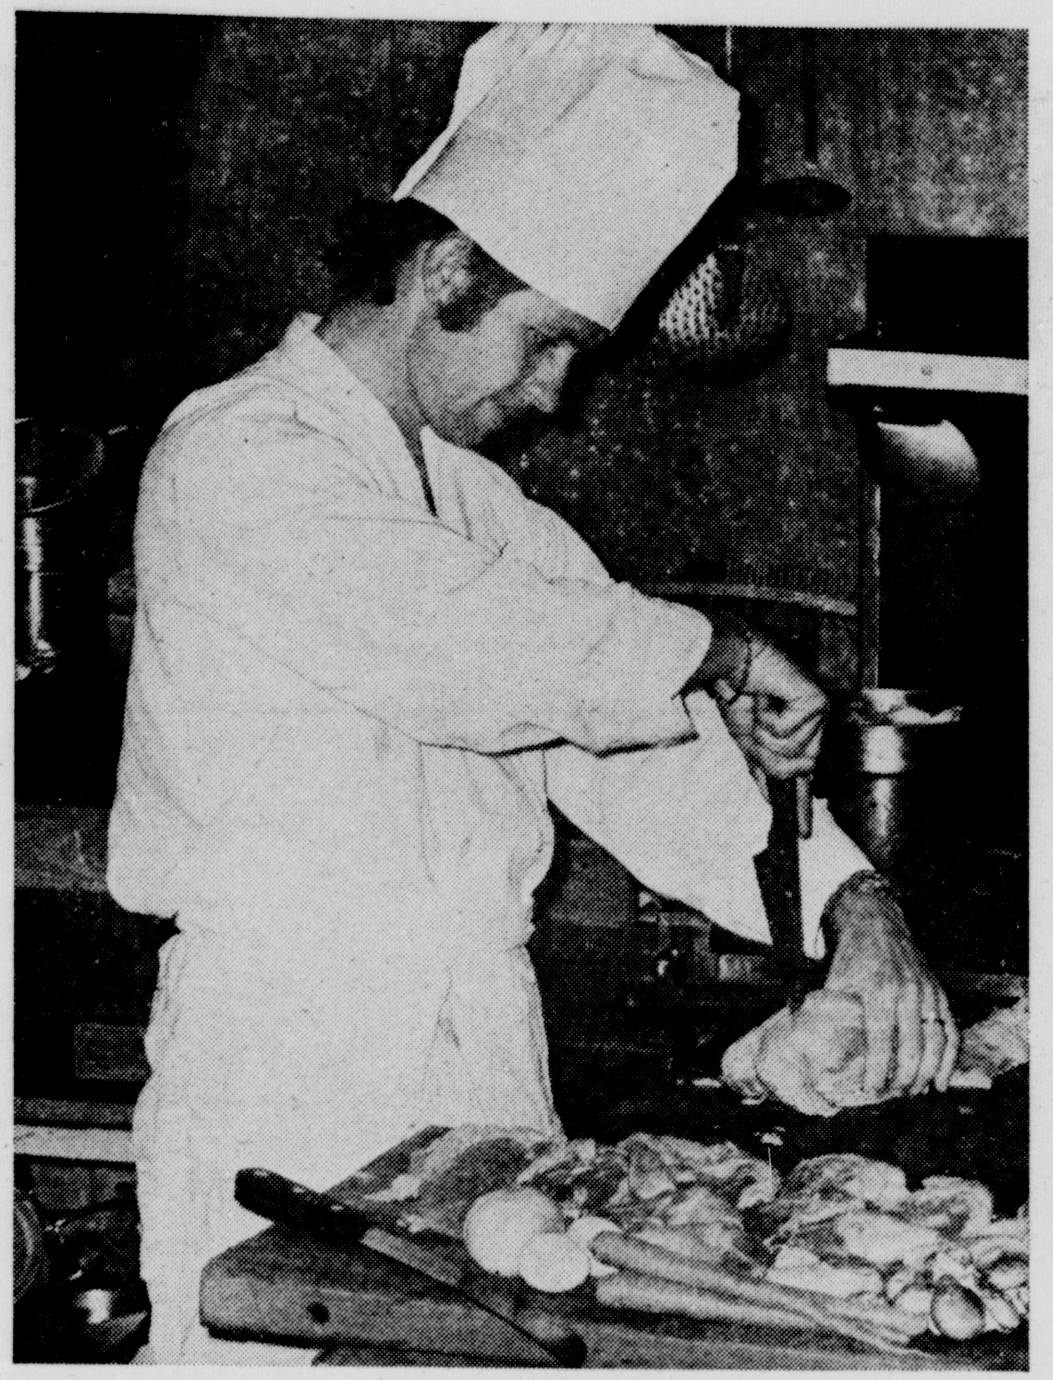

His father founded the family firm in San Rafael and moved it to its present site in 1930. At 81 Farrington L. Jones is still the senior partner.

Reared in San Anselmo, the younger Jones graduated from Tamalpais High School in 1942 and enrolled at the College of Marin. After a stint in the Navy Hospital Corps during World War II, he returned to the college for 1946, then went into business.

HE HAS TAUGHT a night class on appraising at the college for the past five years.

A New Life For A Mill Valley Tradition

Restaurant In El Paseo Again Feeds And Charms Its Visitors

By BRUCE WILLIAMS

A Mill Valley tradition was brought back to life last Jan. 6 when the El Paseo Dining Room quietly reopened for business.

It all began when Edna Foster bought the property on Throckmorton in the tough times of 1936. Then it was merely a plain front store with a couple of flats upstairs. But the Fosters had plans.

OVER THE years preceding World War II they bought up the property leading back to Sunnyside Avenue in the rear and dreamed of an arcade of small and cozy shops.

The 1941 affair at Pearl Harbor cancelled that. Small business properties went begging, so they were converted into temporary housing for service personnel.

Meanwhile in Rome, A. B. Costigan, U.S. Army, who did much to preserve and restore the architectural charm of Mill Valley, was drawing plans for El Paseo by candlelight in the cold and echoing halls of one of Benito Mussolini's vacant civic buildings.

IN THE SPRING of 1948 El Paseo came to life with its restaurant and shops reeking pleasantly of Spanish mission atmosphere. The arcade floor was rough-laid red brick, the terra cotta flower pots hanging fore and aft had come from Guatemala half a century before, and some of the door handles had been salvaged from a sunken sailing ship.

For the next eight years the restaurant passed from one proprietorship to another until, finally, Edna Foster said to waitress Mary Harkins, "This place needs what you've got. You take it over."

Mary Harkins did — and more. She had heard the clamor for specialty hot breads and started experimenting withpopovers. She didn't know the restaurant business and she didn't know popovers — so she taught herself both.

THE RESTAURANT trade is a risky business, but Mary Harkins made El Paseo click. And she learned how to make popovers "sit up" for freezing and sold them to the gourmet trade. But it was a demanding affair, taking 16 hours a day.

Last November, after 15 years of this routine, Mrs. Harkins stepped out of the restaurant business and now gives full time to her frozen delicacy at the new, Terra Linda home of Mary Harkins' Popovers.

To foretell that two young Germans, born a scant 200 miles apart, would roam the world, meet in San Francisco, and wind up as partners on Mill Valley's Throckmorton Avenue would have taxed the liveliest imagination of a gypsy fortune teller. But that's the way it worked out.

GUNTHER KOLLNER was born to the restaurant trade. His parents operate a small hotel in the ancient town of St. Blasien in Germany's Black Forest, and he was a stripling of 14 when he entered a three-year's apprenticeship in Frankfort.

From there, Kollner moved through the pattern which is the happy lot of those who excel in catering to lovers of fine food — Switzerland, England, Gibralter, Holland, Belgium, France —, usually managing to spend his winter tours of duty on the ski slopes of the Continent.

He ranged further afield as steward on the Holland-America Line's Statendam and started his Western Hemisphere career as dining room captain in Bermuda's Carlton Beach Hotel.

KOLLNER HAD been angling for entry into the United States and, when his immigration papers came through, he bade farewell to Bermuda and spent the next four months traveling around the country, finally landing in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. He put in the next four years there as waiter captain at Le Dome of the Four Seasons.

Inevitably, the time came to move on and Le Dome's maitre d' gave Kollner a pat on the back and a copy of the book

EL PASEO, a quiet arcade of colorful small shops off Mill Valley's Throckmorton Avenue, acquired its present character after World War II, bringing to fruition the dream of owner Edna Foster and of its designer A. B. Costigan. A traditional part of the charm of El Paseo has been its restaurant or dining room. And now, after a brief closure, it is serving fine foods to hungry patrons once again, under the new management of two young men from Germany. Both Gunther Kollner and Mark Bottmeyer brought with them to Mill Valley international backgrounds in gourmet cuisine.

"Great Restaurants of the United States."

Also inevitably, he arrived in San Francisco five years ago and stopped one Saturday morning at a red traffic light on Montgomery Street. The book was open on the seat beside him and, there beyond his windshield, was the sign, "Ernie's."

Dotto: "Can you start Monday?"

Mark Bottmeyer was also destined for the restaurant business, but he was cursed with an itchy foot. That was to make his final arrival a circuitous business.

After six years of public school and two years of high school in cold and misty Bremerhaven, he entered his waiter apprenticeship in a ocal restaurant. But his eyes and thoughts were on maps and notices of maritime movements in the daily newspapers.

The apprenticeship lasted just two months before he shipped out as a bellboy aboard the Arosa Star for bright and colorful ports of call around the world.

AT THE END of Two years, Bottmeyer had advanced to waiter and had arrived in Melbourne about as far as one can get from Bremerhaven without leaving the earth entirely.

It wasn't easy going for a 16-year old who could scarcely speak the language, and Bottmeyer started his Australian adventure pumping gas for a filling station in the remote mountain resort town of Katoomba.

It was a matter of ladder-climbing all over again — scrubbing pots and pans, jobs as assistant waiter, then waiter. At the end of 10 years on the

Fine Wine Flows And Food Is Served In El Paseo Again

THE DINING ROOM in El Paseo offers a romantic, candlelit atmosphere with soft background music and flames dancing in an old brick fireplace. It offers, too, a French cuisine and an impressive wine list. And already it is attracting turn-away crowds at times, although its new owners have been operating it less than two months. subcontinent he was managing The Chelsea in Sydney.

BUT THEY had been good years, taking him all over Australia and particularly to seaside hotels where the swimming and surfing and diving were good, much as his present partner, Kollner, had gravitated to Alpine ski resorts.

Again the itchy foot syndrome set in. Aboard the Arosa Star, Bottmeyer had seen and fallen in love with San Francisco.

He arrived in the spring of 1968 and soon was waiting table at Ernie's. There, the new proprietorship of El Paseo was born.

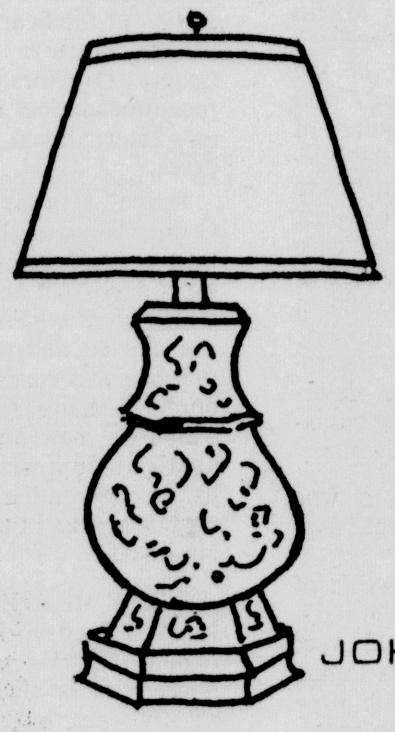

As the El Paseo story begins again, Chef Kollner is running the kitchen while Waiter Captain Bottmeyer manages the front end of the store.

THEY'RE AIMING at nothing less than excellence in food and wine. The cuisine is cooked-to-order French — seafood, beef, fowl, veal and lamb.The wine list is impressive with an inventory of 150 cases of fine European and domestic varieties which s quite respectable for a cozy rendezvous seating about forty diners.

Kollner and Bottmeyer aim to prove that first-rate, intimate dining needn't be expensive. A couple can figure on about $16 for entree, dessert and a bottle of wine.

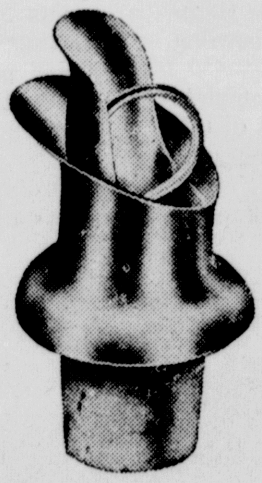

If the starting days of an eating establishment are any index, the new El Paseo should make the grade in grand style. Only a month after opening (without publicity) they were having to turn customers away and appear to be rapidly heading toward reservation-only status.

ONE OF the 2,465 women who make up the membership of the Marin County Women's Bowling Assn. and compete in some 100 leagues at four Marin bowling emporiums tries to bring down the three still standing pins with her second ball. The scene is the Country Club Bowl in San Rafael, site this weekend and last weekend of the association's annual county championships. Marin has had its own women's bowling unit since March of 1960, when there were 25 leagues and some 800 women bowlers in the county.

Their own very active association, now 12 years old, gives them an effective voice in the conduct of the sport in this county.

Marin's Women Bowlers — 2,465 Strong

By DON KEOWN

Bowling is one of those few sports in which women compete, literally, on the same footing with the men.

They use the same lanes, roll the same balls, suffer the same frustrations, experience the same triumphs, and often roll up scores that are comparable to those of the males.

And Marin women take full advantage of this opportunity to enjoy athletic competition as full equals when so often, in other games and recreations, they are relegated to spectator status or tolerated as second class participants.

IN MARIN County the "voice" of these distaff athletes is the Marin County Women's Bowling Assn. with a membership of some 2,465 card-holding bowlers who strive for strikes and spares at four lanes in the county — Country Club Bowl in San Rafael, the Greenbrae Lanes in Greenbrae, Nave Lanes in Ignacio and the Hamilton Air Force Base bowling alleys.

THEY ARE part of a nationwide force of three million enthusiastic women bowlers and a state-wide army of a million California women dedicated to the sport and affiliated with the state organization.

Often working jointly with the male bowlers' organization, the Marin County Bowling Assn., the Marin women sponsor an active program of special events for the cause of better bowling, including a flourishing junior program under American Junior Bowling College auspices and the publication of Marin's bowling "Blue Book" recording the official statistics as of each April 15 for members of both the men's and women's organizations.

Often working jointly with the male bowlers' organization, the Marin County Bowling Assn., the Marin women sponsor an active program of special events for the cause of better bowling, including a flourishing junior program under American Junior Bowling College auspices and the publication of Marin's bowling "Blue Book" recording the official statistic as of each April 15 for members of both the men's and women's organizations.

Charitable benefits for worthy causes are another activity, headed by the Bowler's Victory Legion Tournament, dating back to World War II and benefiting America's war veterans.

A VIGOROUS tournament program is conducted, culminating in the annual City Tournament that is actually a county championship. The event alternates among the Nave, Greenbrae and Country Club lanes, and the 1972 tournament began last weekend at Country Club Bowl and is being completed there today and tomorrow.

The Maric County Women's Bowling Assn. can trace its beginnings back to a Sunday, March 27, 1960, when 55 Marin County residents who were members of the San Francisco Women's Bowling Assn. met at Carpenter's Hall in San Rafael to form their own unit.

Winifred Berger of Novato called the meeting to order as the representative of the Women's International Bowling Congress Inc. and acting for Agnes G. Duffy, then organization committee chairman for the California Women's Bowling Assn. Inc.

AT THE TIME there were 25 leagues with some 800 women bowlers active in Marin. And from that number 490 signatures had been obtained on the application for withdrawal from the San Francisco unit so that Marin could proceed with the formation of its own association.

The two challenges presented to the women attending that 1960 meeting were:

First, was there sufficient interest and potential membership for the formation of a Marin association?

Second, did the women want to take on the added responsibility of conducting their own "city" tournament without the backing of the San Francisco unit?

THE ANSWERS to both questions, it was decided, were affirmative.

Julie Smith of Hamilton Air Force Base was chosen the temporary chairman, and later in the meeting elected the association's first president. Selected to serve with her were Corina Bacigalupi, first vice president; Ruth Rowen, second vice president; Marilyn Epidendio, secretary; Frances Wayman, treasurer, and Dorothy Rosso, sergeant-at-arms.

A constitution was drawn up stating the purposes of the new organization as:

1. To include in a central organization all qualified Women's International Bowling Congress members in Marin County. The Marin association was to be subsidiary of the international parent body and fulfill all the duties required of it by that congress.

2. To maintain and increase interest in the game of bowling, and to exercise general care and supervision over the activities it would initiate or conduct with WIBC approval.

3. To conduct an annual association tournament to determine the women bowling champions of Marin County.

THE ASSOCIATION, it was determined, would operate as a non-profit organization.

The first official meeting of the Marin County Women's Bowling Assn. was held Aug. 21, 1960, at the Bermuda Palms in San Rafael, at which time Mrs. Smith resigned as president and Marilyn Epidendio was elected to succeed her, becoming the Marin unit's first full-term president. Jean Molino succeeded her as secretary.

City tournament rules were also adopted at that meeting.

IT WAS THE beginning of a steady pattern of growth for the association and for women's bowling in Marin County, and the late Corina Bacigalupi was a particularly tireless worker in those early years.

Rose Marie O'Neil is the current president of the association with Bea Hoffmann and Ann Arnott as her first and second vice presidents respectively, Doris Sooy as secretary, Marge Kenyon as treasurer and Leemoi Be ey as seargeant-at-arms.

Varene Helbing is the junior past president and a director, Past presidents Marilyn Epidendio and Maxine Bryden, and Frances Wayman have been honored with life memberships in the county association and Mrs. Wayman in the international congress as well.

An executive board and directors meeting is held once a month with the location rotating among the four lanes upon which the Marin women do their bowling.

AT THESE meetings, an upcoming tournament might be planned, a workshop for league secretaries arranged, an intra-league problem or dispute heard and settled.

The officers and directors act as a hearing board for such problems between teams, or perhaps between a league and its lanes. Lesser questions are settled at the hearing. On more major matters, the Marin County directors make their recommendation to the Women's International Bowling Congress.

Twice a year the Marin County Women's Bowling Assn. holds general membership meetings — an annual meeting in March at which new officers are elected and other association business conducted, and an open meeting in August at which the new officers are installed, committee reports heard, convention delegate reports given and the yearly dues approved.

SINCE THE years of World War II, bowling and bowlers have taken a special interest in the welfare of veterans and their hospitals. tion of 10 will attend the California Women's Bowling Assn. conclave in San Jose. Earlier that month, May 1, 2 and 3, six delegates will be in Kansas City, Mo., for the Women's International Bowling Congress convention.

The Marin County association now has two auxiliary units — the Marin County 500 Club, formed in 1968 and open to members who have bowled a 500 or better series in sanctioned league play, and the even more exclusive Marin County Women's 600 Club, requiring a 600 series and formed in January of 1961 with a membership of but six.

THE MARIN County 500 Club currently has a roster of 104, headed by Sharon Safina as president. Marge Kenyon serves as a director of the California State 500 Club to which 34 Marinites belong.

The Marin County Women's 600 Club has increased its membership to 69, with Sylvia Asay as the current president.

Both units conduct their own tournament programs. The 500 Club group, wearing their own distinctive shirts and patches, hold an annual championship tournament for members (won in 1971 by Flora Thurber), an invitational tournament to which members of another 500 Club are invited, fun tournaments conducted at Hamilton Base, and a doubles event initiated last year and scheduled again for this June.

THE 600 CLUB holds a Queen's Tournament and a Princess Tournament, with Penny Tauscher and June Heinman the current crown-wearers respectively. The Queen's Tournament winner represents the Marin club in a state event, to be held this spring in San Jose. And a 600 Club bowler-of-the-month is chosen monthly on the basis of high three-game scores rolled in league competition.

A high spot of the year, annually, for the Marin County Women's Bowling Assn. is the Bowler's Victory Legion tournament, part of a nation-wide charity effort that raises hundreds of thousands of dollars for veterans' hospitals across the United States.

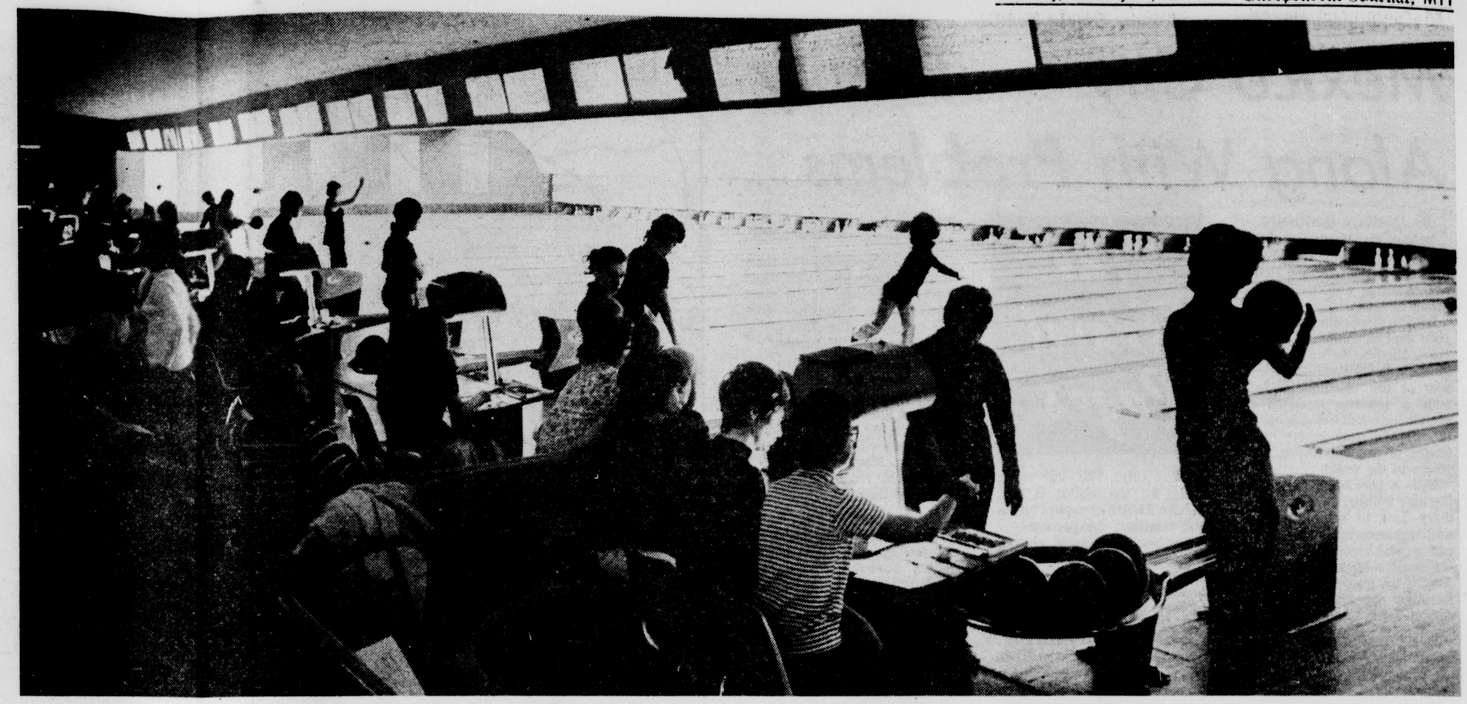

For the past two years the Marin women, as sponsors, have invited Marin male bowlers to take part in the event.

THE LANE WITH the largest number of entries traditionally hosts the finals of the Victory Legion tournament which this year raised $3,376 in profits for the veterans' hospitals and programs.

The tournament was begun in 1942 as a means of supplying World War II fighting forces overseas with recreational and other materials, and continued after the war ended at the behest of Col. Theodore Bank, then chief of the U.S. Army Special Services and now the president of the Athletic Institute, who felt that such financial support was vital to the rehabilitation of hospitalized and blinded war veterans.

A seeming unending flow of such badly needed supplies as wheelchairs, handicraft materials, projectors, television sets, radios, copies of The Sporting News and other sports guides, and recreational equipment — including, naturally, bowling balls and shoes —have gone to the hospitals and the men and women there.

BUT A PRIME reason for the organization of a separate Marin County affiliate of the International Women's Bowling Congress was to enable the Marin women to conduct their own "city" championship. And the city tournament to determine county champions remains annually the competition highlight for the membership.

THERE'S ACTION APLENTY at the Country Club Bowl lanes this Thursday morning as teams two and four of the Sleepers' League compete at right with Bobbie Hoover ready to bowl, Dot O'Bayley awaiting the return of her ball, Margo McNeil watching the play, and Sue Van Meter and Jean Baker at the scorer's table. Further down and to the left, other teams in the Sleepers' League clash.

The tournament currently under way at Country Club Bowl is the 12th such tourney to be conducted under MCBA auspices, the first one having been held in 1961 at Greenbrae. Mitzie Brown of Novato won both the handicap and scratch titles in the 1971 event.

Doris Sooy, association chairman, is in charge of the 1972 tournament which opened last weekend, and concludes today and tomorrow.

CLINICS HAVE been sponsored including a 1971 appearance by Helen Duval, a member of the Women's International Bowling Congress Hall of Fame, at the Nave Lanes.

Nationally, women's bowling has yet to hit the "big time" and the big purses for televised tournaments go to the males. But in Marin, the women play no secondary role. They outnumber male bowlers. And many bowl comparable scores.

In fact last fall an all-female team representing the Hat Racing Enterprises Co. invaded the previously all-male 900 Limited League at Greenbrae Lanes to compete regularly against masculine opposition. It marked the first such invasion, and the women's entry, composed of some of the best female bowlers in the county, has been making a strong showing in the male league ranks.

INCLUDED ON the Hat Racing team is Bea Hoffman whose 715 series, put together with 245, 234 and 236 games, still ranks as the highest series to be rolled in Marin County Women's Bowling Assn. sanctioned competition in the county.

TYPICAL OF the enthusiasm and energy of Marin's women bowlers is Ann Arnott of Sausalito, the association's second vice president and a former physical education teacher who came to California from Boston and discovered to her delight that she had moved into a hotbed of bowling.

"Before I came to California I had never played the game with tenpins," she says. "In Boston, it was all the taller, thinner candlepins, where you roll three balls instead of two, and where you play the deadwood.

"The higher scores of the tenpins make it a much more exciting game."

WHY IS California such a center for this indoor sport, claiming approximately one-third of the estimated three million American women who bowl regularly, when its climate offers so much opportunity and enticement for outdoor activity?

Ann Arnott answers: "I think it is because California is so recreation-minded, and so mobile. Women are not tied to the home, and they can get around and reach the bowling lanes."

Bowling received a tremendous boost, she notes, when the bigger lanes began including nurseries to provide care for small children while their mothers bowled.

The level of performance among women participants has also risen steadily, she adds, noting that "up until the last couple of years only a very few women held a 170-game bowling average. Now quite a number do."

MRS. ARNOTT herself averages a 170 score per game.

As a professional in physical education, she is quick to challenge those who belittle bowling as a form of exercise and for its contribution to physical fitness.

"I don't agree with those who claim bowling is overrated as exercise," she says.

"If you bowl regularly, you are bound to burn up a lot of energy. You can do that even by walking steadily. And bowling is a lot more active than plain walking."

"And one of the big rewards from bowling are the friendships you achieve with the women you bowl with or against. I wouldn't trade these relationships for a 700 series."

Mexico City — Beauty Along With Problems

The Travel Pages

By JAMES N. GOODSELL

Both descriptions contain a good deal of truth.

For Mexico City with its traditional colonial architecture and way of life blending so well with a modern approach to architecture and living is one of the world's most severe challenges of urban pollution anywhere in the world.

With a population approaching nine million, growing at the dizzy rate of one-third of a million people yearly, the Mexican capital could well become the world's largest city in the 1980s if the growth continues — and there appears to be little to slow it down.

Heavy industrial smog coupled with choking vehicular fumes blanket the area through much of the year, cutting off the spectacular scenic views of snow-capped volcanoes that ring the city.

What is more disturbing to Mexicans is that the smog has cut back sharply in the amount of sunlight that traditionally has warmed this 8,000-foot-high city.

Despite these problems, Mexico City is a happy spot for the visitor and serves as one of the major gateways to the world. Not only do the majority of the two million United States and Canadian visitors each year touch on Mexico City during their visits, but the city serves as the gateway to much of Central America as well.

BUT BESIDES being a gateway, it is also an end in itself. There is plenty to do and see in Mexico City. The interesting thing for the visitor is that Mexico's bustling capital city is still relatively inexpensive.

The tourist can spend what he wants. If he is on a limited budget, there are no end of free or extremely low budget things to do —from visiting the spectacular National Museum of Anthropology and History, where Mexico's storied past is laid out in ultramodern displays, to taking a bus ride out to the sprawling, modern campus of the National University of Mexico, which, incidentally, is the oldest in the Western Hemisphere.

In addition, the tourist with only very modest means can find quite attractive hotels to match his pocketbook.

ON THE OTHER hand, there is the much more expensive sort of hotel for the tourist for whom luxury is requisite.

Nowhere in Latin America does the tourist have so much to choose from. Here is the pretentious and new but not-too-gaudy Fiesta Palace on the Paseo de la Reforma, a street no tourist can overlook with its many hotels, shops, old mansions and even the modernistic United States embassy. Equally attractive is the 10-year-old Maria Isabel, which has been a standard favorite for many visitors from the United States. The hotel is adjacent to the embassy.

The Camino Real, just a short distance from the Paseo de la Reforma, belongs in the same class of htels, with prices similar to those in the cities of the United States and Canada.

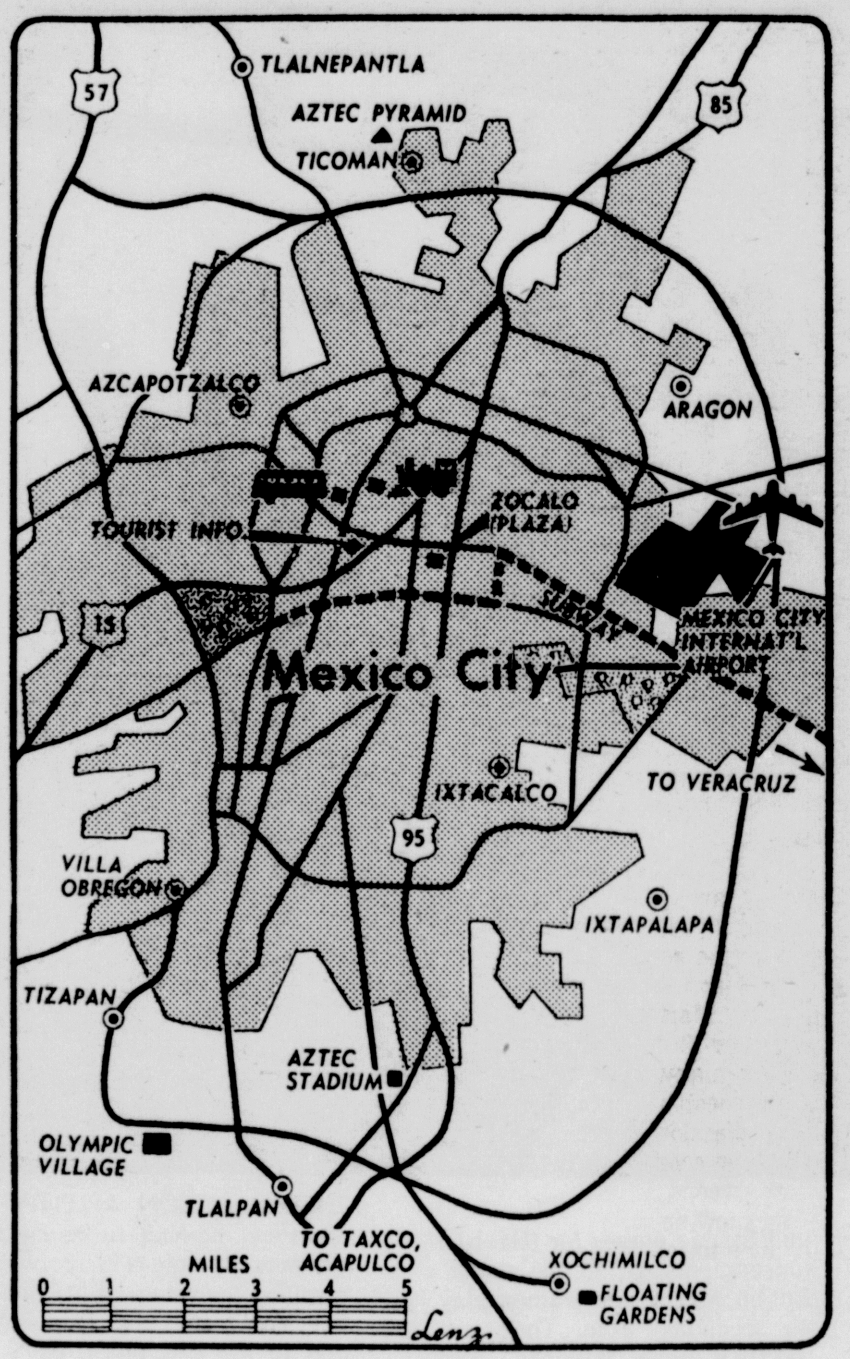

Equally attractive are the less expensive hotels such as the traditional Geneve in the heart of the city's most attractive shopping district, the Zona Rosa, just off the Paseo de la Reforma. Many of these hotels offer double rooms for considerably less than $10 a night.

RESTAURANTS FALL in the same category. One place the tourists should not miss is Sanborns, a chain of restaurant variety stores scattered over the city. Try a Mexican dish for a quick lunch such as tacos de pollo con guacamole (chicken tacos with guacamole sauce), and a Mexican soft drink, Sidral Mundet, a sort of carbonated apple juice.

For a more relaxed lunch, there is no more pleasant spot than the San Angel Inn, out near the new university campus in that part of town known as San Angel where the colonial atmosphere still lingers. The restaurant itself is housed in an old colonial structure that conserves much of the past. While there is an eloquence about the service the prices are moderate.

In a city so sprawling as Mexico City, there are problems in getting around.

Taxis are, however, relatively inexpensive, especially those that are on general duty throughout the city, but they are sometimes hard to find. Those that await the tourist in front of his hotel are three and four times more expensive — and quite frankly ought to be used sparingly.

ONE PLACE TO get an idea of the variety in Mexican handicrafts is Sanborns. Most branches of the chain have extensive displays of these crafts.

The tourist will find bargaining possible in markets, but not too often in the established stores, so if you are buying in the capital city you might as well accept the store price.

The weather in Mexico is nice throughout the year, but you will want a light wrap for evening wear and in the summer months you'll need rain gear for that afternoon shower which invariably comes. Although dress customs are changing, too much exposure is frowned on in Mexico. Save such clothing for beach resorts such as Acapulco.

MANY MEXICAN restaurants require coats and ties for men and look askance at such things as hot pants, although women's slacks are more and more being accepted.

One last suggestion: Be sure to take a ride on Mexico City's subway system, one of the most modern in the world. It will give you more of a flavor of modern Mexican life than visits to many of the tourist haunts. Each station along the route is an architectural gem.

Flight Bag Is Traveler's Best Friend

In these days of carry-on luggage, the flight bag has assumed a variety of shapes and sizes, but its basic function remains the same — an easy-access container for those little, often-used items you need on any vacation.

The flight bag can be a hodge-podge of strange and unrelated items or, carefully packed, it can prove to be a source of rejuvenation for those trying periods that inevitably arise during a long trip.

THE AMERICAN Automobile Assn. urges packing the flight bag with the necessary disposables of travel — tissues, soap, individual hand cream containers, and the other small items which only you decide you will need.

Packing the flight bag with as many disposable items as possible has an added purpose. When it is empty — or nearly empty — at the end of the trip, it can be used on the return journey as a receptacle for dirty linen or for myriad souvenirs you are bound to buy.

A side pocket is a desirable feature on any flight bag as a handy holder for note pad and pencil, individually packaged cleansing tissues, chewing gum, smoking materials or a variety of other odds and ends.

A well-packed flight bag for the male traveler will include his shaving gear. If the rest of the luggage goes astray — a possibility not to be discounted — the familiar razor is a comforting item to see you through your first hours in a strange hotel.

The lady traveler will need her makeup kit and the wherewithal to restore her coiffure. Since perfume and other liquid items are inclined to leak at high altitudes, these, too — well sealed and wrapped in plastic — are best put into the flight bag.

SHE WILL ALSO feel more prepared for a strange climate if she has readily at hand a plastic rain hat and coat. There also should be room for a fresh blouse, hose and walking shoes.

Golf Binge In Land Of Don Quixote

Don Quixote would probably be swinging at a golf ball today rather than tilting at windmills.

Spain, the sun-caressed Land of Don Quixote, has so warmed to golf that many observers believe the number of courses will double within three years. A few years ago there was only a handful of courses in Spain. Today there are 39.

Spain's golf binge is most pronounced along the Costa del Sol resort area on the southern coast. Golfers can play a different links every day in the week in the Marbella area and eight new layouts are under construction. Ten more are being planned.

Virtually all of the Spanish courses are either private or connected with resort hotels, such as the new Andalucia Plaza in Nueva Andalucia, on the edge of Marbella. The 6,800-yard, par-72 course is considered by many sportswriters as the toughest in Europe. Only a few professionals have carded below-par scores on the layout, which sweeps from the foothills of the snow-peaked Sierra Blanca range to fairways fringed by olive groves and sandy beaches along the Mediterranean coast.

TO TRULY savor the flavor and charm of Puerto Rico, the tourist should not confine his visit to San Juan, but should travel the coastline and visit the towns and sights of the island's interior. He will find there a growing number of lush resorts complete with hotels and recreation facilities. He will find, too, the Spanish architecture for which Puerto Rico is justly famed. Each town has its own distinctive plaza. The one at left is in Ponce on the south coast.

Henry James Made Human

HENRY JAMES, THE MASTER: 1901-1916 by Leon Edel, Lippincott, 591 pages, $12.95. Reviewed by Alice Dalbey.

Leon Edel in his magnificent biography of Henry James — of which this is the fifth and final volume — has produced not only a work of heroic scholarship but also may have accomplished a minor miracle.

He has humanized an author who had no desire to be popular and who frankly and deliberately wrote for readers he described as "the better sort."

James' "better sort" were the intellectuals, the habitues of universities, the critics, the upper classes who had the leisure and willingness to become absorbed in his convoluted sentences and intricate plots. This group still is his primary audience.

Yet Edel, by precisely marshalling his sources and by presenting his facts in clear, readable prose that only occasionally sounds like Henry James, has revealed this meticulous bachelor-expatriate, this enigmatic genius, as a warm human being with whom most readers, whether or not they are "Jamesians," will be concerned.

Henry James was suspicious of biographers and attempted to frustrate "the post mortem exPloiter" by burning most of his diaries and letters. Yet he could ot destroy those of his friends and family, nor could he burn the letters he had written to them. Hence Edel has had vast resources, many of them unpublished, from which to draw.

James was an intensely private person who believed that "an author was what he did — nothing else," and that the small facts of his day-to-day life were irrelevant. Yet these small facts give this biography much charm.

James' guiding principle of conduct was "to be kind," and Edel shows him being kind, in the most trying circumstances, to literary friends — Edit Wharton, Edmund Gosse, Mark Twain, Ford Madox Ford, H.G. Wells — as well as to his kin, his secretaries and valets, the wounded soldiers he visited during World War I, and to the streams of important and insignificant people on whom he focused his compelling personality or fixed his "great grey-blue eyes."

Writers and scholars will be interested in the detailed accounts of James' working habits. He was orderly, methodical, and forced himself, in order to save time and money, to learn to dictate directly to a typist. During long silences, while he pondered the perfect word, his secretaries were allowed to sit quietly, to smoke or to knit.

Edel believes that most of James' material for his psychological novels came from his own life. While some of Edel's speculations may be far-reaching (scholars will quibble with certain interpretations), most of his theories are documented.

Especially interesting are his comments on James' late recognition of the power of physical love. The later novels — particularly "The Ambassadors" and "The Golden Bowl" — reveal far greater understanding of passion than do his earlier writings. Edel theorizes that this is the result of James' associations with various handsome young men — Edel terms them "acolytes" — with whom James had romantic friendships.

These attachments, illuminated by quotations from James'letters, suggest homosexuality to a contemporary reader; but Edel ints that if James had such tendencies they probably were not indulged by this sensitive, correct son of a proper New England family.

Edel discusses James' return to the U.S. in 1904, his first visit home after 20 years abroad. He lectured, toured the country, and concluded that San Francisco was "a poverty of aspect and quality." He described the country as "too huge, simply, for any human convenience . . . and so unutterably empty."

Close upon his return to England, James wrote of his joy in "having done with barbarism." Yet, in spite of his fear of "a money-grubbing democracy," he later wrote that "one's supreme relation is one's relation to one's country."

But shortly before his death James renounced this supreme relation and became a British subject. Edel's explanation of this action — for which James was severely criticized in the U.S. — is sympathetic and understanding.

Readers who know Henry James' works will be fascinated by this account of his final, perhaps his greatest and most productive years. Readers who know little of either James or his writings will be entranced by this lucid, vivid, carefully-composed Portrait of a Gentleman.

JOE FRAZIER and MUHAMMAD ALI

The Conventional Champion

COME OUT SMOKIN': JOE FRAZIER — THE CHAMP NOBODY KNEW by Phil Pepe; Coward, McCann and Geoghegan, 224 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Lew Coddington.

This biography of world heavyweight boxing champion Joe Frazier meets a high school sophomore's three criteria for great literature — few pages, large print and lots of pictures.

There simply is not much to say about Frazier. He is blunt, straightforward and conventional; a devoted family man, a hard worker, a determined fighter. All the usual stuff. As a result, author Phil Pepe is reduced to cliche and repetition in describing the events of Frazier's life.

The prose will never be cited in future English textbooks for its complexity or profundity, but at least it is inobtrusive, and enables the reader to press swiftly forward through Frazier's life.

"When he is on stage and the audience does like him, that's the top of the world for Joe Frazier. It's the same as fighting. Belting out a song is like belting out an opponent. Singing and being liked are like hitting another fighter with a good left hook, solid, right on the chin. It's power, it's making you feel you're the boss, you're in charge. That's what Joe Frazier is all about and it doesn't make him any different from any one of us."

If you want to discover what Joe Frazier is basically about, quickly and easily, look into this book. If you want penetrating analysis or great style, look elsewhere.

Indians Have Their Say

TOUCH THE EARTH, compiled by T. C. McLuhan: Outerbridge and Dienstfrey, 173 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

"Touch the Earth," sub-titled "A Self-Portrait of Indian Existence," is a collection of statements by Indians themselves, interspersed with photographs of Indians in the affairs of their own lives — instead of fighting whites, as usually pictured.

Central to the collection is the Indians' strong, religious feeling toward the earth itself and all it produces, such as the statement by Big Thunder of the Wabanakis: "The Great Spirit is our father, but the Earth is our mother." Many of the statements chosen for the book reflect this feeling — and the Indians' distress because it was not shared by their white adversaries.

"Touch the Earth" will add its bit to understanding of American Indians. It also is a beautiful book, the photographs having been very well selected. Unfortunately, it contains no credit to the photographers.

A Family And Life On The Inlet—

Many people talk of wanting to "get away from it all" — this is the story of a family that did just that.

Lisa Hobbs was a reporter with the San Francisco Examiner; husband Jack was a teacher, head of the science department at a private school. They had long looked for a summer retreat that would be really removed from "civilization," but had not found what they wanted. Finally, on a trip to Canada, Jack found it —a small house on an acre and a half of land along Uchucklesit Inlet in British Columbia. He hired a pilot to fly him over it for a look and made an immediate decision to buy it. Then he called his wife.

The Hobbs family, Lisa and Jack, their two sons and a Great Dane named Bjorke, were delivered to their very own dock by the steamer Lady Rose in June, 1967, to spend the summer. Their water and electric power came from their own creek; there was a wood-burning stove in the kitchen and a fireplace for heat. Supplies were delivered to Kildonan, as the area was known, twice weekly by the same steamer.

They explored their land, made repairs and improvements, visited nearby islands and waterways, made friends with the few residents up the inlet, but mostly they took in the solitude and purity of the atmosphere. They found that they were living by listening to their own needs, as far as rest and meals went, rather than following a standard schedule.

By summer's end they reported that they enjoyed the hard work and isolation and had many new experiences to cherish. They returned to San Francisco and jobs in September but Mrs. Hobbs knew that it was not going to work —especially for Jack. Two days back at teaching and he already had "end-of-the-school-year" symptoms. She describes the change in her attitudes during that last winter in San Francisco that enabled her to join Jack in his desire to move permanently to Kildonan.

When the decision was announced their co-workers accused them of running away; they felt they were not running away, but "going to."

The following June they arrived home, in Kildonan. She details their struggles to make do with the facilities there and writes of their deep love for the beauties of nature that abound there.

This book has a lot to say and Lisa Hobbs says it well.

A Secret And Very Dirty War

By DON KEOWN

Journalists, historians, politicians and protesters frequently refer to the killing in Vietnam as "a dirty war." Which, indeed, it is.

But the truth is that, through history, there has never been a clean war, except in the unseeing eyes of the hopelessly romantic or the blindly jingoistic.

Even if the strife in Vietnam were ended, peace restored to Ireland, Mideastern tensions eased and the Indian-Pakistani rift permanently healed, there would still be some very dirty wars around to soil this abused globe.

The continent of Africa happens to be the scene of some especially terrible bloodletting at this time, although you rarely read about it in your newspapers, other than for occasional one paragraph "fillers" on inside pages reporting a nebulous victory claim by one side or the other. But these wars — in such remote places as the Sudan and Angola — are being fought with shocking brutality and contempt for human life.

Again and again, it is the same old sorry story. Of an oppressor, and of desperate victims who revolt. Of rebellion met with intransigence and cruelty. And of rebels who then reply in kind with terror tactics of their own.

Nowhere has this unhappy plot been followed more faithfully and more tragically than in Angola where Portugal has continued to cling to one of the earth's last vestiges of the colonial system now in such disrepute. For more than five centuries Portugal has dominated, colonized and exploited Angola. And under that yoke the Africans have failed to realize even the material benefits that some of their neighbors derived from such a contact with the West, largely because Portugal itself has been too poor in resources to afford the luxury of generosity and charity.

On Feb. 4, 1961, the militant organization, the Movimento Popular de Libertacao de Angola (the MPLA), proclaimed a revolution against the Portuguese rule. Since then the fighting has been going on sporadically, but with increasing ferocity, in the cities, villages and jungles. And westerners, numbed by their own inability to solve bloody conflicts in which they are more directly involved, have largely ignored this fierce and bitter strife.

Most Americans today are not even aware that there is a war in Angola — or, for that matter, what or where Angola is. And very few of those who are aware of this almost secret war for liberation are informed as to the causes and the issues.

They can lessen that ignorance by reading the new book, "The Revolution in Angola: MPLA, Life Histories and Documents," by Canadian anthropologist-writer Don Barnett and journalist-photographer Roy Harvey. They can learn a lot — but they will also leave a lot still unlearned.

For one thing Barnett and Harvey have chosen not to write a book, but rather to assemble a record.

Thus "The Revolution in Angola" consists of documents reprinted verbatim, the transcripts of interviews, the text of speeches and proclamations, the first person histories of typical revolutionaries, etc. It is, then, a one-sided, partisan record, with the Portuguese afforded no opportunity for rebuttal. And it is a record that focuses strongly upon some events and aspects while omitting or barely touching upon others.

One has the feeling that as trained observers and professional writers, Barnett and Harvey might have served their purpose better by writing their own text, based upon this and other material they surely have collected in their visits to Angola and their research elsewhere. This would have permitted them to evaluate the more propagandistic pronouncements, and to have filled in the gaps the record leaves with narrative.

Still, what they have collected is sufficient to convince most of the justice of the MPLA cause, and of the inevitability of its eventual triumph.

The life stories related by men and women of the guerrilla forces are particularly impressive. They detail a shameful exploitation of blacks by whites before the revolution, a situation of terrible want in which the day-to-day scramble for just sufficient food to survive was all-encompassing. And of Portuguese indifference to that plight. And they make clear, too, the determination and the devotion to their cause which now permit these ill-equipped and ill-trained Africans to persist in their war against heavy technological odds and despite great suffering and hardship.

It is the kind of dedication that has also confronted an at-first disbelieving West in Vietnam and Algeria.

Thinking Americans will be dismayed, too, to learn of the resentment against United States that has festered among the Angolan patriots, who reason that only U.S. military aid (generally provided under the NATO guise) and U.S. economic help (both by government and private corporations) have enabled Portugal to press its war with the MPLA. Without such help, MPLA leaders argue, Portugal would have withdrawn from Angola long ago, to husband her thin resources for use in the home country where poverty remains a critical problem.

As a result, the Angolans identify with and sympathize with the Viet Cong and North Vietnam in their struggle. And when Angola does enter the world community as a free nation, you can bet that it will not be as any friend of the USA. It is a familiar and disheartening story of another lost opportunity for Uncle Sam to champion the cause of individual freedom and to win the friendship of an emerging people.

Nationalism is the MPLA theme today. But socialism will be its way of life tomorrow. That did not automatically dictate an Angolan line-up with America's Communist rivals. But now such an alignment appears inevitable. And, of course, any such links with the totalitarian colossi of Communism could well have tragic consequences for a fledgling Angola, as it already has had for other young states.

These are disconcerting thoughts as one reads this written record of a brave people's struggle. But basically, one cannot help admire the consecretation which these Angolans, ill-fed, ill-armed, ill-educated and ill-served by other peoples, have brought to bear in their reach for independence and dignity. It is grievous and deplorable that a people must undergo the ordeal of a "dirty War" in which men, African and European alike, will die and will be mutilated, before such simple entitlements can be won.

A LEADER of the MLPA's Popular Militia was photographed in Angola by Roy Harvey and included in the several pages of illustrations for their book, "The Revolution in Angola: MPLA, Life Histories and Documents."

THE NEW list of Comstock Editions paperbacks from Ballantine's western division in Sausalito includes Curt Gentry's best-selling "The Last Days of the Late, Great State of California," as well as E. H Cookridge's "The Baron of Arizona" about the colorful rascal James Reavis, and Mrs. Hugh Brown's "Lady in Boomtown."

Sleuths & Suspense

Newly widowed, young Rachel Harwood arrives in London from the Far East to make her home with her late husband's family. Her reception is a mixed one, but even this does not prepare Rachel for what eventually develops into a series of determined attempts upon her life.

It is formula fiction right down to the required romance between Rachel and her strangely aloof young brother-in-law. The plot is predictable, including the identity of the dastardly villain behind the attempts against Rachel's life. But those addicted to the genre will forgive and forget all this in their relish of the setting and atmosphere — a great house on the foggy and dank banks of the Thames near the Tower Bridge — and the period — the late Victorian era. These the author, a pseudonym for an English husband-and-wife writing team, does very well.

Praising The Petunia

By MILLICENT TAYLOR

There ought to be some special award given to petunias just for being petunias. Fragrant and long bloomers, they are the glory of the garden.

With their many forms and colors an entire border can be filled with them to look as if it were planted to dozens of different kinds of flowers.

Each year, too, there are new ones. The hybridizers never let us down.

One winner made the 1972 All-America Selections, Circus Hybrid Double. It is a handful of lovely loose ruffles, deep reddish salmon and white, the white tipping all the ruffles.

ANOTHER newcomer is Petunia Maxi, named for the maxi skirts. They are big singles, about three inches across. Colors are red, violet-blue, pink, salmon and white. (Do you love white single petunias? I do.)

Another Grandiflora Double Lace is Valentine, a rich red as it should be with that name. It is a fluff of fringed and ruffled petals.

FANTASY, IN the same class, also new, is a mass of ruffled, slightly fringed petals in variegated deep blue (almost purple-blue) and white. The huge flowers present an unusual harlequin effect.

There are many more of these Giant Double Grandifloras, any of them good as specimens. One is tempted to raise several in pots or tubs on the patio or penthouse where each can be admired by itself.

Despite the doubles, fringed, and all-doubles, I confess that my favorites are the singles, although I will accept them ruffled. Among a strain called Giants of California, Frolic is a true conversation piece. The blooms are immense, six to eight inches across, and strong so that they aren't floppy. The wide-throated flowers are beautifully marked, the colors red, rose, white, pink, salmon, and combinations.

Another is Super Fluffy Ruffles, really a single like Fantasy, but the petals so frivolously ruffled it might be a double. Pink, rose, deep salmon, and crimson.

I raised Sugar Plum two summers ago — masses of reddish purple with deeper star centers. Everybody asked: "What are they called?"

THERE IS SOMETHING especially satisfying in your gardening in doing something undeniably different. For instance, while your neighbors are battling dandelions in their yard, you might be growing them in your garden. The one pictured above is the Burpee Dandelion as shown in the new Burpee seed catalog, available free by writing the W. Atlee Burpee Co., Riverside, Calif., 92502. The company reports a small but steady demand for its dandelion seeds. Its green leaves, boiled, are considerably better eating than those of the wild variety, and its heart can be eaten like endive, given the right treatment. A tea can be brewed from its roots. And the yellow blossoms make a delicious dandelion wine. Such a harvest, too, will prevent them from going to seed and scattering about the yard and neighborhood.

Enough? No wonder your day is spent more in the kitchen than anywhere else in your home. It ought to be a showplace. And one of our handsome Armstrong floors can help it become exactly that.

Do something nice for you. Come visit us and see the more than 300 gorgeous Armstrong floors you have to choose from.

Blooms To Usher In An Early Spring In California Gardens

INDIVIDUAL varieties of Flowering Quince all but usher in the New Year, but have hit their peak bloom season now in February. While Flowering Quince is a plant which grandmother enjoyed in her youth, it's extremely popular today. Accounting for the popularity are the lovely shades of color bred into newer varieties.

You can choose from white, several shades of pink and rose, and intense red hues.

A treat is in store for the gardener who has winter Daphne in his garden. When Daphne begins to bloom, the waxy pink flowers are appealing in appearance — and perfume the entire garden.

FORSYTHIA livens up the surroundings with its abundance of yellow blooms and is a larger-growing landscape shrub. This is true, too, of Weigela, another deciduous shrub, which flowers and flowers —the red or pink varieties are profuse bloomers.

India Hawthorns (Raphiolepis) have come into bloom throughout the state. The low-to-medium shrubs are landscape favorites because of their lovely evergreen foliage and long-lasting mass display of color — in shades of pink and red.

Azaleas and Camellias are obvious choices for cool season color. Some varieties begin to flower in fall, others are in full bloom now and there will be yet other varieties carrying the color or standard in spring and early summer. The varieties available at nurseries are numerous.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

✓You can prune your fuchsias anytime now. They bloom on new wood, so don't be afraid to cut back the old growth.

✓Now is the time for grafting your fruit trees, if you have any such projects in mind. It is a good way to get a better variety fruit from an established tree.

✓In planting citrus fruit trees, give them a warm, sunny location. Don't overlook their possibilities in tubs, as well as in the outdoor landscape.

THE MORE WE look upon our life inside our homes as an escape from turmoil and tension outside, the more likely we are to accept deeper colors in fabrics and paints. This cheerful yet comfortable apartment living room was designed by interior designer Duke Piner to use KayLyn Inc.'s Provincial furniture covered with a delightful bandana-print fabric that is also mounted on the walls.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

Darker Colors Gain Popularity

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY

Everywhere I go I hear professionals talking about their preference for darkj coloring in paint and fabric.

It's not just a current fad. As long ago as 1968, interior designers Frank Austin and Bill Lane of Los Angeles were specifying navy blue walls and deep, chocolate brown paint colors for walls and ceilings.

WHEN YOU talk about the darker tones, you should try to separate them from dull, flat colors. Most of the deeper wall colors being used by professional designers have a special luster to them. Very often a high gloss is used or what the designers call a glazed finish is executed by the painter.

It's expensive, but it does provide that gleaming highlight that makes the difference between today's dark tones and yesterday's drabs.

If the idea of painting a room chocolate brown leaves you rather cool, you might want to experiment with one of the interesting printed fabrics for upholstery and wall covering. Or you might try one wall of patterned paper in a generally bright-or light-colored room.

AND YOU won't be alone because according to most paint manufacturers the most popular colors are still the whites, bright yellows and beiges.

The room pictured here features the more subdued colors in a fabric by Bassett McNab called Bandana. The design mixes deep burgundy, purple and sandy-beige with tiny touches of bright blue and orange. The fabric, mounted on the wall, has been used to cover a broad, built-in shelf-table and used flat and quilted on the love seat.

The room was designed by Duke Piner, who selected a handsome line of French provincial furniture as the focal point for his scheme. The pieces are made by KayLyn Inc. and they lend themselves to use where some of the traditional French country-house look can soften the harshness of city life.

THERE ARE other ways to introduce just a little bit of the darker, subdued colors.

In a small room, a bright red, white and blue striped wall covering could balance three walls and a ceiling of deep blue. In a basically beige room with little architectural character and a high ceiling, the overhead coloring could be deep chocolate or coffee color. Floor covering could pick up the light and dark values plus blue or orange.

Bathrooms needn't be blindingly bright, especially the guest powder room. So a plum-colored wall could be an effectiva background for raspberry red and pale-blue bath towels and accessories.

This 20th Century Music Box Saves Space, Enhances Decor

Handyman's Pages

By STEVE ELLINGSON

Beautiful music doesn't have to come from a drab box anymore — not when you can combine an exciting new concept space-saving speaker with a decorator designed table.

The combination results in a novel conversation piece for your living room and is easily and inexpensively built. No one would ever suspect that your table is part of a sound system until you "turn it on."

BASICALLY the table holds a new easily-installed space-age speaker which is unlike the old-fashioned cone speakers. The new speakers are omnidirectional which means that sound emanates from 360 degrees. It's a new experience in sound reproduction.

You can connect the table-speaker to your hi-fi, radio or tape recorder. You can even connect it to a transistor radio. The resulting crystal clear sound will delight and amaze you.

The tapestry prints in each panel serve as the speaker grille. Although the unit shown here may look complicated, construction is simple. Standard mouldings available at all lumber yards are used throughout, thus eliminating the need for fancy tools or equipment. In addition to a few hand tools, the table saw was the only power tool used.

THE FULL-SIZED pattern contains many pictures showing the various stages of construction, along with easy-to-understand directions and a list of required materials.

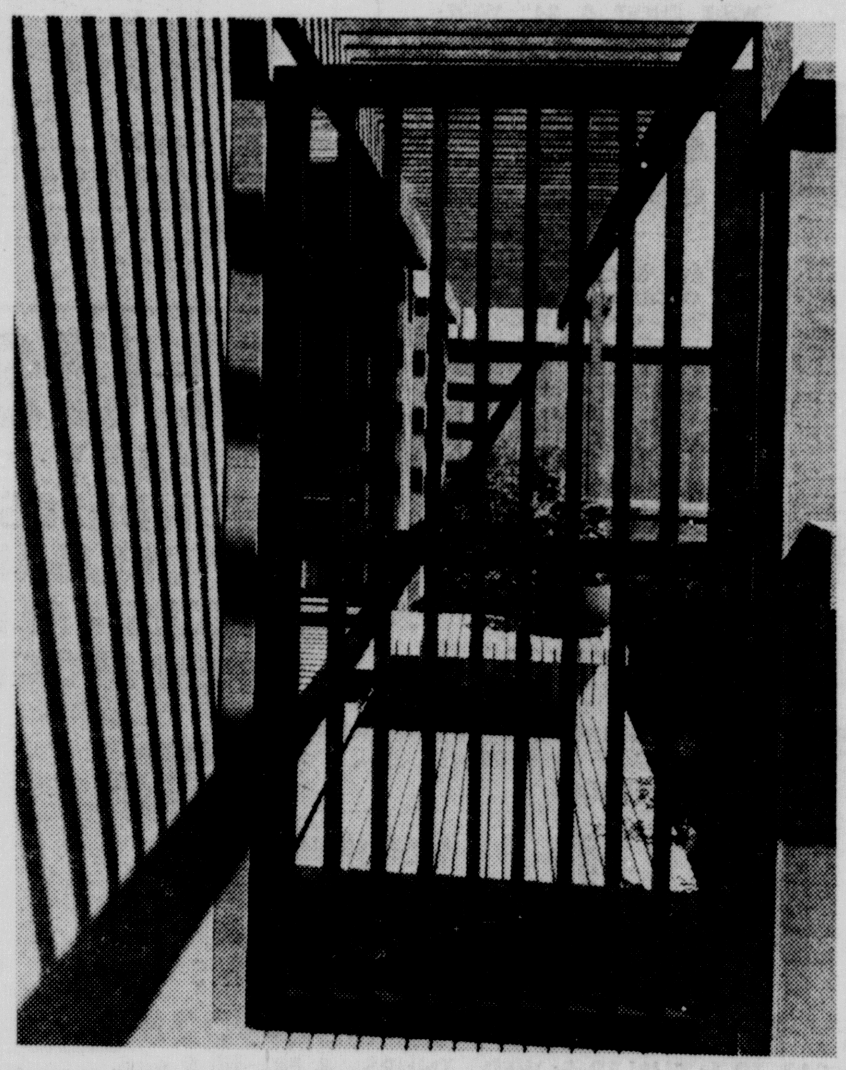

ACTRESS Gail Carroll of the "Laugh-In" television series pays heed to the music coming from a decorator table that contains inside a hi-fi and stereo speaker, and which has been built by a home handyman with the help of a Steve Ellingson pattern.

To obtain the full-size speaker-table pattern — No. 500 — send $2 to Steve Ellingson, San Rafael Independent-Journal Pattern Department, Post Office Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif., 91409.

Some other Ellingson patterns to add both utility and ornamentation to your home are No. 478, home office, $2; No. 367, television cabinet, $1; No. 217, poker table, $1, and No. c-12X, assorted birdhouses, $3.

A SWINGING GATE TO DRAMATIZE THE ENTRANCE TO YOUR HOUSE

THIS all-wood entry court to a home is highlighted by a tall entry gate of western wood that casts dramatic shadow lines. The gate swings beneath a sun trellis of Douglas fir that is supported by construction of post and beam. The enclosure screen, the deck and bench are all built from western cedar. Numerous fences and gates that can make a creative as well as functional addition to your home landscape are outlined and illustrated in a full-color, eight-page brochure, "Fences," that is offered free by the Wood Products Industry Fund, Box 1696, of 1240 Bayshore Highway at Burlingame, Calif., 94010. Send for your copy.

Consider Convenience If Building Specialty Closet

Specialized storage closets, for linens or cleaning equipment and supplies, should be located close to areas served and often can be built in spaces too small to accommodate full-size closets.

A linen closet should be as close as possible to bedrooms, but smaller closets could be added in bathrooms for towels and wash cloths, and in dining room or kitchen for table linens.

Door openings should be eight feet high and about as wide as the closet, to allow storage all the way to the ceiling and for easy access on the sides. Ideal linen shelf depth is 12 to 16 inches, about the width of two one-by-eight-inch western pine boards.

No single location for a cleaning closet is convenient to all areas of the house, so it may be best to split this storage.

A floor-to-ceiling cabinet about 12 inches deep (depending on bulk of vacuum cleaner) and three feet wide should be sufficient, with upper third devoted to shelves.

THIS FAMILY ROOM can still serve its original purpose, but the presence of desks, cabinets and shelves make it a home office as well, and the addition of a convertible couch with bifold wooden doors equips it for use as a guest room, too, when the need arises. The cabinet top adds yet more versatility when used as a serving counter for entertaining.

Merge The Family Room With Your Home Office

Just as the family room established itself during the past two decades, the home office is becoming a fixture with many families, used by both husband and wife and in some cases as an extra study area for students.

Home offices are added in many places, including bedrooms, basements, kitchens and at the end of a hallway. Simple framing-in of a desk, drawers, and a shelf or two is all that's usually needed.

THE FAMILY room, in addition to other varied uses, often has a corner that's natural for an "office." In many homes, it's near the kitchen for menu planning and recipe filing, or making and answering phone calls during a busy day.

For the husband who doesn't require solitude while working at home, a desk in the family room allows him to maintain contact with the family. Others who must have a quiet area may finish a room in basement or attic, keeping the mood cheerful with good lighting and light-toned wall paneling such as western hemlock.

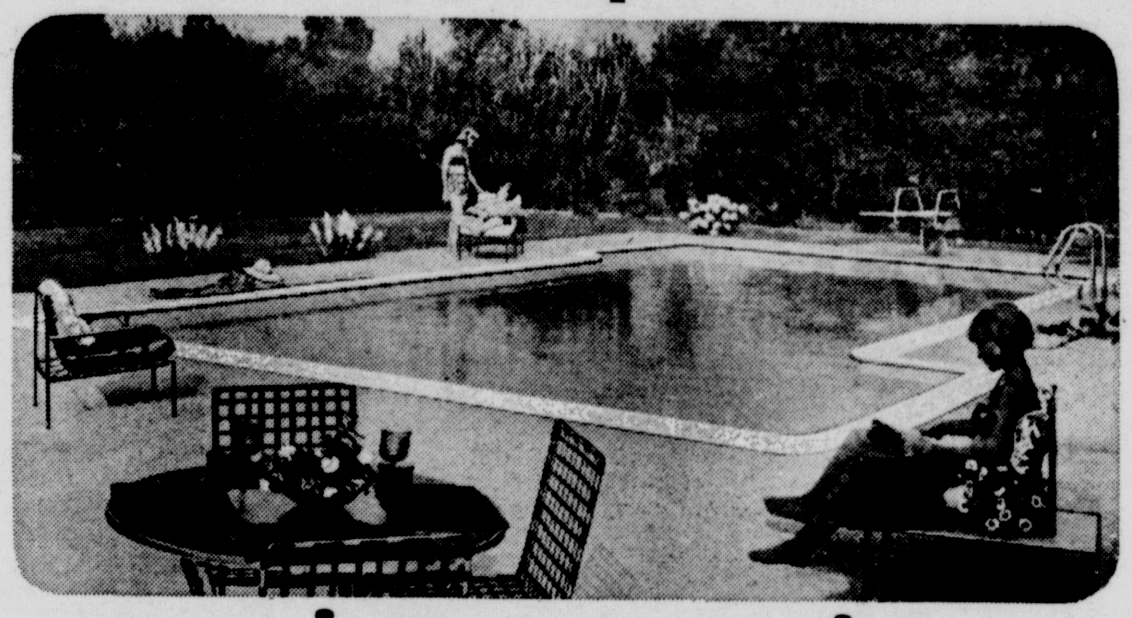

The household treasurer finds the family room office a convenient place for paying monthly bills or working on income tax returns. Letter-writing is much easier when stationery, stamps and other supplies are kept together.

AN ATTRACTIVE way to add an office is to build a desk into one corner, near windows for natural light if possible, and extend low built-in cabinets along the wall. The cabinets do double duty as serving table when entertaining or for buffets.

Shelves of western pine boards mounted above the cabinets and desk keep reference books and recipe files handy. A telephone, small adding machine and typewriter make this a versatile area.

For families that can't spare the space for a full-time guest room, a couch that converts to a bed further adds to the multiple-use of the family room.
